PREFACE TO VOL. XLIX

Following is a synopsis of the documents contained in this volume:

CXV. In the preceding volume, Chaps. i.-ii. of the Relation of 1663-64 were presented; the remainder of the document is herewith given. A letter by Nouvel continues his account of his experiences among the wandering Algonkins. At Easter, they show great piety and zeal, several voluntarily scourging themselves; and they obey the Father in all his commands regarding their customs. He rewards them with a feast of "sagamité, seasoned with fat and with smoked Moose-flesh. A little piece of tobacco was their dessert." He then proceeds to the north shore of the St. Lawrence, with a band of Papi-nachois Indians; his diary of this voyage, and of a visit to another and neighboring tribe, is given in the Relation. They coast along the Labrador shore, and ascend the Black River to Lake Manikouagan; Nouvel claims that no European had ever before been seen in this region. He names the lake for St. Barnabas. A considerable number of savages are at this rendezvous; they build a chapel for Nouvel, and he celebrates the rites of the church and instructs these neophytes. The entire company seek and receive baptism. These people are gentle, kind, honest, and virtuous; and "they know not what drunkenness is." Nouvel meets an intelligent savage from the far interior, who tells him of new lands and tribes to be conquered for the faith.

The remnant of the Hurons at Quebec are constantly advancing in faith and piety, of which various instances are recounted. One of these disciples "intends to make, at her death, the blessed Virgin heiress to all her possessions." A letter from one of the Ursulines describes the remarkably devout behavior of an old Algonkin woman, received by the nuns in charity.

Even in the land of the Iroquois, there is a Christian church — which, although in captivity, is full of devout resignation and fervent piety. Not only the enslaved Hurons and some French prisoners are included therein, but some of the Iroquois themselves are zealous Christians. Notable among these last is Garakontié, a leading Onondaga chief. He has kept up the chapel erected in his village by the Jesuits, and built "a French house for the missionaries whom he expects." He has ransomed many French prisoners, and has risked his life in this work of charity. Among the Frenchmen still detained at Onondaga is one, the oldest of all, who is a sort of pastor for all the Christians there. The Indian women bring their infants to him for baptism; and he rebukes any dereliction from duty on the part of the Frenchmen. The Huron captives hold secret meetings, and recite all the prayers they know. A letter of Allouez details the conversion and pious death of a Seneca Indian at Montreal.

A chapter is devoted to the captivity and adventures of two French soldiers, made prisoners by the Mohawks. They are about to be burned to death, when an Onondaga envoy asks their lives, that they may aid in securing a treaty with the French. This being granted, he sets out with the prisoners, but deserts them on the way. After many hardships, they reach Onondaga, aided by the protection of the Virgin, and the charity of some women. One of these is a Huron captive, who, as a girl, had been reared and educated by the Ursulines at Quebec; another is an Iroquois matron, who is filled with pity at the misery of the fugitives.

In the spring of 1664, an Iroquois embassy of unusual importance and dignity is despatched to Quebec with overtures of peace, and the request for Jesuits to live among them. So often have they done the same thing in treachery, and so crafty are they, that the French dare not trust them. It is generally supposed that the Iroquois ask for peace mainly as a matter of policy, since they have recently experienced great losses through war, disease, and famine. This embassy is attacked on the way by Algonkins, and dispersed, several Iroquois being killed, and others captured. The French now see themselves in danger of still more cruel war, by which the Iroquois will seek revenge for this disaster. A postscript, taken from a letter written after the Relation had been sent to France, mentions another embassy sent to Quebec by the Cayugas.

CXVI. Lalemant continues the Journal des Jésuites for 1665, until August 3; he is then succeeded by Le Mercier. At New-Year's, the Jesuits pay the customary visit to the governor (De Mézy), "although he was on bad terms with us and with all the Ecclesiastics." Later, he becomes very ill, and the Jesuits, after much labor, effect his reconciliation with the church; he dies on May 5. Soon after this, Allouez leaves for Quebec for his mission among the Ottawas, and Nouvel for his among the Papinachois.

In June arrive the ships from France; on them are several Jesuits, and—most welcome of all, in the great need of the colony—a regiment of soldiers. With them comes also the Marquis de Tracy, appointed royal lieutenant-general for the French possessions in America. The troops forthwith begin work on a new fort at the mouth of Richelieu River. Le Mercier becomes superior of the Canadian missions, August 6, in place of Lalemant. On that day, a great trading-fleet of Ottawas comes down to Three Rivers; on their return, Allouez goes with them. Tracy commands the habitants to supply 800 cords of wood for the soldiers who are to winter at Quebec. On September 12, more high officials arrive—the new governor, De Courcelles; and Talon, the intendant. About this time, the superior remarks: “Up to the present, nearly 20 heretics have been converted.”

The new governor reestablishes the old council, dissolving that appointed by De Mézy. The Jesuits plan to enlarge their work for the coming year, and to ask for new missionaries; they also decide to ask for a printing outfit, intending to issue publications in Huron, Montagnais, and Iroquois. October 2, an important accession to the colony arrives—a ship from Normandy brings eighty-two girls and women, and one hundred and thirty laboring men.

In November, François du Peron dies at Fort Richelieu; and, a few weeks later, Simon le Moyne, at Cap de la Magdeleine. Charles le Moyne arrives at Quebec, December 2, with an Onondaga embassy, who, as usual, talk of a peace. They are feasted by the Associates and by the Jesuits.

CXVII. The Relation of 1664-65 is sent by François le Mercier, the new Canadian superior. We present herewith but the first five chapters; the remainder will appear in Vol. L. Some copies of this annual contain a letter (which we here reproduce) written by the superior of the hospital nuns at Quebec, dated October 23, 1665. It gives some account of their labors, which have been greatly increased this year. She thanks her correspondent, "a citizen of Paris," for aid sent to this hospital. More nuns are needed there, but they should have dowries, that the hospital funds may be used solely for the poor. The writer mentions the constantly-increasing expenses that must be incurred in their work, and adds a list of medicines, utensils, etc., which they need, requesting her correspondent to secure these for the hospital. She mentions certain Huguenots who, after being cared for by the nuns, renounced their heresy. The list of articles needed for the sick fully justifies the praises given by the Jesuits to the Quebec hospital and its devoted nurses.

The Relation proper begins with an urgent appeal for more missionaries. The coming of troops from France has encouraged the hearts of all the people in Canada, and especially of the Jesuits; for now there is hope that the Iroquois may be humbled, and the way opened for the establishment of missions. Le Mercier relates the circumstances connected with Tracy's commission to visit all the French possessions in America, and that official's voyage and doings in pursuance thereof. When he arrives at Quebec, he is received with great honors by all the people, the officials, and the ecclesiastics. The Huron and Algonkin allies of the French also welcome Tracy after their own fashion — that is, with harangues and presents, all of which are described at length.

A Frenchman who has spent the past year among the Ottawas, and has come down with their trading-fleet, relates to the priests many interesting particulars about the tribes of the great Northwest. Allouez goes with the Algonkins on their return to Lake Superior, to take the place of Ménard there. Tracy sends by him presents and messages to the tribes whom he is to visit, promising the Algonkins the aid of French troops, and exhorting them to embrace the faith. Le Mercier relates the erection of the three new forts on the Richelieu River, which Tracy has ordered; in this connection, he describes “the Iroquois country, and the routes leading thither” — that is, the Richelieu-Champlain and the St. Lawrence-Ontario waterways.

[36] CHAPTER III.

A SECOND LETTER ON THE SAME SUBJECT.

MY REVEREND FATHER,
Pax Christi.

You have seen in my preceding letter the most important events that occurred during my wintering with the Savages; you will read in this one what occurred from that day on which I had the pleasure of writing to you, up to the twenty-first of April, when we crossed the great river saint Lawrence, to enter the lands of the North. Having begun my first Campaign under the favorable auspices of the holy family [37] of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, I experienced on several occasions how greatly God approves of our asking favors of him through the mediation of Jesus Christ, who has earned them all for us, and of our appealing to the blessed Virgin and saint Joseph as to the most powerful Advocates whom we can have with our adorable Savior. I am bound to publish the following for the greater glory of that visible August Trinity.

On the eleventh day of March I lost my way in the woods, which I had entered with the intention of pushing on to a mountain whence the sea may be descried—having undertaken this excursion as a walk, the day being very fine; and I found myself in great perplexity when I had to return to the Cabin. Instead of retracing my steps, I [38] decided to try an entirely new path, thinking thus to shorten the way;

tout nouveau, croyant abreger par ce moyen : mais ie fus bien esloigné de mon compte ; lors qu'ayant marché iufques à la nuit, ie connus parfaitement que ie m'estois perdu, & ie me trouuay en peine : car de m'arrefter, ç'eut esté m'expofer à mourir dans les neiges pendant les rigueurs d'une nuit ou tout geloit ; mais auffi de marcher tousiours dans les obscuritez de la nuit, c'estoit me mettre en grand danger de m'esgarer de plus en plus ? Dans cette perplexité, je me mis à genoux, & je dis mes Complies ; apres quoy m'estant adressé à Iesus, Marie & Ioseph, par vn vœu que ie fis à l'honneur de cette tres-Sainte, & tres-Auguste Famille, comme si i'eusse esté conduit par vn guide, ie changeay ma route ; & ie donnay à travers vn bois bien espais, où il [39] y auoit du moins six pieds de neige ; i'arriuay heureusement apres beaucoup de fatigues, à une petite riuere, toute glacée, par ou i'auois passé quelques iours auparauant ; & là m'estant reconnu, ie me rendis enuiron sur les onze heures du soir au Cabanage. Ie ne scaurois exprimer la joye de mes pauvres Sauvages à mon arriuée. O que nos cœurs estoient tristes, me dirent-ils ; nous n'auons iamais peu dormir, dans la pensée que nous auons que tu auois esté tué par les Iroquois, ou que tu mourrois de froid t'estant esgaré dans les bois ; Nous auons tous prié pour toy, celuy qui a tout fait. Rendons luy grace, leur dis-ie, de la faueur que ie viens de receuoir de sa bonté. Iesus, Marie & Ioseph, ont eû pitié de moy, m'estant adressé à eux, ils m'ont redressé dans mon esgarement ; [40] ayons recours à eux dans nos besoins, ils nous assisteront. L'action de graces estant faite, n'ayant pas apperceu dans la Cabane le but I was much out in my reckoning. After walking until nightfall, I recognized perfectly that I had lost my way, and I found myself in a difficult situation; for to stop would have been to expose myself to death in the snow during the rigors of a freezing night, while to go on in the darkness of the night was to put myself in great danger of wandering farther and farther astray. In this perplexity I fell on my knees and said my Compline; after which I prayed to Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, and made a vow in honor of that very Holy and August Family. Then, changing my course as if directed by a guide, I traversed a very dense wood, where there [39] was at least six feet of snow. After enduring much fatigue, I came luckily to a little stream, entirely frozen over, which I had passed some days before; and recognizing the locality, I reached the Camp toward eleven o'clock in the evening. I cannot express the joy of my poor Savages at my arrival. "Oh, how sad our hearts were!" said they to me. "We could not sleep at all, thinking that thou hadst been killed by the Iroquois, or that thou wert dying of cold after losing thy way in the woods. We all prayed for thee to him who made all things." "Let us give him thanks," said I to them, "for the favor which I have just received from his goodness. Jesus, Mary, and Joseph took pity on me; I called upon them when I had gone astray, and they set me right again. [40] Let us have recourse to them in our necessities and they will assist us." After our thanksgiving, as I had not seen in the Cabin the Frenchman who accompanied me, I asked where he was, and was informed that, being anxious about me, he had gone into the woods toward evening to look

François qui m'accompagnoit, & ayant demandé où il estoit, on m'apprit qu'estant en peine de moy, il estoit entré sur le soir dans le bois pour m'y chercher, & que sans doute, ayant trouué la piste de mes raquetes, il feroit à la faueur de la Lune tout le chemin que i'auois fait. Cette nouuelle m'affligea, i'apprehenday autant pour luy, qu'on auoit apprehendé pour moy; mais celui qui redressa mes pas dans mon efgarement, le reconduisit heureusement à la Cabane, ie le remerciay de sa charité, il me dit que i'auois couru grand risque si i'eusse continué ma route vers le Midy; mais qu'au lieu ou i'auois fait vne pause (c'estoit le lieu ou ie dis mes Complies, [41] & fis mon vœu) ie m'estoit parfaitement redressé, & que deslors i'estois venu par le chemin le plus court, à la Cabane.

Le quatorziesme nous arriuafmes sur le bord du grand fleuve de saint Laurent; nous prîmes plaisir de faire rouler nos traînes sur la neige, au trauers d'une belle hestriere, où nos chasseurs auoient tué des Orignaux quelques iours auparauant. La beauté du pays nous adoucit toutes les incommoditez & fatigues du chemin: nous admirafmes la prouidence de Dieu, qui ne nous voulut pas priuer de la consolation de dire & entendre la sainte Messe. La traîne du François, où vne partie de nos prouisions estoit, luy estant eschapée des mains à la descente d'une montagne, alla donner contre des arbres, qui la mirent en pieces aussi bien que ce qu'elle [42] portoit, à la reserve d'une bouteille, ou il me restoit vn peu de vin pour la Messe iusques à l'arriuée des Chaloupes de Kebec. Tous nos Sauvages regarderent cela comme vn petit miracle.

for me; and that without doubt, having found the marks of my snowshoes, he was following, under favor of the Moon, the entire route which I had taken. This news disturbed me, and I was as apprehensive on his account as the others had been on mine; but he who set my steps aright in my wandering led him back safely to the Cabin. I thanked him for his kindness, and he told me that I had run a great risk, if I had continued my route toward the South; but that, at the spot where I had made a pause (it was the place where I said my Compline [41] and made my vow), I had set my course exactly right, and had come by the shortest way to the Cabin.

On the fourteenth, we arrived at the bank of the great river saint Lawrence. We took pleasure in making our sledges glide over the snow, through a fine beech forest where our hunters had killed some Moose several days before. The beauty of the country alleviated for us all the inconveniences and fatigues of the journey; and we admired God's providence in ordaining that we should not be deprived of the consolation of saying and hearing holy Mass. The Frenchman's sledge, which carried a part of our provisions, escaping from his hands in going down a mountain, ran against trees which shattered it, as well as what it [42] bore, with the exception of a bottle in which I had a little wine left for Mass until the arrival of the Shallops from Kebec. All our Savages regarded this as a little miracle.

On the eighteenth, we prepared ourselves for the celebration of the feast of saint Joseph, Patron of New France. Our Savages began with a strict fast and Confession, which they made on the evening before. On the day following this Confession, they heard Mass and received Communion with great devotion, favored by the beautiful day which God gave us. After telling their Beads in the afternoon, they prepared a fine bonfire for the evening, there being no lack of wood for this purpose. I chanted the Te Deum with the two Frenchmen, and the Savages [43] added their spiritual hymns, besides the discharge of their rifles, which they redoubled in testimony of the respect and confidence which they have toward this great Saint. Those who, being still out hunting, did not take part in this solemnity, rendered their homage on the day of the Annunciation of the blessed Virgin, for whom the Savages have an especial tenderness.

Le dixhuitiesme nous nous disposasmes à la celebration de la feste de saint Ioseph, Patron de la Nouvelle France: nos Sauvages commencerent par vn ieufne tres-exact, & par la Confession qu'ils firent la veille. Le l'endemain apres s'estre reconciliez, ils entendirent la Messe, & firent leur Communion avec beaucoup de deuotion, à la faueur du beau iour que Dieu nous donnoit. Apres auoir recité le Chappelet l'apres midy, ils preparerent vn beau feu de ioye pour le soir; le bois ny manquoit pas. Apres que i'eus chanté le Te Deum, avec les deux François, les Sauvages [43] y adiouterent leurs chanfons spirituelles, & la descharge de leurs fusils, qu'ils redoublerent, pour tesmoigner le respect & la confiance qu'ils ont en ce grand Saint. Ceux qui estant encore à la chasse, n'auoient pas assisté à cette solemnité, firent leurs deuotions le iour de la feste de l'Annonciation de la sainte Vierge, pour laquelle les Sauvages ont vne tendresse particuliere.

Le vingt & vniesme nous tentasmes de passer sur la glace à l'Isle aux Basques, pour nous mettre à couuert des Iroquois, dont quelques vns disoient auoir eu quelque aperceurance à la chasse; mais quelque glace ayant rompu sous nos pieds, nous fumes obligez de rebrouffer, nous auions desia fait vne bonne lieue sur le grand fleue.

Le vingt-deuziesme d'Avril les [44] glaces ayant fondu en partie, nous allasmes par terre ou nous auions laissé nostre Chaloupe, lors que nous entraumes dans les bois; nous la trouuasmes toute couverte de neiges, il fallut trois iours pour la mettre en estat. En fuite dequoy nous nous embarquasmes pour l'Isle aux Basques, où nous arriuasmes au trauers des glaces, dans vn iour.

On the twenty-first, we tried to make our way over the ice to Isle aux Basques, to put ourselves out of danger from the Iroquois—who, some said, had been espied by them when out hunting; but some ice having broken under our feet, we were obliged to turn back, after having already made a good league on the great river.

On the twenty-second of April, the [44] ice having melted in part, we went by land to the place where we had left our Shallop when we entered the woods. We found it all under snow, and it took three days to put it into shape. Thereupon we embarked for Isle aux Basques, whither we made our way through the ice in one day.

This Island, which is distant from the river's banks only two leagues toward the South and seven toward the North, is very agreeable; it is only one league in length, and half a league in width. It bears the name of Isle aux Basques because the Basques formerly carried on Whale-fishing there.

Cette Isle qui n'est esloignée du costé du Sud que de deux lieuës, & de sept du costé du Nord, est bien agreable: Elle n'a qu'une lieuë de longueur, & demie lieuë de largeur. Elle porte le nom de l'Isle aux Basques, à raison de la pefche de Baleines que les Basques y faisoient autrefois. Je pris plaisir de visiter les fourneaux qu'ils y ont basty pour faire leurs huyles, on y voit encor tout aupres de grandes costes de Baleines qu'ils y ont tuées.

[45] Ce fut à cette Isle où la Prouidence de Dieu nous conduisit pour y passer la quinzaine de Pasques, & où nos Sauvages ont donné des marques de leur pieté. A peine euf-je marqué vn lieu pour y dresser une Chappelle, que d'abord les hommes courent à leurs haches pour couper du bois neccessaire à la fabriquer, & les femmes & les filles ramassent les branches de sapin pour la pauer, tapiffer & couvrir, nous neufmes besoin que d'un iour, pour la mettre en estat d'y faire nos prieres.

I'y commençay d'abord les instructions pour la Confession & Communion de Pasques. Je leur fis lecture de l'histoire de la Passion de Iesus-Christ, que j'auois traduite en leur langue, ils l'escouterent avec beaucoup d'attention. A ces instructions generales j'adioutay [46] les particulieres, où chacun me rendit compte de conscience, avec autant de candeur, qu'un novice des plus exacts. On ne sçauroit croire combien on les gagne, quand on leur parle cœur à cœur, ayant diuisé en deux bandes ceux qui pouuoient communier, la premiere fit son deuoir Paschal le Ieudy Saint, & la seconde le iour de Pasque; le Vendredy Saint fut employé à confesser ceux qui ne communioient pas encore, & à honorer le Sauueur mourant.

I took pleasure in visiting the furnaces which they built for trying out their oil; and, very near by, there are still to be seen great ribs of the Whales which they killed.

[45] It was to this Island that God's Providence led us, to spend there Holy week and Easter week, and it was here that our Savages gave evidence of their piety. Scarcely had I marked a spot for the erection of a Chapel, when immediately the men ran to get their hatchets, in order to cut the wood necessary for building it; while the women and girls gathered fir branches for its floor, walls, and roof. We required only one day to put it in such condition that we could perform our devotions there.

In this Chapel I began at once the instructions for the Easter Confession and Communion. I read to them an account of the Passion of Jesus Christ, which I had translated into their language, and to which they listened very attentively. To these general instructions I added [46] private ones, in which each one opened his conscience to me with as much candor as the most scrupulous novice. It is beyond belief how easily they are won over when one speaks to their hearts from his own. I divided those who could receive communion into two bands; the first performed its Paschal duty on Holy Thursday, and the second on Easter Sunday. Good Friday was spent in confessing those who were not yet admitted to communion, and in worshiping the dying Savior. I read the Passion to them for the second time, and added some reflections, after which we adored the Cross. At this sacred ceremony, full of love, their hearts were greatly softened, of which I subjoin a proof.

Ie leur fy pour la deuxiefme fois, la lecture de la Paffion, avec quelques reflexions que i'y adioutay, apres quoy nous fimes l'adoration de la Croix. Leurs cœurs s'attendrirent beaucoup fur ce myftère plein d'amour: en voicy vne preuue.

L'office eftant finy, vn bon Chreftien m'approcha, & me dit, tu [47] nous as enseigné que c'eft particulièrement en ce temps que les bons Chreftiens fouffrent volontiers pour l'amour de Iefus, ils ieufnent, ils chaftient leurs corps; oblige moy, prefte moy vne difcipline aouihitou pafagaftehigan. Sçais tu bien ce que c'eft, luy repartifie? ie le fçay fort bien, me respondit-il, ie m'en fuis feruy autrefois: reuiens dans quelque temps, luy repliquay-ie, ie connois vn homme qui eft ton amy, il en a vne, ie te promets qu'il te la preftera: fa ferueur fit qu'il ne tarda pas à me fommer de ma promesse. Luy ayant remis cét instrument de penitence & d'amour entre les mains, il me demanda congé de fe discipliner dans la Chapelle à la veuë de tous; non luy difie, ie veux moderer ta ferveur, fais ce que ie te diray, va t'en bien auant dans le bois, & là apres auoir [48] prié quelque temps, te fouuenant comme celuy qui a tant enduré pour l'amour de toy, te regarde du plus haut des Cieux, donne luy des marques du déplairir que tu as de l'auoir offensé, & de l'estime que tu fais de fes fouffrances; il m'obeït fans replique: mais ce qui eft plus remarquable, c'eft qu'apres s'estre donné cent coups de discipline de compte fait, il fut inuiter la femme a en faire autant: elle le fit volontiers, pour tefmoigner, dit-elle, à Iefus-Christ nostre tout aimable Sauueur, la part qu'elle prenoit à fa douloureuse Paffion.

When the service was over, a good Christian approached me and said: "Thou [47] hast taught us that, especially at this time, good Christians suffer voluntarily for the love of Jesus; they fast, and chastise their bodies. Oblige me by lending me an instrument of discipline, aouihitou pasagastehigan." "Knowest thou well what it is?" I returned. "I know very well," he answered me; "I have used it before." "Come back after some time," I replied; "I know a man, a friend of thine, who has one, and I promise thee that he will lend it to thee." His zeal made him prompt in claiming the fulfillment of my promise. When I had put into his hands this instrument of penance and love, he asked my leave to take the discipline in the Chapel in sight of all. "No," I said to him; "I wish to moderate thy zeal. Do what I shall tell thee. Go away a good distance into the woods, and, after [48] praying some time, remembering how he who endured so much for thee is looking down upon thee from the highest Heavens, prove to him the regret which thou feelest at having offended him, and the regard in which thou holdest his sufferings." He obeyed me without replying. But what is more remarkable is that, after giving himself a hundred strokes, by count, with the instrument, he invited his wife to do the same. She willingly complied, in order, she said, to testify to Jesus Christ, our dearest Savior, the sympathy she felt with his doleful Passion.

This good Christian did not stop there; for receiving back the instrument of discipline from his wife's hands, he offered it to a Captain,—an ally and a good friend of his, whom I had baptized in the beginning of Winter,—and exhorted him not to spare himself, Ce bon Chrestien n'en demeura pas là, car ayant retiré la discipline des mains de sa femme, il fut la presenter à vn Capitaine son alié, & son bon amy, que i'auois baptisé au commencement de l'Hyuer, l'exhortant à ne pas s'espargner [49] puisque Iesus-Christ ne s'estoit pas espargné, ayant esté si cruellement flagellé pour nostre amour. Ce Capitaine Neophyte ne s'esp[ar]gna pas en effet, & apres s'estre discipliné rudement, il me rapporte la discipline; me disant qu'on l'auoit instruit comme il s'en falloit ferver, & qu'il s'en estoit donné cent coups, pour l'amour de Iesus-Christ. Cette ferveur de ces bons Neophytes accusera sans doute au jugement de Dieu, la delicateffe & la lacheté de ceux qui font nez & eslevez dans les maximes du Christianisme.

Leur obeyffance envers leur pasteur merite que j'en marque vn beau trait. Les Papinachois ayans fait vn tambour pour s'en ferver contre les Iroquois, & pour oppofer aux cris, & aux hurlemens qu'ils font lors qu'ils attaquent; & ce [50] tambour leur estant inutiles dans l'Isle aux Basques, où ils estoient comme dans vn lieu d'affurance. Vn ieune esuenté d'une autre Nation, leur fuggera dans vn festin de s'en feruir pour danfer, & pour honorer la victoire que les Montagnez & les Algonquins auoient remportée le Printemps passé sur leurs Ennemis. Ces bonnes gens, sans faire reflexion à la circonstance de la semaine sainte, forment le dessein de leur danse; celui à qui le tambour appartenoit me dit leur sentiment, en ces termes. Nous auons dansé autrefois à Tadoussac, tu ne feras pas marry que nous dansions icy presentement. Mon frere, luy dis-ie, danfer est de soy vne chose indifferente, mais danfer tandis que [49] since Jesus Christ had not spared himself in having been so cruelly scourged for love of us. This Neophyte Captain did not, indeed, spare himself; and, after a severe application of the instrument, he brought it back to me, telling me that he had been taught how to use it, and that he had given himself a hundred strokes for the love of Jesus Christ. Such zeal on the part of these good Neophytes will, without doubt, at the judgment-seat of God, rise up in testimony against the delicacy and cowardice of those who are born and raised in the maxims of Christianity.

Their obedience to their pastor merits my mentioning an admirable feature of it. The Papinachois had made a drum for use against the Iroquois, for counteracting the shouts and yells which the latter utter when they make an attack; and this [50] drum was of no use to them in Isle aux Basques, where they were in a secure retreat. A thoughtless young man of another Nation suggested to them at a feast that they should make use of it for dancing, and celebrating the victory which the Montagnais and Algonquins had gained the preceding Spring over their Enemies. These good people, without reflecting that we were in holy week, prepared to dance, while he who owned the drum explained to me their opinion on this point in the following terms: "We danced before this, at Tadoussac; thou wilt not be displeased if we dance here now." "My brother," I said to him, "dancing is in itself a matter of indifference; but to dance while Christians are doing penance, lamenting their sins, and meditating on what Jesus, their Captain, suffered [51] for the salvation of all mankind—that would no longer be a matter of indifference, but a crime. Therefore les Chrestiens font penitence, pleurent leurs pechez, & penfent à ce que Iefus leur Capitaine a fouffert [51] pour le falut de tous les hommes, ce ne feroit plus chofe indifferente, mais criminelle; ainfi prends d'autres penfées; toy qui eft le maiftre du tambour, tu ferois le plus coupable. Dans combien de iours pourrons nous danfer, me dit-il? Ce fera le lendemain du iour que Iefus reffufcita, luy dis-ie, & cette danfe que vous voulez faire pour honorer la victoire de vos alliez, fe pourra faire par vn motif encor plus noble & plus faint, c'eft à dire, pour participer aux ioyes de tous les bons Chrestiens, qui fe réiouyffent en la Refurrection glorieufe de Iefus leur Capitaine, dans la ferme efpérance qu'ils ont de réfufciter comme luy, pour n'eftre plus fuiets à la mort. Ils m'obeyrent exactement, quelque preffe que fift celuy qui leur auoit donné la premiere penfée de danfer, dont [52] le Demon fe vouloit feruir pour troubler les iours de la deuotion de la femaine fainte. Au refte leur danfe eft affez innocente; les hommes y danfent feparez des femmes, fans fe toucher les vns les autres; ils s'y font des prefens reciproquement; les hommes aux hommes, les femmes aux femmes. Y ayant aperceu quelque chofe qui n'eftoit pas bien, & les ayant aduertis, ils la retrancherent fans replique, quoy qu'il n'y euft rien de criminel.

I'euffe efté bien mortifié fi ie n'euffe pas eu moyen de leur faire feftin le iour de Pafques, pour leur tefmoigner combien i'eftois fatisfait d'eux. Nous auions laiffé quelque bled d'Inde dans l'Ifle Verte, au commencement de l'Hyuer, i'y enuoyay vn Canot pour le retirer, ce Canot eftant de retour, le feftin fut bien-toft dreflé; mon hofte, qui fe [53] chargea change thy mind; thou, who art the owner of the drum, wouldst be the most guilty." "In how many days may we dance?" said he. "On the day following that on which Jesus rose," I replied, "and this dance, which you wish to hold in celebration of the victory of your allies, can be held from a still more noble and more sacred motive—that is to say, in order to participate in the joy of all good Christians, who rejoice in the glorious Resurrection of Jesus, their Captain, through their steadfast hope of being raised, as he was, to be no more subject to death." They obeyed perfectly, not minding the urgent solicitations of him who had first suggested to them the thought of dancing, and through whom [52] the Demon endeavored to disturb the days of devotion of holy week. Otherwise their dance is harmless enough; the men dance apart from the women, without touching one another, and they exchange presents—the men with the men, and the women with the women. When I perceived something in the dance that was not pleasing, and called their attention to it, they left it out without making any reply, although there was nothing criminal in it.

I would have been much chagrined if I had not had means to give them a feast on Easter Sunday, to show them how well satisfied I was with them. We had left some Indian corn at Isle Verte in the beginning of Winter, and I sent a Canoe thither to bring it. Upon its return, the feast was soon prepared; my host [53] took charge of everything, forgetting nothing of his skill to render it entirely successful. A good Christian, who had often shown kindness toward me during the Winter, having heard of my project, made me a present of a large package of de tout, n'oublia rien de son adresse pour faire que tout reussit. Vn bon Chrestien qui avoit souvent exercé la charité en mon endroit pendant l'Hyuer, me fit present d'un grand paquet de langues d'Original, ayant sceu mon dessein. Le matin de cette grande feste, ayant esté donné à la devotion, & l'heure du dîner approchant, mon hôte fut inviter toutes les Cabanes: chacun s'estant pourueu de son ouragan, c'est à dire de son plat d'écorce, vient d'abord prendre place à la sale du festin: tous estans ramassez, comme c'estoit moy qui faisois le festin, ce fut à moy à haranguer. Les Chrestiens, leur dis-je, ont des temps pour pleurer, & des temps pour se resjouyr, tousiours neantmoins dans les termes de la modestie; ceux qui ont pleuré dans la semaine [54] Sainte, en considerant Iesus-Christ souffrant & mourant pour l'amour des hommes, ont droit de se resjouyr en considerant le mesme Sauveur resuscité; ie continuay quelque temps sur ce fuyet, ils eussent bien souhaité que i'eusse chanté à leur mode, en suite de ma harangue, mais ie m'en excusay, sur ce que ie ne sçauois pas encore leur chant: ie priay mon hôte de chanter pour moy. Ce bon Chrestien, apres auoir harangué à l'honneur de la feste, & à l'aduantage de la priere; apres auoir exhorté ses compatriotes à estre fidelles à Dieu, & à aimer la priere iusques au bout, s'acquitta parfaitement de la commission que ie luy auois donnée, il chanta deux chançons, la premiere pour moy, & la seconde pour luy mesme, tous les autres payerent leur escot, chacun avec [55] vne chançon de mesme. Ils furent bien vne heure à ce preambule de festin. Les chançons estant finies, ie dis le Benedicité: en suite dequoy deux ieunes

Moose-tongues. The morning of this great feast having been given to devotion, and the dinner-hour approaching, my host invited the inmates of all the Cabins. Each person provided himself with his ouragan,—that is, his plate of bark,—and came at once to take his place in the festal hall; and when all were assembled, as I was the one who gave the feast, it was my duty to make a speech. I said to them: “The Christians have times for weeping and times for rejoicing—always, however, within the bounds of modesty. Those who have mourned during Holy week, [54] meditating on Jesus Christ suffering and dying for the love of mankind, have a right to rejoice when they meditate on the same Savior risen.” I dilated for some time upon this theme. They would have been very much pleased if, at the conclusion of my speech, I had sung in their own way; but I excused myself on the plea that I did not yet know how to do so, begging my host to sing for me. This good Christian, after making a speech in praise of the feast and in favor of prayer, and after exhorting his fellows to be faithful to God and to love prayer to the end, acquitted himself perfectly of the commission I had given him. He sang two songs, the first for me and the second for himself; all the others paid their reckoning in a like manner, each one with [55] a song. They spent fully an hour in this preamble to the feast. The songs completed, I pronounced the Benedicite, after which two young men of the Cabin distributed the festal meal, which consisted of a dish of sagamité—that is to say, a kind of mush made of cornmeal cooked in water, and seasoned with fat and with smoked Moose-flesh. A little piece of tobacco was hommes de la Cabane firent la distribution du festin; qui consistoit en vn plat de sagamité, c'est à dire vne espece de bouillie faite de farine du bled, cuite dans l'eau, assaisonnée de graisse, & de chair d'Orignal boucané; vn petit bout de petun fut leur deffert, & de l'eau toute pure y seruit de boiffon. Les hommes, les femmes & les enfans y firent parfaitement bien leur deuoir. Cette bouillie de bled d'Inde leur fut vn mets bien delicieux; il y auoit desia longtemps qu'ils n'en auoient mangé: ensuite dequoy chacun se retira chez soy bien content & bien satisfait. Environ, sur les trois heures nous fumes reciter tous ensemble le Chapelet. [56] A la fin nous saluâmes Nostre Seigneur reffuscité, avec vne chançon en langue Algonquine, sur le fuiet de cette grande solemnité: nous la chantâmes deux fois chaque iour de l'Octau, elle leur plaifoit beaucoup, aussi est-elle bien faite.

Auant que de fortir de l'Isle des Basques, pour passer du costé du Nord, ie rendy les derniers deuoirs au corps d'une petite fille, qui estoit morte depuis environ deux mois. Son pere, qui estoit Montagnez, fut bien aise qu'elle fust enseuelie dans nostre petite Chappelle, & deuant vne grande Croix que nous auons plantée le Vendredy Saint, vis à vis de la porte. Voicy vne preuue de l'amour & du respect qu'ils ont pour les corps de leurs parens decedez. Ayant aduertie ce pere affligé, de faire enseuelir sa fille, lors qu'elle [57] fut morte, il me demanda du temps pour penser à ce qu'il auoit à faire sur ce fuiet: il me fit réponse à quelque temps de là, tu vois que nous sommes dans des continuelles apprehensions de l'Iroquois, si i'enseuelis ma fille dans les bois, peut estre their dessert, and pure water served them for drink. Men, women, and children performed their parts perfectly. This mush made of Indian corn was to them a very delicious dish, a long time having passed since they had eaten any. After this, each one withdrew to his own abode, well pleased and satisfied. At about three o'clock, we told our Beads all together. [56] In conclusion, we saluted Our risen Lord with a song in the Algonquin tongue, the solemn occasion furnishing the theme. We sang it twice on each day of the Octave; it pleased them much, for it is indeed a good song.

Before leaving Isle des Basques to go Northward, I performed the last rites over the body of a little girl who had died about two months before. Her father, a Montagnais, was very glad to have her buried in our little Chapel before a large Cross which, on Good Friday, we erected opposite the door. I will give a proof of the love and respect which these people have for the bodies of their deceased relatives. When I had admonished this afflicted father to have his daughter buried, after she [57] had died, he asked me for time to consider what he should do in the matter. Some time afterward, he made answer to me: "Thou seest that we are in constant fear of the Iroquois. If I bury my daughter in the woods, perhaps those wicked men will find her body, which they will certainly burn. Let us avoid this danger; we will bury her elsewhere in a place where there will be nothing to fear."

This, my Reverend Father, is what I have gathered together from the end of my winter season, of which I render an account to you in compliance with your command. The kindness which you showed me in que ces méchans hommes trouueront fon corps; qu'ils brusleroient affeurément; efuitons ce danger, nous l'enfeuelirons ailleurs en vn lieu ou il ny aura rien à craindre.

Voila mon R. Pere ce que i'ay ramaffé de la fin de mon hyuernement, dont ie vous rends compte pour fatisfaire au commandement que vous m'en auez fait. La bonté que vous auez eu pour moy, en me nommant pour cette Miffion, eft vn bienfait que ie n'oublieray iamais: ie vous en remercie de tout mon cœu[r], avec d'autant plus de [58] raifon, qu'il me femble que ie n'ay iamais connu Dieu que dans les epaiffes forefts du Canada, ou toutes les veritez eternelles que i'auois meditées ailleurs, m'ont paru dans vn iour tout extraordinaire. O qu'il y à de plaifir de viure à Dieu dans l'abandon de toutes les creatures. Vn autre que moy euft bien mieux profité d'une fi belle occafion. Obtenez moy s'il vous plaift par vos prieres la pardon des pechez que i'ay commis contre Dieu infiniment bon, & demandez pour moy en vos fains Sacrifices, que ie meure en fon faint feruice, abandonné des hommes, ne pouuant iamais eftre abandonné de Dieu.

naming me for this Mission is a benefit which I shall never forget; I thank you for it with all my heart, and with all the more [58] reason that it seems to me I have never known God except in the dense forests of Canada, where all the eternal verities upon which I had pondered elsewhere have become wonderfully clear to me. Oh, what pleasure there is in living for God, and separating oneself from all creatures! Another would have profited much more by so fine an opportunity. Obtain for me, if you please, through your prayers, pardon for the sins which I have committed against the infinitely good God; and in my behalf ask in your holy Sacrifices that I may die in his sacred service, abandoned by men, although I can never be abandoned by God.

JOURNAL DU VOYAGE D'VN PERE DE LA COMPAGNIE
DE IESUS, AU PAYS DES PAPINACHOIS, & DES OUCHESTIGOUETCH.

LE dessein de ce voyage ayant esté formé pendant l'hyuernement, nous commençâmes à l'exécuter le vingt vnième d'Auril. Ayant laissé les Montagnez, qui auoient hyuerné avec nous dans l'Isle aux Basques, ie passay du costé du Nord, avec les Papinachois, à la faueur d'un beau iour que Dieu nous donna pour faire nostre traite d'environ sept lieuës. Nous abordâmes à Esseigiou, riuere celebre à cause du grand nombre de Saulmons qu'on y prend, dans la faison [60] de la pesche. Deux choses nous ressiouyrent à nostre abord; la premiere, la veüe d'une grande Croix que nous saluâmes en chantant le Vexilla Regis prodeunt, en langue Montagnese; La seconde la prise de cinq Orignaux, qui venans paistre sur le bord du grand fleuve, furent tuez par nos chasseurs. Ce fut alors que les Papinachois glorieux de cete chasse me dirent, quelques Montagnez t'ont dit que nostre pays est un méchant pays, que tu y mourrois de faim si tu y venois avec nous; tu vois maintenant qu'ils n'ont pas dit vray, Kataouatichouasti Oupapinachiouek asti, asti, c'est une bonne terre disoit-il, que la terre des Papinachois. Je leur repetois souvent ces mesmes paroles, pour leur tesmoigner combien i'estois aise d'estre avec eux dans leur

[59] CHAPTER IV.

DIARY OF A JOURNEY MADE BY A FATHER OF THE SOCIETY OF JESUS TO THE COUNTRY OF THE PAPINACHOIS AND OF THE OUCHESTIGOUETCH.

THE resolution to undertake this journey having been adopted during the winter season, we set about its execution on the twenty-first of April. Leaving the Montagnais who had wintered with us at Isle aux Basques, I proceeded toward the North with the Papinachois, under favor of a fine day which God gave us to enable us to make about seven leagues. We landed at the Esseigiou,<sup>1</sup> a river famous for the number of Salmon taken there in the [60] fishing season. Two things rejoiced us upon landing: first, the sight of a large Cross, which we saluted by singing the Vexilla Regis prodeunt in the Montagnais tongue; second, the taking of five Moose, which, coming to feed on the banks of the great river, were killed by our hunters. At this the Papinachois, proud of this success in hunting, said to me: "Some Montagnais told thee that ours is a wretched country, and that thou wouldst die of hunger there if thou camest with us. Thou seest now that they did not tell the truth. Kataouatichouasti Oupapinachioneuk asti, asti. It is a good land," said he, "the land of the Papinachois." I repeated to them often these same words, to show them how glad I was to be with them in their country. We remained at this post for about [61] a fortnight. My host gave me there a proof of pays. Nous fufme en ce poſte enuiron [61] quatorze iours. Mon hoſte m'y donna vne preuue de ſa grande charité, car comme i'eſtois trauaillé d'une fièvre affez violente pendant quelques iours, ce bon Chreſtien me conſoloit de temps en temps: voicy ce qu'il me dit vn iour. O que mon cœur eſt triſte depuis que tu es malade, ie ſouffre beaucoup en te voyant ſouffrir; ie prie Dieu de tout mon cœur que ie ſois malade en ta place, & que ſi tu dois mourir, ie luy demande cette faueur que ie meure & que tu viue encore. Qui connoiſt la ſincérité de ces bons Sauuages, ſçait bien que ce n'eſtoit pas un compliment, il diſoit ce qu'il penſoit: ie le remerciai de ſa bonté, & l'affeurant que ie m'eſtimois heureux de ſouffrir, pour l'amour de Ieſus-Chriſt, le mal qu'il luy plaifoit me donner, & que s'il vouloit diſpoſer de moy, ie tiendrois [62] à grande faueur de mourir dans vn entier abandonnement de toutes choſes. Si ma fièvre euſt duré plus longtemps, il s'eſtoit offert pour me ſeigner: mais ie crois que les prieres de ces bonnes gens m'obtinrent ma parfaite guerifon.

Nous euſmes bien de la ioye le deuxiefme iour de May à l'arriuée du François & du Sauuage qui eſtoient allez à Kebec, lors que nous eſtions encore du coſté du Sud; ie n'auois plus de vin pour dire la Meſſe, ie l'auois acheué ce iour-là: ces nouveaux venus comblèrent noſtre ioye, lors qu'ils nous dirent, que la Chaloupe dans laquelle ils eſtoient venus eſtoit à vne lieuë au deſſus de nous, & que le Pere Gabriel Druillettes eſtoit dedans. Le lendemain tous nos Sauuages me voulurent accompagner, pour aller voir les François, particulièrement [63] le Pere qu'ils aiment beaucoup; noſtre petite Chaloupe n'eut pas his great love. I was afflicted with a rather violent fever for some days, and this good Christian comforted me from time to time. He said to me one day: "Oh, how sad my heart has been since thou hast been ill; I suffer greatly in seeing thee suffer, and I pray God with all my heart that I may be ill in thy place. And if thou art to die, I ask this favor of him, that I may die, and that thou mayst continue to live." Whoever knows the sincerity of these good Savages, knows well that this was no mere politeness; he said what he thought. I thanked him for his kindness, and assured him that I considered myself happy to suffer, for the love of Jesus Christ, the ill which it pleased him to send me; and that, if he wished to dispose of me, I would hold [62] it a great favor to die in entire destitution of all things. He had offered to bleed me had my fever lasted longer; but I believe the prayers of these good people obtained for me my perfect recovery.

We felt much joy, on the second day of May, at the arrival of the Frenchman and the Savage who had gone to Kebec while we were still on the Southern side. I had no more wine for saying Mass, having poured out the last on that very day. The newcomers crowned our joy when they told us that the Shallop in which they had come was a league above us, and that Father Gabriel Druillettes was in it. On the next day all our Savages wished to accompany me to go and see the French, and especially [63] the Father, whom they love very much. Our little Shallop did not lack rowers, and we soon arrived at our place of meeting, where we were received with much love. The Father and I, having conferred on what we had to do touching our Missions, decided manque de nageurs: nous arriuafmes bien-toft au lieu de noftre entreueuë, on nous receut avec beaucoup de charité. Ce Pere & moy ayans conferé fur ce que nous auions a faire touchant nos Miffions, nous conclufmes que i'accompagnerois les Papinachois dans leur voyage des terres, & que le Pere monteroit dans le Saguené, pour vifiter les Sauuages de ces quartiers-là, apres quoy nous nous feparafmes.

Le cinquième iour de May, nous arriuafmes au faut au Mouton, c'est vn grand faut par ou la riuiera que les Sauuages appellent Kaouafagiskaket fe defcharge dans le grand fleuve de faint Laurent: nous fufmes huit iours en ce pofté: les deux Sauuages qui auoient [64] perdu leurs deux petites filles, pendant noftre hyuernement, ayant choifi ce lieu comme le plus propre pour leur donner leur derniere fepulture, nous y dreflafmes vne petite Chappelle ou elles furent enfeuelies. Tout ce qu'ils auoient de plus beau fut mis dans leur biere; les ceremonies de l'Eglife que ie leur expliquay, leur donnerent bien de la confolation; fur tout lors que ie leur dy, que ces deux petites innocentes n'auoient pas befoin de nos prieres, & que les prieres qu'on faisoit n'eftoient que pour remercier Dieu des graces qu'il leur auoit faites qu'elles poffedoient dans le Ciel ou elles nous attendoient. Les parens ayant veu que les François mettent des Croix fur les Sepulchres, en firent deux de leur mouuement, qu'ils me prièrent de planter à l'endroit où leurs [65] filles eftoient enfeuelies, pour marque qu'elles eftoient Chreftiennes; ils me dirent qu'ils vifiteroient fouuent ce lieu pour les inuoquer, comme ils ont fait depuis leur decez; il n'eft pas croyable combien ils ont de refpect pour that I should accompany the Papinachois on their journey inland, while he would proceed up the Saguené to visit the Savages of those regions. After this, we separated.

On the fifth day of May, we arrived at saut au Mouton, a great waterfall by which the river called by the Savages Kaouasagiskaket<sup>2</sup> empties into the great river saint Lawrence. We remained a week at this place. Two Savages, who had [64] lost their two little girls during the winter, having chosen this place as that best suited for giving them their last burial, we erected a little Chapel and interred them there. All the finest articles possessed by these Savages were placed in the children's bier. The ceremonies of the Church, which I explained to them, gave them much comfort,—above all, when I told them that these two little innocents had no need of our prayers, and that the prayers then offered were only to thank God for the graces which he had shown them, and which they possessed in Heaven, where they were waiting for us. The fathers having seen that the French put Crosses on their Graves, of their own accord made two; and they begged me to erect these on the spot where their [65] little girls were buried, as a sign that they were Christians. They told me that they would often visit this place to invoke the departed, as they have been doing ever since their death. It is incredible how much respect they have for the bodies of the dead, and I have often used it as an argument to inculcate in them a belief in the immortality of the Soul and the resurrection of our bodies.

On the eleventh of the same month, we arrived at the river which the Savages call Kouakoueou. We les corps morts. Je me fuis fouvent feruy de cét argument, pour leur bien inculquer l'immortalité de l'Ame, & la foy de la refurrection de nos corps.

L'onzième du même mois nous arriuafmes à la riuere que les Sauuages appellent Kouakoueou: nous vîmes en paffant les rauages que le Tremble-terre à fait aux riuieres du Port neuf; l'eau qui en fort eft toute iaune, & elle garde cette couleur bien auant dans le grand fleuve, auffi bien que celle des Berfiamites: les Sauuages ne fçauroient plus nauiger dans ces deux riuieres.

[66] Quittant ce dernier poſte nous fîmes rencontre de deux Canots qui defcendoient des terres bien chargez de pelleteries, ils rebroufferent chemin, & s'en vinrent avec nous. Nos Sauuages firent leur traite avec ces nouveaux venus, en fuite dequoy ils acheuerent les Canots qui nous eftoient neceſſaires pour noſtre voyage. Quelques iours apres eſtant arriuez à la riuere de Peritibiſtokou, où nous arreſtaſmes iuſques au deuxième de Iuin, deuant entrer dans les terres par cette riuere, la diſpoſition de noſtre voyage fut, que les femmes, les enfans & quelques hommes reſteroient ſur le bord du grand fleuve, tandis que le reſte monteroit au Lac de Manikougan: mais le François qui m'accompagnoit, & moy, nous eſtions exclus du voyage. Vn bon Chreſtien m'ayant informé de [67] l'effort que faiſoient quelques nouveaux venus pour empêcher que ie ne les accompagne pas au Lac; apres auoir recommandé l'affaire à Dieu, ie les aſſemblay dans la Chapelle; & apres auoir ouy mes raifons, ils changerent de ſentiment; quelques-vns me dirent ſeulement, le chemin eſt ſi rude que nous apprehendons beaucoup pour toy, que saw in passing the ravages wrought by the Earthquake in the rivers of Port neuf; the water coming therefrom is all yellow, and it retains this color far into the great river, as does also that of the Bersiamites.<sup>3</sup> The Savages could no longer navigate these two rivers.

[66] Leaving this last place, we met two Canoes coming down from the interior, well laden with peltries. They turned about, and came with us. Our Savages made their trade with these newcomers, after which they finished the Canoes which we needed for our journey. Some days later we reached the river Peritibistokou,<sup>4</sup> where we halted until the second of June before proceeding inland by this river. The arrangement for our journey was that the women, the children, and some men should remain on the bank of the great river, while the rest would go up to Lake Manikougan. But the Frenchman who accompanied me, and I myself, were excluded from the journey. A good Christian having informed me of [67] the effort made by some newcomers to prevent my accompanying them to the Lake, I referred the matter to God, and then called them together in the Chapel. After hearing my arguments, they changed their minds. Some merely said to me: "The way is so hard that we fear greatly for thee, lest thou be unable to bear such great fatigue. That is the only reason why we found it difficult to consent to thy going; but since God wills it, as thou hast assured us, and since thou feelest strong enough to surmount all these difficulties, we are very glad of it." After all had performed their devotions on the day of Pentecost, we set out on the morrow, the second of June, after Mass, to the number of ten tu ne puisse fournir à de si grandes fatigues. C'est la seule raison pour laquelle nous auions peine à consentir à ton départ: mais puis que Dieu le veut, comme tu nous en assure, & que tu te sens assez fort pour franchir toutes ces difficultés, nous en sommes bien aises. Tous ayant fait leurs deuotions le iour de la Pentecoste, nous partîmes le lendemain deuxième de Juin, après la Messe, au nombre de dix Canots. Nous voilà en chemin, [68] faisant ioier l'aïron à qui mieux mieux: ie fis mon apprentissage en ce mestier, sous la direction du François & du Sauvage, avec lesquels j'estois. Nous avançâmes ce iour-là iusques à vn grand fault, où nos Argonautes ayant trouué bon nôbre de Loups Marins, ils en firent vn grand carnage, s'estant seruis de leur fusils, de leur espées, & de leur flèches pour cette chasse. Le soir ie fus aduerty que le Sauvage qui gouuernoit nostre Canot estoit malade, ou du moins qu'il faisoit semblant de l'estre, & qu'il auoit quelques pensées de rebrouffer chemin: le Demon ioüoit de son reste pour empêcher mon voyage. J'ay recours à Dieu; en suite ie visite le malade, ie luy donne vn petit remede, ie l'encourage; le lendemain il fut parfaitement guery, & entierement resolu à continuer le voyage [i]usques au bout.

[69] Le troisieme iour de Juin quatre Canots s'estant separez pour aller ioindre leurs familles, nous fîmes vn portage, qui fut d'un iour entier, que nous employâmes tantost à grimper des montagnes, tantost à percer des bois, où nous auions de la peine à passer, estant tous chargez autant que nous pouuions l'estre; l'un portoit le Canot, l'autre les viures, l'autre ce qui estoit necessaire pour traiter. Je portois Canoes. So there we were on our way, [68] plying our paddles in emulation of one another; in this handicraft I served my apprenticeship under the direction of the Frenchman and the Savage who were with me. We proceeded on that day as far as a great waterfall, where our Argonauts, finding a good number of Seals, killed many of them, using their guns, javelins, and arrows in this hunt. In the evening I was told that the Savage who commanded our Canoe was ill,—or at least pretended to be so,—and that he had some thought of turning back. The Evil One was playing his last stake to prevent my journey. I had recourse to God; then I visited the sick man, gave him a simple remedy, and encouraged him; and on the next day he was entirely cured and thoroughly resolved to continue the journey to the end.

[69] On the third day of June, after four Canoes had left us to go and join their families, we made a portage which occupied an entire day, spent now in climbing mountains and now in piercing forests. Here we had much difficulty in making our way, for we were all laden as heavily as possible,—one carrying the Canoe, another the provisions, and a third what we needed in our commercial transactions. I carried my Chapel and my little store of provisions; there was no one who was not laden, and sweating from every pore. We entered, somewhat late, the great river Manikouaganistikou, which the French call riviere Noire [“Black river”], because of its depth.<sup>5</sup> It is quite as broad as the Seine, and as swift as the Rhone. The eleven portages which we had to make there, and [70] the numerous currents which it was necessary to overcome by dint of paddling, gave us ma Chapelle, & mes petites prouisions: il n'y auoit personne qui n'eust son fardeau, & qui ne fust de tout son corps. Sur le tard nous entraâmes dans la grande riuere de Manikouaganistikou, que les François appellent la riuere Noire, à cause de sa profondeur. Elle à bien la largeur de la Seine, & la rapidité du Rhofne; les onze portages qu'il nous y fallut faire, & [70] les diuers courans qu'il y fallut franchir à force de rames, nous y donnerent bien de l'exercice. Beny soit Dieu qui me donna les forces pour fournir à tout cela. I'eus la consolation de celebrer la Messe le iour de la sainte Trinité, à moitié chemin, vis à vis d'une grande montagne, que nous appellons le mont de la Trinité. C'est le premier sacrifice qui a esté offert en ce pays-là, où iamais European n'auoit encor paru ie priay nostre Seigneur Iesus-Christ qui en estoit le Souuerain, aussi bien que de toutes les autres parties du monde, qu'il s'y rendist maistre de tous les cœurs qui luy appartenoient de droit.

Le neufiesme iour de Iuin nous arriuasmes au Lac de Manikouagan; où ie trouuay foixante & quatre ames. C'estoient des Papinachois, qui reuenans de leur chasse, [71] s'estoient assemblez en cét endroit pour faire leur trafic avec leurs Compatriotes; qui habitent le long du grand fleuve de saint Laurens, & qui ont commerce avec les François. Ils nous accueillirent avec beaucoup de tesmoignages d'affection. Deux Canots nous estans venus reconnoître, ils retournerent promptement à leur Cabanage, pour preparer nostre reception: Nous les saluasmes à l'abord avec toute nostre petite artillerie; ils responderent avec leurs fusils: en suite dequoy nous estans abundant exercise. Blessed be God, who gave me the strength to meet all that. I had the consolation of saying Mass on holy Trinity, midway on my journey, opposite a high mountain which we call mont de la Trinité. It was the first sacrifice ever offered in this country, where never before had a European made his appearance. I entreated our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the Sovereign of this as well as of all other parts of the world, to make himself master of all hearts there, which belong to him by right.

On the ninth day of June we reached Lake Manikouagan, where I found sixty-four souls. They were Papinachois, who, returning from the chase, [71] had assembled in this place to trade with their Compatriots who dwell along the great river saint Lawrence, and have commerce with the French. They received us with many marks of affection. Two Canoes, after coming to reconnoiter us, returned promptly to their Camp, to prepare our reception. We saluted them, upon approaching, with all our little artillery; and they replied with their guns. Then, after we had disembarked, they took charge of all our packages, which they carried to the Captain's Cabin; hither, too, they conducted us, and we were at once regaled with a great piece of Smoked meat, together with a bit of Moose-fat.

The greater part, having [72] never seen any Frenchmen or Jesuits, could not weary of looking at us, and the whole Cabin was filled with spectators. We all kept silence, until the thanksgiving which my Savages and I offered after taking our refreshment. After this, I announced the good news to them,—namely, the design which God had concerning them, to deliver them from Hell and give them deſbarquez, ils ſe chargerent de tous nos paquets, qu'ils porterent à la Cabane du Capitaine, ou ils nous conduiſirent, & ou nous fuſmes regalez d'abord d'une grande piece de chair Boucanée, avec vn morceau de graiſſe d'Original.

La plus grande partie, n'ayant [72] iamais veu des François, ny des Ieſuites, ne ſe pouoient laſſer de nous regarder, toute la Cabane eſtoit remplie de ſpectateurs. Nous y gardaſmes tous le ſilence, iuſques à l'action de graces, que mes Sauuages & moy fiſmes, apres auoir pris noſtre refection. En fuite dequoy ie leur annonçay la bonne nouuelle, c'eſt à dire le deſſein que Dieu auoit fur eux, pour les deſſiurer de l'Enfer, & leur donner ſon Paradis, s'ils vouloient imiter leurs Compatriotes qui m'accompagnoient. Les bons Chreſtiens prirent la parole apres moy, & comme ils poſſedoient mieux que moy la langue, ils s'eſtendirent plus long temps ſur les loüanges de la priere. Ieſtois rauy d'ouyr ces nouueaux Predicateurs dont Dieu ſe ſeruoit pour la conuerſion de tout cét auditoire.

[73] Le lendemain dix-huitième [ſc. dixième], fut employé partie à viſiter les familles en particulier, à en eſcrire les noms, & diſtinguer ceux qui eſtoient baptizez, d'avec ceux, qui ne l'eſtoient pas; partie à drefſer vne Chappelle. Il y auoit plaſir de voir remuer les ouuriers; les vns courroient aux perches, les autres aux eſcorces, les femmes aux branches de ſapin, tandis que les ingenieurs preparoient le ſol, & formoient le deſſein de la premiere Eglife qui aye iamais eſté en ce pays. Le corps de la Chappelle eſtant acheué, ie drefſay l'Autel, & ie l'ornay du mieux qu'il me fut poſſible. Ayant veu à la place du Capitaine

his Paradise, if they would imitate those Compatriots of theirs who accompanied me. The good Christians took the word after me, and as they knew the language better than I, they expatiated still further in praise of prayer. I was delighted to hear these new Preachers, whom God used for the conversion of all that audience.

[73] The next day, the tenth, was employed partly in visiting individual families, in noting down their names, and in distinguishing those who were baptized from those who were not, and partly in erecting a Chapel. It was a pleasure to watch the movements of the workmen. Some ran for poles, others for bark, and the women for fir branches; while the builders prepared the ground, and made the plan of the first Church ever built in that country. The body of the Chapel being finished, I erected the Altar, and adorned it in the best way I could. Having seen at the Captain's place a fine Moose-skin, covered with ornamental work, I thought he would willingly lend it to me, and I was not mistaken; that good Catechumen was well pleased that it should serve [76 i.e., 74] to adorn the house of prayer.

The eleventh was employed, after celebrating the first Mass there in honor of saint Barnabas,—the day being that of his feast,—in giving Baptism to six little children. The first was named Barnabé, in honor of that Apostle, whom I have held as the especial patron of that great Lake, which will bear his name henceforth, and which we shall call Lake St. Barnabé.

On the twelfth, I gave Baptism to some more little children, after which I began my teaching. All those who had not received Baptism presented vne belle peau d'Orignac toute ouuragée, ie creu qu'il me la presteroit volontiers; ie ne me trompay pas: ce bon Cathecumene fut bien content qu'elle feruist [76 i.e., 74] à orner la maison de la priere.

L'onzième est employé, apres y auoir celebré la premiere Messe à l'honneur de saint Barnabé le iour de sa feste, à donner le Baptesme à six petits enfans. Le premier fut nommé Barnabé, pour honorer cét Apostre, que i'ay regardé comme le patron particulier de ce grand Lac, qui en portera dorefnauant le nom, & que nous appellerons le Lac de S. Barnabé.

Le douziesme ie donnay le Baptesme à d'autres petits enfans, apres quoy ie commençay à instruire. Tous ceux qui n'auoient pas receu le Baptesme, se presenterent pour estre Cathecumenes. Mes anciens Chrestiens qui m'accompagnoient, estoient ravis daise, voyant cela, & me disoient de temps en temps, tapoué noua kimiroueriten kataiamiaouek nachiriniouinanak; [77 i.e., 75] en verité, mon Pere, tu es bien aise, nos Compatriotes prieront. Ils faisoient reflexion à ce que quelques vns m'auoient dit pendant l'Hyuer, que ie perdrois mon temps d'aller dans les terres; que les hommes que i'y trouuerois se mocqueroient de moy, & de mes instructions, ils faisoient aussi reflexion à la responce que ie leur faisois, Mes enfans, vos Compatriotes prieront; celui qui a tout fait, qui est nostre Pere commun, les veut sauuer; prions tous les iours pour le salut de leurs ames.

Après auoir suffisamment instruit mes Cathecumenes, ayant d'ailleurs reconnu que le saint Esprit operoit dans leurs cœurs, ie fis choix de six, que ie baptizay solemnellement le quinzième iour du mesme mois, i'acheuay le reste le seize dix-sept & vingtiesme, themselves to become Catechumens. My old Christians who accompanied me were delighted at seeing this, and repeated to me from time to time: Tapoul noua kimiroueriten kataiamiaouek nachiriniouinanak,— [77 i.e., 75] “In truth, my Father, thou art much pleased; our Compatriots will pray.” They recalled to mind what some had said to me during the Winter,—namely, that I would lose my time by going inland, and that the people whom I should find there would mock at me and my teachings. They also recalled the answer that I made them: “My children, your Compatriots will pray; he who made all things, who is our common Father, ordains to save them. Let us pray every day for the salvation of their souls.”

When I had sufficiently instructed my Catechumens, recognizing besides that the holy Ghost was at work in their hearts, I chose six and solemnly baptized them, on the fifteenth day of the same month; on the sixteenth, seventeenth, and twentieth, I finished conferring the Sacrament upon the rest, [76] Baptizing in all twenty-seven Adults, men as well as women. There is no false religion to combat among these tribes; they are intelligent and very gentle, and it is no wonder that they have so soon understood our Mysteries.

The first thing that inclined them to receive the Gospel was the earthquake, which to them proclaimed aloud a divinity; the second was the example of those Compatriots of theirs who accompanied me; the third, the disinterested love of the black gowns, who expose their lives to a thousand dangers, solely to come and teach them; and the fourth, the beauty of our mysteries, and the harmony between God's Commandments and reason. One could not believe ayant en tout [76] donné le Baptesme à vingt-sept Adultes, tant hommes que femmes. On n'a point de fausse religion à combattre parmy ces peuples; ils ont l'esprit bon, & le naturel fort doux, & ce n'est pas merueille s'ils on[t] si tost conçu nos Mysteres.

La premiere chose qui les a disposés à recevoir l'Evangile, a esté le tremble-terre, qui leur prescha hautement vne diuinité. La deuxiesme, l'exemple de leurs Compatriotes qui m'accompagnoient. La troisieme, l'amour desintereffé des robes noires, qui exposent leurs vies à mille dangers, pour les venir instruire seulement. La quatrieme la beauté de nos mysteres, & la conformité des Commandemens de Dieu avec la raison. On ne pourroit croire l'horreur qu'ils ont du mensonge & du larcin. Je n'ay point trouué de polygamie parmy eux: [77] se mettre en colere c'est commettre vn grand crime. Quant à l'yurognerie, ils ne sçauent ce que c'est pour ce qui est de l'auarice, leurs biens sont presque communs. Vous diriez que ce sont des gens sans passion, ie n'ay point encore veu de personnes plus paisibles & plus debonnaires. Gaudeant bene nati, O qu'il y a de contentement à semer en vne terre, où il n'y a ny espines, ny roches, & ou il ne faut que semer & recueillir en mesme temps. Dextera Domini fecit virtutem.

Beny soit-il à iamais, des bontez qu'il exerce enuers ces pauvres peuples. Sa misericorde à particulièrement paru à l'endroit d'un Capitaine fort considerable, nommé Oui[f]koupi. Cét homme n'auoit iamais paru au Lac saint Barnabé, il y vient rendre visite au Capitaine qui [78] y commande: il y amene sa femme, dix de ses enfans, & deux de ses petits fils; toute cette famille trouue dans le Baptesme vne source de the horror which they have of falsehood and theft. I found no polygamy among them. [77] To become angry is to commit a great crime. As to drunkenness, they know not what it is, and as for avarice, their goods are held almost in common. You would say that they are a people without passion; I have not yet seen any who are more peaceful and more kind. Gaudeant bene nati! Oh, what happiness it is to sow in a soil where there are neither thorns nor rocks, where one can sow and reap at the same time! Dextera Domini fecit virtutem.

Blessed be he forever for the bounties which he lavishes upon these poor tribes! His mercy was especially evident in the case of a Captain of much note, named Ouiskoupi. This man had never appeared at Lake saint Barnabé, and he went thither to visit a Captain who [78] is in command there, taking with him his wife, ten of his children, and two of his grandchildren. This entire family found in Baptism a source of blessings. Ouiskoupi had formerly followed the calling of a Juggler,—that is to say, of one who invokes the Demon; but he protested to me that since the earthquake he had renounced the trade; and when I asked him whether he still retained any of those things which he had used in his invocations, he ingenuously declared that he had some in his pouch. I asked for them, and he gave them to me to sacrifice them to God, which I did, throwing them into the fire. When I visited him in his Cabin, some days after his Baptism, he said to me: “Thou knowest that I was ill before thou didst baptize me; he who made all things cured me at the same time when thou didst baptize me.” One of his children, who had [79] been unwell, told me the same thing.

benediçtions. Ouiskoupi ayant fait autrefois le mestier de Iongleur, c'est à dire d'inuoquer le Demon, me protesta que depuis le tremble-terre il y auoit renoncé; & luy ayant demandé s'il n'auoit point quelqu'vne de ces choses, dont-il se seruoit pour faire les iongleries, il me declara naïuement qu'il en auoit dans son sac; ie les luy demande; il me les donne pour en faire vn sacrifice à Dieu; ce que ie fis, les iettant au feu. Le visitant dans sa Cabane quelques iours apres son Baptisme, il me dit; tu sçais que i'estois malade auant que tu me baptifasse; celuy qui a tout fait m'a guery à mesme temps que tu me baptifois. Vn de ses enfans qui auoit [79] esté incommodé me dit la mesme chose, ie leur dy que le Dieu que les Chrestiens adorent, qui est l'vnique & le veritable, Dieu est si bõ, qu'il donne à ceux qui croient, & qui ont confiance en luy, plus qu'ils ne luy demandent; & que le Baptisme qui est institué pour apporter la fainteté à l'ame, donne souuent la santé au corps.

A cette occasion ie leur racontay la guerison miraculeuse de l'Empereur Constantin. Cette histoire leur agreea beaucoup, sur tout dans le rapport qu'il y remarquoient à la guerison du Capitaine Ou[if]koui, avec celle du grand Constantin. Ce bon Neophite me donna vne belle preuue de la confiance qu'il auoit en la priere, & du desir qu'il auoit d'estre fidelle à Dieu. Le Demon luy ayant apparu pendant la nuit, comme il m'affeura, il fortit [80] d'abord de sa Cabane, me vint éveiller dans celle ou i'estois, & me dit nouta aiamihatau, niouabamatas matchi manitou nichikatau, mon Pere prions Dieu i'ay veu le Demon, ie le hays. Apres l'auoir encouragé par les paroles que Dieu me mit en bouche, nous fîmes nostre priere

I said to them that the God whom the Christians worship, who is the true and only God, is so good that he gives to those who believe and have trust in him, more than they ask of him; and that Baptism, which is instituted to confer holiness upon the soul, often gives health to the body.

On this occasion, I related to them the miraculous cure of the Emperor Constantine. This story pleased them much, above all because of the resemblance which they noted between the cure of Captain Ouis-koupi and that of the great Constantine. This good Neophyte gave me a beautiful proof of the confidence which he had in prayer, and of the desire which he cherished to be faithful to God. The Demon appearing to him during the night,—so he assured me,—he at once went [80] out of his Cabin, came to awaken me in the one where I was, and said to me: Nouta aiamihatau, niouabamatas matchi manitou nichikatau,—"My Father, let us pray to God; I have seen the Demon; I hate him." I encouraged him with words which God put into my mouth; then we offered our prayer together, after which he returned to his Cabin, with no more fear of the Demon. His most usual abiding-place during the day was the Chapel. He could never become sated with looking at the pictures, which I explained to him from time to time. Neither he nor any of his family had ever seen any Frenchmen before.

I must not omit something that happened almost immediately after I had given Baptism to the little children: the greater part fell ill, a circumstance well suited to inspire [81] in the Adults an aversion for Baptism. One of my old Christians thought so, and came to tell it to me.

ensemble: en fuite de laquelle il retourna à sa Cabane, n'apprehendant plus le Demon; sa demeure la plus ordinaire pendant le iour estoit la Chapelle. Il ne pouuoit à son gré assez regarder les images que ie luy expliquois de temps en temps; ny luy ny aucun de sa famille n'auoit iamais veu de François.

Ie ne dois pas obmettre vne chose qui arriua presque aussi tost que i'eus donné le Baptesme aux petits enfans; la plupart furent malades; cela estoit bien capable de donner [81] aux Adultes de l'auesfion pour le Baptesme: vn de mes anciens Chrestiens le iugea ainsi, & me le vint dire.

Ayons recours, luy dis-ie, à celui qui a tout fait; il est tout bon & toutpuissât, il luy est aisé de donner la santé à ces petits enfans malades. Le lendemain ie les fis tous apporter à la Chapelle; & ayant recité sur eux les prieres que l'Eglise a dressées pour demander la santé; ie leur donnay en suite vn peu de thiriaque, & tous recouurerent leur santé. Cét effet de la bonté de Dieu à l'endroit de ces petits innocents, fut admiré des anciens Chrestiens, & des Cathecumenes, & affermit beaucoup les vns & les autres en la foy.

Ie ne doit pas obmettre vne remarque que i'ay faite sur le fuyet du Baptesme qu'on donne aux petits enfans. Parmy les personnes que i'ay [82] veuës au Lac de saint Barnabé, i'en trouuay vingt trois qui auoient esté baptisées par les Peres de nostre Compagnie, lors que leurs parens auoient paru à Tadouffac, ou à la riuere des Bersiamites: les vns estoient aagez de douze ans, les autres de quinze, les autres d'enuiron vingt: les ayant instruits, & la plus part n'ayant aucune connoissance de leur bonheur, ie les confessay, & trouuay tant de sincerité & tant

“Let us,” I said, “have recourse to him who made all things; he is all-good and all-powerful, and it is easy for him to give health to these little sick children.” On the next day I had them all brought to the Chapel, and after reciting over them the prayers which the Church has instituted for asking health, I gave them a little theriac, and they all recovered. This effect of God’s goodness in the case of these little innocents excited the admiration of the old Christians and of the Catechumens, and greatly strengthened both in the faith.

I must not omit something that I observed in regard to Baptism given to little children. Among the persons whom I [82] met at Lake saint Barnabé, I found twenty-three who had been baptized by the Fathers of our Society, when their relatives came to Tadoussac or the river of the Bersiamites; some were twelve years old, some fifteen, others about twenty. After I had instructed them,—the greater part having no knowledge of their blessedness,—I confessed them, and found in them so much sincerity and innocence that I could attribute this especial protection of God only to the baptismal grace and the merits of Jesus Christ, which had been applied to them in this Sacrament.

Two women, Christians of long standing, who had seen none of the Fathers of our Society for some years, gave me much consolation when they [83] rendered me an account of their lives since their last Confession. I found that they had added to the innocence of their lives the practice of the Christian virtues. They experienced much joy when I told them that I would be very glad if they would receive communion, as a worthy expression of gratitude to d'innocence en eux, que ie ne pus attribuer cette protection particuliere de Dieu, qu'a la grace baptifmale, & aux merites de Iefus-Christ, qui leur auoient esté appliquez en ce Sacrement.

Deux anciennes Chrestiennes qui n'auoient veu aucun des Peres de nostre Compagnie depuis quelques années, me donnerent bien de la consolation, lors que ie leur [83] fis rendre compte de leur vie depuis leur derniere Confession: ie trouuay qu'elles auoient adiousté la pratique des vertus Chrestiennes à l'innocence de leur vie. Elles eurent bien de la ioye, quand ie leur dis que pour remercier dignement Nostre Seigneur, des graces qu'elles en auoient receuës, ie ferois bien aife qu'elles communiaffent; elles s'y preparerent avec beaucoup d'exaëtitude, en fuite dequoy elles communierent bien deuotement. Priez, leur dis-ie, vous pour vostre mary, & vous pour vostre frere: elles estoient belles sœurs. Il n'est pas baptisé; exhortez-le à prier, ie l'instruiray volontiers, il a esté depuis instruit, il a esté baptisé; qu'elle ioye pour ces deux bonnes ames que Dieu a fans doute exaucées.

Nous ne pensions arrester que [84] trois iours au Lac de saint Barnabé; nous n'auions de prouisions que pour iusqu'a ce temps-là, mais Dieu en disposa autrement: Les Ouchestiguetch plus Septentrionnaux, que les Papinachois, ne se trouuant pas au temps marqué à leur rendez vous: il les faut attendre, disent mes anciens Chrestiens, ce font ceux qui ont le plus de pelleterie. Leur resolution me fut bien agreable, Dieu me donnant plus de temps pour mieux instruire mes Neophites; esperant d'ailleurs de voir les Ouchestiguetch. Nous les auions attendus

Our Lord for the favors which they had received from him. They prepared themselves for the ceremony with much exactness, and then received communion very devoutly. "Pray," I said to them, "you for your husband, and you for your brother,"—they were sisters-in-law. "He is not baptized; exhort him to pray, I will teach him willingly." Since then he has been taught and baptized. What joy for those two good souls whose prayers God undoubtedly has heard!

We thought that we would remain only [84] three days at Lake saint Barnabé, for we had provisions only for that length of time; but God decreed otherwise. The Ouchestiguetch, a more Northern tribe than the Papinachois, did not appear at the rendezvous at the appointed time. "We must wait for them," said my old Christians; "they are the ones who have the most peltries." Their resolution was very agreeable to me, God giving me more time for the better instruction of my Neophytes, besides the hope to see the Ouchestiguetch. We waited until the sixteenth, when a Papinachois Canoe, returning from its winter expedition, brought us news of having seen some Ouchestiguetch at a neighboring Lake, whereupon a Canoe was immediately despatched to make them hasten. Among the young men who [85] were sent out was a Catechumen, who, after letting them know that we were waiting for them, gave them the first teachings in Christianity, but with so much zeal that he excited in their hearts a desire to see the black gown as soon as possible, in order to receive thorough instruction. Some of those messengers outstripping the rest, announced to me this news on their arrival: Noutakataniamieouetch iufques au feiziefme, lors qu'un Canot Papinachois qui reuenoit de fon hyuernement, nous apporta la nouuelle qu'il auoit veu des Oucheftiguetch à vn Lac voifin: on dépefche d'abord vn Canot pour les faire hafter. Parmy ces ieunes hommes qui [85] furent deputez, il s'y trouua vn Cathecumene, qui apres leur auoir appris que nous les attendions, leur donna les premieres inſtructions du Chriſtianifme, mais avec tant de zele, qu'il excita en leur cœurs vn defir de voir au plutoſt la robe noire, pour ſe faire inſtruire à fonds. Ce fut la nouuelle que ces deputez qui gagnerent le deuant me donnerent à leur arriuée, noutakatania-mieouetch oucheſtigouetch. Mon Pere, les Oucheftigouets prieront, ils ſont tous proches, ils arriueront bien-toſt. O Dieu qu'elle ioye, lors que ie vis paroître huit Canots remplis, partie d'Adultes, partie de petits Enfans. Je m'adreſſay à leurs Anges gardiens, i'imploray leur ſecours & leur faueur auprez de Dieu, pour le falut de ces ames qui leur eſtoient ſi cheres. Eſtant débarquez; ie leur teſmoignay [86] la ioye que i'auois de les voir: enſuite dequoy ie me retiray. Ils employerent le reſte du iour à ſe cabaner, & à ſe viſiter reciproquement les vns les autres.

Le lendemain 21. de Iuin, feſte du Bien-heureux Louys de Gonzague, eſtant dans la Chapelle, & au temps que ie deuois prendre pour commencer l'inſtruction de ces nouueaux venus, Dieu m'y enuoya tous les hommes ſeparément: eſtant preſſé du temps, i'entray d'abord en matiere. Je leur dis que celui qui a tout fait me commandoit de les aimer, que ie luy obeyſſois; & qu'en effet ie les aimois, & que c'eſtoit pour leur en donner de bonnes preuues, que i'eſtois venu en ce pays, apres auoir hyuerné avec les ouchestigouetch, — “ My Father, the Ouchestigouets will pray; they are very near and will arrive very soon.” O God, what joy when I saw appear eight Canoes, filled partly with Adults and partly with little Children! I invoked their guardian Angels, imploring their succor and their intercession with God for the salvation of these souls so dear to them. After the people had landed, I showed them [86] the joy which I felt in seeing them and then I retired. They spent the rest of the day in housing themselves and in exchanging visits.

On the next day, the 21st of June, the feast of the Blessed Louis de Gonzague, I was in the Chapel at the time when I was to begin the instruction of these newcomers, and God sent me all the men separately; and, as I was pressed for time, I set about my task at once. I told them that he who made all things bade me love them; that I was obeying him, and that I did indeed love them; and that it was to give them sure proofs of this that I had come to that country after passing the winter with the Papinachois, their allies. They interrupted me often with their exclamations, “ O, o, o!” “ I care naught,” said I, “ for [87] your Beaver and Caribou skins; I have not come to trade; that is the business of the Papinachois and the French merchant who has come up here with us. May it please God that the Papinachois and Ouchestiguets burn not forever with the Demons in Hell; may it please God that they find eternal happiness in Heaven. Those are precisely my thoughts concerning you; and now it is for you to profit by the favor which God offers you, and to make good use of the time that we have to remain together, in order to render yourselves fit for

uent par leurs acclamations, ooo, ie me moque de [87] vos peaux de Castor, & de Caribouds, ie ne fuis pas venu pour traiter; c'est l'affaire des Papinachois & du marchand François, qui est monté icy avec nous. Plaife à Dieu que les Papinachois & les Ouchestigueti ne brûlent pas eternellement avec les Demons dans l'Enfer: Plaife à Dieu qu'ils soient eternellement bien-heureux dans le Ciel. Voila iustement ce que ie pense de vous, c'est à vous maintenant de profiter de la grace que Dieu vous presente, & à bien employer le temps que nous auons à demeurer ensemble, pour vous rendre capable du Baptesme:
cependant n'estes vous pas tres-aïses, que ie baptise
vos petits enfans. Karapouan, me respondirent-ils,
ouy. Ils les vont querir apres l'instruction, ils reuiennent tous ensemble; avec les petits enfans, & [88] leurs femmes. Cependant ie me dispose pour administrer le Baptesme à tous ces innocens; ie prie Monsieur Amiot d'estre leur parain. Tout estant preparé, ie leur expliquay les auantages du Baptesme, & ses effets tous merueilleux; ie leur en expliquay les ceremonies, ensuite dequoy ie baptisay seize petits en-fans, en deux bandes. On lisoit sur le visage des peres & des meres la ioye qu'ils auoient dans leurs cœurs.
Ils en donnerent beaucoup de preuues par les diuerfes acclamations qu'ils faisoient de temps en temps.

Cela estant fait, on m'aduertit que nous partirions
le vingt-troisième, ne me restant qu'un iour & demy pour instruire les Adultes. Voila un temps bien court, pour rendre capables du Baptesme des personnes, qui n'auoient iamais ouy parler des Mysteres
de nostre [89] Religion. Dieu qui ne manque iamais

Baptism. Meanwhile, are you not glad to have me baptize your little children?" Karapouan, replied they,—“Yes.” They went to fetch them after the lesson, and came back all together with the little children and [88] with their wives. In the meantime, I prepared to administer Baptism to all those innocents, begging Monsieur Amiot<sup>6</sup> to be their godfather. When all was ready, I explained to them the advantages of Baptism, its very marvelous effects, and also the meaning of the ceremonies attending it; after which I baptized sixteen little children in two groups. On the faces of the fathers and mothers could be read the joy they felt in their hearts, of which they gave many signs by the different exclamations which they uttered from time to time.

That being over, I was informed that we would take our departure on the twenty-third; this left me only a day and a half to teach the Adults. That was a very short time to render fit for Baptism persons who had never heard of the Mysteries of our [89] Religion; but God, who never fails in time of need, made up for the shortness of the time by increasing his graces twofold. The savages applied themselves so assiduously to the different lessons, and showed so much fervor in learning what they had to know before being baptized, that on the twenty-third I felt it my duty to give them private baptism, postponing the ceremonies to our next meeting.

While I was teaching them a rather amusing thing happened. I was explaining to them the last judgment, letting them see, on a large picture where all was represented, what would be the happiness of those who believed in God, hoped in him, and loved au befoin, fuplée au defaut du temps, en redoublant les graces, ils fe rendent fi affidus aux diuerfes instructions, & tefmoignent tant de ferueur à apprendre ce qu'ils deuoient neceffairement fçauoir auant que d'eftre baptifez, que le vingt-troifiefme, ie me creus obligé de les ondoyer, ayant differé les ceremonies à noftre premiere entreueuë.

Il arriua vne chofe affez agreable pendant que ie les inftiuifois: ie leur expliquois le iugement vniuerfel, leur faifant voir dans vne grande carte où il eftoit representé, quel feroit le bonheur de ceux qui auront crû en Dieu, qui auront efperé en luy, & qui l'auront aimé & feruy iufques à la fin; au contraire quel feroit le malheur de ceux qui ne croiront pas en luy, & qui [90] ne luy obeyront pas; comment les bons Chreftiens feront compagnons des Anges dans le Ciel, & les Infideles & mauuais Chreftiens feront les compagnons des Demons dans les feux de l'Enfer; lors qu'un de ces bons Cathecumenes m'interromp, & me dit nouta tapouïé nafpich nichikatanan natchi manitou; Mon Pere, en verité nous hayffons tout à fait le mefchant efprit, ie te prie ne le regardons plus: portons toufiours noftre veuë en haut. O que nous auons de plaifir à regarder le Ciel, & ceux qui y font bienheureux: & à mefme temps s'apperceuant que fon fils ainé, aagé d'environ douze ans arreftoit fa veuë fur la representation de l'Enfer, il le tança nigoufai kefta kitiriniffin espimitch ouabanta, mon fils; tu n'as pas defprit, regarde toufiours en hault.

[91] Ayant efté aduertiy que parmy ces Cathecumenes il y en auoit trois, qui auoient ionglé autrefois; ie les appellay en particulier en la Chapelle; & les ayant examinez fur ce qu'ils auoient fait en ionglant, and served him to the end; and, on the other hand, what would be the misery of those who did not believe in him and [90] obey him: how the good Christians would be the companions of the Angels in Heaven, and the Infidels and bad Christians the companions of the Demons in the fires of Hell. At this point one of those good Catechumens interrupted me, exclaiming: Nouta tapoué naspich nichikatanan natchi manitou,—"My Father, in truth, we utterly hate the evil spirit. I beg you, let us not look at him any longer; let us always fix our gaze above. Oh, what pleasure we take in contemplating Heaven, and those who are happy there!" At the same time, perceiving that his eldest son, about twelve years of age, had his eyes fixed on the representation of Hell, he rebuked him: Nigousai kesta kitirinissin espimitch ouabanta,—"My son, thou hast no sense; look always upward."

[91] Being informed that among these Catechumens there were three who had formerly been jugglers, I summoned them into the Chapel in private, and examined them on what they had done in juggling, and what were their intentions regarding it. They told me that their notion had been that there was a good and a bad manitou; that they hated the bad one, and loved the good one; and that all they had done had been solely for the purpose of honoring the good manitou. When I had thoroughly inculcated in them what Faith teaches us in this matter, they were satisfied, and resolved to obey him who made all things, and always to love prayer.

Among the ouchestigouetch there happened to be, by a special providence, an Oumamiois<sup>7</sup> Captain, a man of intelligence, who seemed to be the most & qu'elles estoï[en]t leurs pensées, il me dirent qu'ils auoient eu cette pensée, qu'il y auoit vn bon & vn mauuais manitou, qu'ils hayffoient le mauuais, & aymoient le bon; que tout ce qu'ils auoient fait, ce n'auoit esté que pour honorer le bon manitou. Leur ayant bien inculqué ce que la Foy nous enseigne la dessus, ils furent satisfaits, & resolus d'obeyr à celui qui a tout fait, & d'aymer tousiours la priere.

Parmy les oucheftigouetch, il se rencontra par vne prouidence toute particuliere, vn Capitaine Oumamiois, homme d'esprit, & qui a paru le plus affectionné à la priere: [92] Ce bon Cathecumene que ie baptisay avec sa femme, & quatre de ses enfans, ne se pouuoit lasser de parler à l'honneur de nos mysteres, il les a honorez dans toutes les occasions qui s'en sont presentées, particulièrement dans vne belle harangue qu'il fit, dans sa Cabane, en la presence du Sieur Amiot, des Papinachois, & des Ouchestigouetch. I'estois alors bien occupé dans la Chapelle. Le Sieur Amiot luy ayant fait present d'un rouleau de petun, d'une espée, & de quelques autres choses qu'ils estiment, & moy de deux belles Images, dans l'une desquelles la Mere de Dieu estoit dépeinte, tenant entre ses bras Iesus son Fils, & l'autre representoit le Sauueur du monde, tenant un globe dans une de ses mains; il nous dit merueilles la dessus, mais qu'il iroit faire voir les Images, dont ie [93] luy auois fait present, à toutes les nations qui sont alliées à la sienne, qu'il parcourroit tous les Villages qui sont tout le long de la Mer du Nord, pour y inuiter tous les Habitans à la priere: qu'il leur diroit par auance ce que ie luy auois enseigné; que tous les Capitaines de ce pays goufteroient du devoted to prayer. [92] This good Catechumen, whom I baptized with his wife and four children, was never tired of speaking in praise of our mysteries. He honored them on all occasions that offered, particularly in a fine harangue which he delivered in his Cabin, in the presence of Sieur Amiot, the Papinachois, and the Ouchestigouetch. I was at the time very busy in the Chapel. Sieur Amiot made him a present of a roll of tobacco, a sword, and some other things which they value, and I gave him two fine Pictures. In one of these the Mother of God was represented holding in her arms her Son Jesus; and in the other was the Savior of the world, holding a globe in one hand. At this he said wonderful things to us; he was going to exhibit these Pictures which I [93] had presented to him to all the nations allied to his own, and he would make a tour of all the Villages which lie along the North Sea, to invite all the Inhabitants to prayer. He said that he would tell them in advance what I had taught him; that all the Captains of that country would taste the tobacco which Sieur Amiot had given him; and that the sword of which he had made him a present would speak in a loud voice in honor of the French. As I found him to be a man of intelligence, and thoroughly acquainted with all that country, I did not lose this excellent opportunity to ask him a number of questions, which I shall set down here, with the replies.

“Is it very far from here to the two Villages where thy relatives and thyself dwell?” “One can arrive there in twenty nights, or thereabout.”

[94] “Can one ascend thither in a Canoe?” “Yes; but beyond those Villages Canoes are not used, petun que le Sieur Amiot luy auoit donné; que l'espée dont-il luy auoit fait present, parleroit bien haut à l'honneur des François. Comme c'estoit vn homme d'esprit, & qui auoit vne parfaite connoissance de tout ce pays, ie ne perdis pas cette belle occasion de luy faire plusieurs questions, que ie mettray ici, avec les responfes.

Y a-t'il bien loing, d'icy aux deux Villages, ou tes parens & toy faites vostre demeure? On y peut arriuer dans vingt nuits où enuiron.

[94] Y peut-on monter en Canot? Ouy. Mais passé ces Villages, on n'a plus l'usage des Canots, faute décorce pour en faire; les arbres de ce pays estant fort petits.

Ces deux Villages font-ils bien peuplez? Il y a beaucoup de monde. Vn Papinachois qui y a hyuerné avec nous, me la confirmé, y ayant esté autrefois.

Y a-t'il prez de là quelques autres villages? Ouy. Il y en à deux, & plus loing deux autres.

Dequoy viuent tous les habitans de ces pays? En esté, du poiffon qu'ils pechent dans de grands lacs; où ils en ont en abondance. Et en Hyuer, du Caribou qu'ils preferent aux Orignaux.

Y a-t'il bien loing de ces Villages à la mer du Nord? il faut employer vn Hyuer pour y aller & en reuenir.

[95] As-tu esté dans la Mer du Nord? Ouy.

La coste de cette Mer est elle peuplée? Il y a quantité de Sauuages que i'ay veus Oblige moy de m'en donner le Maffinahigan, la description avec les noms des peuples qui habitent cette coste. Il m'a donné la Topographie de ces pays, avec les noms des habitans, qui font ces diuerfes nations.

for want of bark to make them, the trees of that country being very small."

"Are those two Villages well peopled?" "There are a great many people there." A Papinachois who wintered with us confirmed this statement for me, having been there formerly.

"Are there any other villages near these?" "Yes, there are two; and, farther away, two others."

"On what do all the inhabitants of those districts live?" "In summer on fish, which they catch in large lakes, where they are found in abundance; and in Winter on Caribou flesh, which they prefer to Moose."

"Is it very far from those Villages to the North sea?" "It takes a Winter to go there and return."

[95] "Hast thou been to the North Sea?" "Yes."

"Is the coast of that Sea inhabited?" "I have seen a great many Savages there."

"Oblige me by giving me the Massinahigan, the description with the names of the tribes inhabiting that coast." He gave me the Topography of those regions with the names of the inhabitants composing the different nations.

O God, how many souls to win over to Jesus Christ!

"Have Europeans—French, or Spanish, or English—made their appearance on that coast?" "No."

As a result of this conversation, it was decided that he should return next year to the same Lake,—saint Barnabé,—and that I, or some other one of our Fathers, should go and join him at this same post, in order to go up from that place [96] to the two villages, and labor there in teaching his Compatriots. God

O Dieu que voila d'ames à gagner à Iefus-Christ.

Les Europeans, ou François, ou Espagnols, ou Anglois, ont ils paru en cette coste? Non.

Le refultat de cét entretien a esté, que l'année prochaine il se rendroit dans le mesme Lac de saint Barnabé; & que moy, ou quelqu'autre de nos Peres, nous l'irions ioindre à ce mesme poste, pour de là monter [96] aux deux villages, & y trauailler à l'instruction de ses Compatriotes. Plaife à Dieu que mes pechez n'y mettent point d'obstacle. Je fçay bien que le Demon fera ce qu'il pourra pour l'empescher: mais quis vt Deus! si Deus pro nobis quis contra nos? Je prie toutes les bonnes ames qui auront connoissance de cette Relation, d'offrir à Dieu quelques Messes, quelques Communions, quelques Chapelets, & quelques mortifications pour l'heureux fucez de cette Mission, & de cette nouuelle defcouuerte, ou il y a bien des ames à gagner. Le Baptisme que i'ay donné à prez de quatre-vingt perfonnes au Lac S. Barnabé, m'a bien donné de la ioye, mais cette nouuelle Mission qui se presente la comble entierement.

Nous nous fommes separez le vingt-trois de Iuin, & dans quatre [97] iours tant la riuiera est rapide, nous fommes heureusement arriuez au bord du grand fleue saint Laurent, ou nous estions bien attendus par les François & les Papinachois. Enfin deux iours & deux nuits d'un bon nordest nous ont rendu à Kebek.

grant that my sins be no obstacle to this purpose! I know well that the Evil One will do what he can to balk it; but quis ut Deus? si Deus pro nobis, quis contra nos? I pray all good souls who shall read this Relation to offer Masses, Communions, Rosaries, and mortifications to God, for the happy outcome of this Mission and of this new discovery, which offers many souls to be won. The Baptism of nearly eighty persons by me at Lake St. Barnabé has afforded me much joy; but it is far surpassed by that which I feel at sight of this new Mission presenting itself.

We parted on the twenty-third of June, and in four [97] days—so swift is the river—we arrived safely at the bank of the great river saint Lawrence, where our coming had been eagerly awaited by the French and the Papinachois. Finally, two days and two nights of good northeast wind brought us to Kebek.

DE L'EGLISE HURONNE À QUEBEC.

L'ESPRIT de Dieu opere ses merveilles où il luy plaist. Ce n'est pas seulement chez les peuples policez, & parmy les personnes confiées à Dieu, que se trouue la deuotion: les Sauvages en sont capables, & les Cabanes d'Esforce cachent autant de vertu, qu'on en peut souhaiter dans les cloistres. [98] Depuis qu'on a introduit dans l'Eglise des Hurons de Quebec, vne deuotion qui fait de grands fruits parmy les François de ce pays; & qu'on leur a inspiré le dessein de regler leurs familles sur celle de Iesus Marie & Ioseph, on ne peut croire iusques où va la ferueur de ces pauvres Barbares. Ceux qui sont admis dans cette sainte famille, ne souffrent point chez eux de discours messeants; & l'on voit à present de pauvres femmes, qui n'eussent pas auparavant osé ouvrir la bouche, s'élever comme des Lionnes contre des fripons, qui veulent parler mal en leur presence; ce qui est bien rare, & bien à priser parmy des nations Barbares, où la licence de tout dire, & de tout faire regne avec impunité.

Mais la deuotion de ces bonnes gens ne se termine pas là. Pendant [99] la semaine Sainte le Pere qui à soin de cette Eglise, les ayant entretenus, de ce que nostre Seigneur a souffert pour l'expiation de nos crimes; vne bonne Huronne estant retournée en sa Cabane, dit à sa Compagne; Pourquoi ne compatirons

CHAPTER V.

OF THE HURON CHURCH AT QUEBEC.

GOD'S Spirit works its wonders wherever he chooses. It is not merely among civilized nations, and in souls consecrated to God, that devotion is found; Savages are capable of it, and Cabins of Bark conceal as much virtue as can be desired in cloisters. [98] Since there has been introduced into the Huron Church of Quebec a devotion which bears abundant fruit among the French of this country, and since they have been inspired with the idea of modeling their families after that of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, it is impossible to believe the length to which the fervor of these poor Barbarians goes. Those who are admitted into this holy family do not allow in their homes any sinful talk; and one now sees poor women, who before would not have dared to open their mouths, rise up like Lionesses against rascals who try to hold sinful converse in their presence—a conduct very rare, and to be highly valued, among Barbarous nations, where license of speech and action reigns with impunity.

But the devotion of these good people does not end there. During [99] Holy week, after the Father who has charge of that Church had spoken on our Lord's sufferings for the expiation of our crimes, a good Huron woman went back into her Cabin and said to her Companion: "Why should we not show our sympathy with our good suffering Savior? He nous pas à nostre bon Sauueur souffrant? il a esté flagellé si cruellement; Hé bien flagellons-nous l'une l'autre; voila mes épaules prestes, commencez, nous n'auons pas permission du Pere, respond la compagne, qui luy ferma la bouche par ces mots; mais elle conçeut en mesme temps le dessein de faire en son particulier, ce qu'elle n'auoit pû obtenir de la compagne. De fait s'estant trouuée seule en la Cabane, & iugeant que pour se discipliner soy-mesme, il ne falloit pas de permission, comme pour fraper les autres; elle se [100] disciplina si rudement, que les marques luy en demurerent long-temps grauées sur ses épaules.

Cette genereuse Huronne à autant de bonté & de douceur pour les autres, qu'elle a de rigueur pour elle mesme: elle à soin de visiter les malades, & de les assister en ce qu'elle peut; elle leur raconte en particulier les exhortations qui ont esté faites publiquement en nostre Chapelle; elle retire chez soy les orphelins, comme elle a fait trois pauvres petits enfans, qu'elle veut bien nourrir & entretenir, nonobstant sa pauureté; de peur qu'estans depourueus de pere & de mere, ils ne tombent entre les mains d'un certain de leurs parens, qui n'a pas la foy trop bien enracinée dans l'ame. Elle sert de pere, de mere, & mesme de pere spirituel à ces petits enfans; les éleuant dans l'innocence, [101] & leur inspirant la crainte de Dieu; comme le montre assez ce qu'elle fit vn iour, lors qu'ils se laisserent aller à quelque badinerie propre de leur aage; car pour leur faire apprehender la griuete de leur peché, qu'elle apprehendoit elle mesme comme tres grief; elle leur dit que c'estoit fait d'eux, qu'ils feroient pendus, comme was scourged so cruelly! Come, let us scourge each other; there are my shoulders, begin!" "We have not the Father's permission," replied her companion, shutting the woman's mouth with these words. But the latter at once resolved that she herself would execute what she had been unable to obtain from her companion. In fact, when she found herself alone in her Cabin, thinking that to inflict the discipline on oneself required no permission, as it did to strike others, she took [100] the discipline with such severity that the marks of it remained for a long time engraven on her shoulders.

This noble-spirited Huron has as much goodness and gentleness for others as she has rigor for herself. She takes care to visit the sick, and to help them as far as she is able. She repeats to them in private the exhortations which have been made publicly in our Chapel. She takes orphans under her shelter, as she did with three poor little children whom, notwithstanding her poverty, she willingly feeds and cares for,—lest, being bereft of father and mother, they should fall into the hands of one of their relatives, whose faith is not sufficiently rooted in his soul. She acts as father, mother, and even spiritual father, to these little children, bringing them up in innocence, [101] and inspiring them with the fear of God. This was sufficiently shown by what she did one day, when they indulged in some frolic natural at their age. For in order to give them some conception of the gravity of their offense, which she herself regarded as very serious, she told them that it was all over with them, and that they would be hanged just as they had seen a Frenchman hanging on the gallows. She said this so earnestly that those ils auoient veu vn François attaché à la potence; & elle difoit cela de fi bonne façon; que ces pauvres enfans croyoient que tous les paffans estoient les executeurs qui les venoient prendre; l'un fe cachoit dans vn coin de la Cabane, & les autres s'enfuyoient à demy-nuds parmy la neige dans les broffailles; enfin elle leur perfuada que pour éuiter ce fupplice, ils deuoient s'en confeffer au plutoft, & en mefme temps elle vint à Quebec parler [102] au Pere, elle luy donna vne grande alarme par la fufpention d'un cas eſtrange qu'elle auoit à luy raconter, & le tout fe terminoit à ces legeretez d'enfant, qu'elle apprehendoit fi fort, qu'elle n'eut point de repos, & n'en donna point à ces enfans, qu'ils ne s'en fuſſent confeſſez. C'eſt apprehender viuement iuſques aux plus legeres imperfections.

La methode que tient cette bonne Huronne, pour éleuer ſes enfans, eſt tout à fait rauiffante. Car quand ſon petit fils, aagé ſeulement de deux ou trois ans, a eſté batu par ſes petits compagnons, & qu'il retourne tout pleurant dans la Cabane; elle ne ſe met pas à l'appaiſer, & à effuyer ſes larmes en le flattant; comme font d'ordinaire les autres meres: mais au contraire, elle luy apprend à offrir à Dieu [103] ſes petites ſouffrances: tais toy luy dit-elle, tais-toy: tu pleure au lieu d'offrir à Dieu la douleur que tu ſens; viſte, mets-toy à genoux, fais vne offrande à Dieu du mal qu'on t'a fait: Prie pour ceux qui t'ont bleſſé, afin que l'eſprit leur reuienne, & qu'ils ſ'abſtiennent de faire deſormais mal aux autres: & pour lors ce pauvre petit ſ'agenoüille, & repete ce que ſa mere luy enſeigne; la priere eſtant finie le voila tout guery.

poor children thought every passer-by was the executioner come to take them; one of them hid in a corner of the Cabin, and the others took refuge, half-naked, in the snow among the bushes. At last she persuaded them that, in order to avoid this punishment, they must make confession as soon as possible; and then she came to Quebec to speak [102] to the Father. She caused him serious alarm by leading him to suspect that what she had to relate was some strange case, and it all ended in these childish trifles, which she regarded as so grave that she found no rest, and gave none to the children, until they had confessed. That is being keenly apprehensive even about the least imperfections.

The manner of raising her children adopted by this good Huron woman is extremely wonderful. When her little son, only two or three years old, has been beaten by his little comrades, and comes back into the Cabin weeping, she does not set about soothing him, wiping away his tears, and caressing him, as other mothers ordinarily do; on the contrary, she teaches him to make an offering to God [103] of his little sufferings. "Be quiet," she says, "be quiet; thou art crying, instead of offering up to God the pain which thou feelest. Make haste; down on thy knees, and make an offering to God of the injury thou hast received. Pray for those who have hurt thee, in order that their sense may return to them, and they may abstain in the future from ill-treating others." And then this poor little one kneels down, and repeats what his mother prompts him; and when the prayer is done, lo! he feels perfectly well again.

She is very zealous for the conversion of her compatriots, instructing them, exhorting them, and Elle à vn zele tres grand pour la conuerfion de fes compatriotes, elle les instruit, elle les exhorte, elle les confond avec douceur pour les retirer du peché; & fa charité la rend fi éloquente, qu'elle entre dans les cœurs plus rebelles pour en faire des cœurs tout Chrestiens.

A l'occasion de quelques aumosnes venües de France, pour les Sauuages, [104] qu'on leur auoit distribuées; Ce n'est pas d'aujourd'huy, disoit-elle à quelques libertins, qui ne se rangoient pas a leur deuoir; que la foy des François, & que leur charité nous doit conuaincre que ce qu'on nous prefche font des veritez infailibles. Combien y a t'il d'années qu'on nous prefche, & qu'on nous instruit, fans autre recompense, sinon celle qu'on attend de Dieu d'une vie eternelle? Ny la crainte des feux Ennemis, ny toutes leurs cruantez ne font pas reculer ceux qui nous font allez chercher dans le pays des Iroquois.

Les aumosnes qu'on nous enuoye de France depuis dix ou douze ans, que les Iroquois nous ont chassé de nostre pays des Hurons, font des tesmoignages de la pieté, & de la viue foy, des bonnes ames [105] qui s'ostent a elles-mêmes, ce que nous receuons de leur part. Les soins que prennent de nos malades les faintes filles Hospitalieres; les instructions que donnent à nos enfans les Vrfulines, fans y gagner quoy que ce soit, sinon le Paradis qu'elles attendent pour recompense; n'est ce pas vne preuue qui nous doit-estre conuainquante que nous deuous gagner auffi le Paradis? Ou ceux qui nous enuoyent leurs charitez de France, font des foux de nous les enuoyer sans l'esperance d'une recompense eternelle, ou nous sommes infensez de ne pas fouhaiter pour nous cette mesme confounding them with her gentleness, in order to reclaim them from sin; and her charity makes her so eloquent that she penetrates the most rebellious hearts to make of them hearts wholly Christian.

On the occasion of the arrival of some alms from France for the Savages, [104] after their distribution, she said to some libertines who did not mind their duties: "It is not this day only when the faith and charity of the French ought to convince us that what they preach to us is infallible truth. How many years is it during which they have been preaching to us and teaching us, without any other reward than the expectation of an eternal life from God? Neither the fear of the Enemy's fires, nor all their cruelties make those draw back who went to the country of the Iroquois in quest of us.

"The alms which have been sent us from France for ten or twelve years, since the Iroquois drove us out of our Huron country, are evidences of the piety and the living faith of the good souls [105] who deprive themselves of what we receive from their hands. The care which the holy maidens of the Hospital take of our sick; the teachings which the Ursulines give our children, without gaining anything in return except the Paradise which they expect as a reward—is not this a proof which ought to convince us that we too are to win Paradise? Either those who send us their alms from France prove themselves to be fools by sending them to us, if they have not the hope of an eternal reward; or we show that we are mad by not striving after this same reward of Paradise that is promised us. Think-est thou," she asked, addressing a young debauchee, "that thou art wiser than those who teach us?

recompense du Paradis qu'on nous promet: crois tu estre plus sage que ceux qui nous enseignent? dit-elle s'adressant à vn ieune homme débauché. Lors que tu t'eschappas tout nud des mains des Iroquois, [106] ils ont couuert ta nudité, & t'ont feruy & de pere & de mere, de parent & de tout. C'est sans doute qu'ils t'aiment, & qu'ils veulent ton bien. Pourquoy donc n'obeys-tu pas à leurs conseils? Pourquoi ne fais-tu pas ce qu'ils te disent qu'il faut faire, pour éviter les feux d'Enfer, & te sauuer d'une captiuité plus cruelle, que n'estoit pour toy celle des Iroquois dont tu t'es sauué avec tant de fatigues? En vn mot, l'eloquence Chrestienne & charitable de cette vertueuse Huronne, conuertit sur l'heure mesme ce jeune Huron débauché, qui fut touché de ces discours tout embrasés, & qui changea de vie par vne veritable conuersion.

Le calme de son cœur parut à l'endroit d'une femme à qui elle auoit presté vne chaudiere, qui se trouua perduë pendant quelque [107] caiolerie, que cette femme permit qu'on luy fist, car au lieu de se fâcher contre elle; ma sœur, luy dit cette bonne Chrestienne: Ce n'est pas cette perte que ie regretteray iamais, mais la perte de ton ame; de ce que tu as peché, & offensé Dieu, permettant des caioleries, dont tu deuois auoir horreur, puis que tu es Chrestienne. Non iamais ie ne te parleray de ma chaudiere, pourueu que tu te confesse au plustost, ie te la donne; mais donne à Dieu ce que tu luy dois, & fois plus sage deormais. Il n'en fallut pas dauantage pour faire vne penitente.

Son mary estant malade à l'extremité, d'une maladie dont-il mourut en effet. Vn Iongleur Abnaquiois

When thou didst escape entirely naked from the hands of the Iroquois, [106] they covered thy nakedness, and stood to thee as father, and mother, and relative, and all. Beyond a doubt they love thee, and desire thy good. Why, then, dost thou not obey their counsels? Why doest thou not what they tell thee that thou must do in order to avoid the fires of Hell, and escape from a captivity more cruel than that which thou hast experienced among the Iroquois, from whom thou didst escape with so great difficulty?" In a word, the charitable Christian eloquence of this virtuous Huron woman converted on the spot the young Huron debauchee who, touched by this glowing discourse, was thoroughly converted, and changed his life.

The calmness of her disposition was made evident in the case of a woman to whom she had lent a kettle, which chanced to be lost during some [107] cajolery that this woman permitted to be practiced upon her. Instead of getting angry with her, this good Christian said to her: "My sister, it is not this loss that I shall ever regret, but the loss of thy soul; for thou hast sinned and offended God, by permitting cajoleries of which thou shouldst have a horror, because thou art a Christian. No, I shall never speak to thee about my kettle, provided thou makest confession as early as possible. I give it to thee; but do thou give to God what thou owest him, and be more discreet in the future." It needed no more to make a penitent.

Her husband being extremely ill with a malady from which, in fact, he died, an Abnaquiois Juggler, who had recently come from far inland, said he would undertake the cure of this man, if [108] he were venu depuis peu du fond des terres, dit qu'il entreprendroit la guerifon de cette homme, si l'on [108] luy vouloit permettre d'employer son art & son Demon à cette cure. Je l'ay enforcélé, disoit il, ie l'aduouë; mais i'en ay compassion; qu'on me permette seulement de le visiter, & ie leue le fort, & le malade fera guery. C'estoit trop demander à cette bonne Chrestienne, qui aime mieux voir mourir son mary deuant ses yeux, quoy qu'il luy fust tres-cher, que de permettre au longleur d'entrer dans la Cabane. Et quelque temps apres, comme on luy reprochoit qu'elle auoit laissé mourir son mary. Hé quoy, dit-elle, vous voudriez donc qu'a l'affliction que i'ay receuë de sa mort, i'y eusse adiousté celle que i'aurois de luy auoir fait commettre vn peché, deuant que de mourrir; allez i'aymois mon cher mary plus que moy mesme, mais i'ayme mieux le voir mort n'ayant pas voulu commettre [109] cette faute, que de le voir en vie, s'il auoit commis vn peché de cette nature, & moy avec luy; & ie voudrois plus de mal à ce longleur d'auoir rendu la santé à mon mary, en offensant Dieu, que de l'auoir laissé mourir, sans vser de ses malefices. Sa charité n'en demeura pas là, car peu apres la femme & les enfans de ce pretendu forcier estant en grande necessité, elle les receut en sa Cabane, les nourrit & leur rendit tous les témoignages d'une veritable amitié; rendant ainsi le bien pour le mal, & conferuant la vie à ceux à qui l'on imputoit la mort de son mary.

Estant vn iour sollicitée au mal, par vn riche present qu'un François luy faisoit à ce dessein; malheureux, luy dit-elle, ne fçais-tu pas que i'ay la foy? Et dequoy me seruira dans l'Enfer toute ta porcelaine, permitted to use his art and his Demon in the cure. "I have bewitched him," said he, "I admit it; but I have pity on him. Let me only visit him, and I will dispel the charm, and the sick man shall be cured." That was too much to ask of this good Christian, who preferred to see her husband die before her eyes, although he was very dear to her, than to permit the Juggler to enter the Cabin. And, some time afterward, when she was reproached with having let her husband die, she exclaimed: "What? You would wish me to add to the affliction I have received in his death, that of having made him commit a sin before dying? No, no. I loved my dear husband more than myself; but I prefer to see him dead and to know that he refused to commit [109] this sin, than to see him alive because he, and I with him, had committed a sin of that nature. And I would wish this Juggler greater ill for having restored my husband's health by offending God, than for having let him die without using his witchcraft." Her charity did not stop there; for, a little later, the wife and children of this pretended sorcerer being in great need, she took them into her Cabin, fed them, and gave them every evidence of genuine friendship,—in this way returning good for evil, and saving the lives of those to whom was imputed the death of her husband.

On being one day solicited, by a rich present which a Frenchman gave her with this end in view, to do wrong, "Wretched man," she exclaimed; "knowest thou not that I have the faith? And of what use will all thy porcelain be to me in Hell, except [110] for an eternal remorse that, in the hope of a slight gain, I delivered myself over of my own finon [110] d'un eternal repentir, de ce que fous l'esperance d'un petit gain, ie me ferois moy-mesme liurée à tant de maux. Elle chargea cet impudent de confusion, & elle n'auoit garde de parler autrement, elle qui est dans de continuels exercices de pieté.

Elle sceut bien faire vne réponse d'une vertu solide, à quelques libertins qui luy reprochoient, que tout son fait n'estoit qu'hypocrisie, & qu'elle vouloit gagner l'estime des hommes, par cette belle montre. Cela estoit bon leur dit-elle au commencement que ie me faisois instruire; mais maintenant, que ie scay ce que me vaudront mes exercices de deuotion dans le Ciel, ie n'ay garde d'en prendre pour toute recompense, un vain applaudissement, qui n'est que de la fumée, ou des paroles qui se perdent en [111] l'air. Enfin elle veut faire la sainte Vierge heritiere de tous ses biens, quand elle mourra: ce n'est pas grande chose; que peut donner à sa mort une pauvre Huronne, qui pendant sa vie à grand besoin de nostre assistance; mais si la maille d'une pauvre femme a esté preferée aux pieces d'or des Pharisiens selon le iugement du Sauueur, quel sentiment doit-on auoir, d'une femme Sauvage qui fait declarer la sainte Vierge son heritiere, en presence de ses parens.

L'Eglise Huronne nous fournit d'autres ames de cette trempe, dont-il feroit trop long de faire le recit dans le détail. Voicy seulement deux ou trois traits de leur bons sentimens.

Quelques ieunes filles nouvellement venuës de France estant entrées en nostre Chapelle, lors que [112] nos Chrestiennes Huronnes y faisoient leurs prieres, ne pouuoient à cause de la nouveauté s'empescher d'auoir les yeux continuellement tournez accord to so many woes." She overwhelmed this shameless man with confusion, and she, who is in the constant exercise of piety, cared not to speak otherwise.

She knew how to respond—it was the response of solid virtue—to certain libertines who reproached her that all her behavior was only hypocrisy, and that she wished to win the esteem of men by these fair appearances. "That might well have been the case," said she, "when first I began to be instructed; but now that I know what my practice of devotion will be worth to me in Heaven, I do not care to take for sole reward a vain applause which is only smoke, or words which are lost in [111] the air." Finally, she intends to make, at her death, the blessed Virgin heiress to all her possessions. It is no great amount that a poor Huron woman, who during her lifetime has great need of our help, can give at her death; but if the mite of a poor woman was preferred to the gold-pieces of the Pharisees in our Savior's judgment, what are we to think of a Savage woman who, in the presence of her relatives, declares the blessed Virgin her heiress?

The Huron Church furnishes us other souls of this stamp, a detailed account of which would be too long. I will merely give two or three instances of their good sentiments.

Some young girls newly arrived from France entered our Chapel at the time when [112] our Christian Huron women were saying their prayers there; and they could not help having their eyes constantly turned toward these Savages, because of the novelty. The latter, soon becoming aware of this, went out of the Church quietly, before their customary prayers vers ces Sauvages; lesquelles s'en apperceuant bien, fortirent doucement de l'Eglise, auant que leurs prieres ordinaires fussent acheuées; le Pere qui en a foin leur ayant demandé la cause de leur sortie, elles répondirent ingenument, qu'elles aymoient mieux ne pas prier, que d'estre caufe, que ces filles Françoises priaissent mal; qu'elles demeuroient volontiers à la porte de l'Eglise, pour oster le fuiet des distractions, qu'elles auoient à leur occasion: que leur temps ne leur estoit pas si precieux, qu'elles ne differassent vn peu, & qu'elles ne vouloient pas que leur deuotion troublast celle des autres; de fait ces filles Françoises estant sorties de [113] l'Eglise, ces Huronnes y rentrerent & acheuerent les prieres qu'elles auoient commencées.

Vne bonne Huronne à qui Dieu s'est communiqué tres-particulierement pendant le tremble-terre de l'an passé, a inspiré vne ferueur toute extraordinaire à son mary, qui estoit fort lasche en la priere; & comme ses entretiens ordinaires sont des choses de Dieu & de l'autre monde; le plus petit de ses deux enfans qui a enuiron six ans, l'ayant ouy parler des effroyables peines d'Enfer, en fut si épouuenté, qu'il luy demanda sur le champ permission de se retirer chez nous, avec nos petits Pensionnaires, afin d'être éloigné des occasions d'offenser Dieu. Sa mere luy respondit que les petits François dans le Seminaire le battroient & le mal-traiteroient, comme n'estant pas de leur [114] nation; hé bien repartit-il, que i'aïlle donc demeurer chez hari ouaouagui; C'est le nom que les Hurons donnent à Monseigneur l'Euefque de Petrée. Il fit tant d'instances, qu'il fallut l'y mener; & la il receut assurance de la part de were finished. The Father who has charge of them asked them the reason of their going out; and they answered frankly that they preferred not to pray rather than cause these French girls to pray ill. They said that, consequently, they would willingly wait at the Church door, in order to remove the cause of distraction which the girls found in them; and that their time was not so precious to them that they could not put off their prayers a little, and they did not wish their devotion to disturb that of others. So, when these French girls had left [113] the Church, the Huron women went back, and finished the prayers they had begun.

A good Huron woman, to whom God made a very special manifestation of himself during the earthquake of last year, has inspired in her husband, who used to be very remiss in prayer, a fervor which is quite extraordinary. Her conversation is about the things of God and of the other world; and thus the younger of her two children, who is about six years old, hearing her tell about the frightful torments of Hell, was so alarmed thereby that he asked her permission on the spot to retire to our Seminary among our little Boarders, in order to be removed from occasions for offending God. His mother answered him that the little French boys in the Seminary would beat and maltreat him, as one not of their own [114] nation. "Well," he returned, "let me then go and live with hari ouaouagui,"—that is the name the Hurons give to Monseigneur the Bishop of Petrea. The boy was so urgent that he had to be taken there, where he was assured by Monseigneur the Bishop that he would be admitted when he was larger, if by the grace of God he continued in this Monseigneur l'Euefque, que quand il feroit grand il y feroit admis, fi Dieu luy continuoit ce bon defir. Voila les fruits de la bonne education que les parens donnent à leurs enfans lors qu'ils leur inspirent la deuotion avec le lait.

A ce propos ie me fouuiens de la pratique d'une bonne Huronne quand elle allaitoit fon enfant; car elle addreffoit d'ordinaire cette priere à l'enfant Iefus, Ah Seigneur, que ie me fuffe estimée heureufe, fi pendant vofre enfance la sainte Vierge m'eust permis de vous donner à tetter quelques gouttes de [115] mon lait: mais puisque ie n'ay pas eû le bonheur de me trouuer pour lors au monde, & de vous rendre en propre perfonne, ce petit feruice, ie vous le veux rendre, au moins en la perfonne de mon fils; puisque vous avez dit, que ce qu'on feroit, au moindre des voftres, vous le reputeriez pour fait à vous-mefme. Ainfi en vfoit-elle toutes les fois qu'elle approchoit fon enfant de fon fein, avec vne tendrefse, & vne familiarité avec nostre Seigneur tout à fait aimable. Vne feule chofe l'inquietoit dans cette deuotion, fçauoir qu'elle s'estimoit trop vile, & trop méprifable, pour en vfer avec tant de priuauté: & il fallut fortifier fon humilité, pour la faire continuer dans cette innocente pratique.

La bonne Heleine qui eut l'an paffé fes enfans enleuez à Montreal [116] par les Iroquois, defquels elle receut tant de coups de hâche, qu'ils la laifferent pour morte, ayant eu vn œil creué & vne grande deformité qui luy en eft restée au vifage; ne laiffe pas pourtant de se trouuer dans toutes les affemblées de deuotion, & elle offre à nostre Seigneur tous les matins, autant de nouvelles confusions, qu'on iette good desire. Such are the fruits of the good education which parents give their children when they instill in them, with their mothers' milk, a spirit of devotion.

In this connection, I remember the practice of a good Huron woman when she suckled her child. She ordinarily addressed this prayer to the child Jesus: "Ah, Lord, how happy I would have deemed myself if, during your infancy, the blessed Virgin had let me give you a few drops of [115] milk from my breast! But since I had not the good fortune to be living at that time, and to render this little service to you in your own person, I wish at least to render it to you in the person of my son; for you have said that whatsoever one shall do unto the least of your children you will consider it as done unto yourself." Such was her custom every time she put her child to her breast, addressing our Lord with altogether charming tenderness and familiarity. A single thing made her uneasy in this act of devotion, and that was that she deemed herself too vile and contemptible to treat him with such intimacy; and it was necessary to add courage to her humility, to make her continue this innocent practice.

The good Heleine, whose children were carried off at Montreal, last year, [116] by the Iroquois,—from whom she received so many blows with the hatchet that she was left for dead, one of her eyes blinded and her face grievously and lastingly disfigured—yet never fails to be present at all devotional meetings; and every morning she offers to our Lord each new humiliation that she must endure from the looks cast at her during the day. She does not complain that she is so disfigured, but that her fur elle d'œillades pendant le iour; elle ne se plaint pas d'estre si defigurée, mais de ce que ses pauvres enfans sont en si grand danger de se damner parmy les Iroquois; & c'est vniquement pour pleurer ce malheur, qu'elle souhaiteroit l'vsage de ses deux yeux. Souuent elle adresse à la fainte Vierge, cette douce priere, fainte Vierge ayez pitié de moy; il ny a que vous qui auez bien conçu par vostre propre experience, la douleur que [117] ressent vne mere de la perte de ses enfans; assistez-moy donc s'il vous plaist, selon mes besoins, que vous connoissez bien mieux que moy-mesme.

La pieté ne donne pas seulement de la tendresse aux femmes, mais aussi de la constance aux hommes Hurons: comme il parut en vn bon Chrestien, depuis quelque temps conuerty d'une vie vn peu trop licentieuse, à vn estat de deuotion qui ne le cede point à la ferueur des Religieux les plus exercez en la vertu de patience. Cét homme ayant quelque mal à la main voulut y appliquer vn de leurs remedes ordinaires, se sacrifiant à coups de couteau, & se faisant diuerfes incisions, mais si peu adroitement qu'il se coupa des nerfs, & des veines; ce qui luy a fait pourrir presque toute la main, de sorte que [118] pour se déliurer, & de la puanteur de cette pourriture & de la douleur qu'il ressentoit, il se resolut de se couper luy mesme plusieurs doits de cette main avec vne constance admirable & vraiment Chrestienne: Car pendant toute cette rigoureuse operation, & tout le temps en suite qu'elle luy cauoit de cruelles douleurs, iamais on ne luy a ouy dire vne parole d'impatience, mais il s'entretenoit tousiours aimablement avec nostre Seigneur. Ah grand Dieu, disoit il, poor children are in such danger of damnation among the Iroquois; and it is solely to weep over this misfortune that she would desire the use of both her eyes. She often addresses this gentle prayer to the blessed Virgin: "Holy Virgin, have pity on me! You alone know by your own experience the grief that [117] a mother feels at the loss of her children. Help me then, if you please, according to my needs, which you know much better than I myself."

Piety gives not only tenderness to the Huron women, but also steadfastness to the Huron men. This was made evident in the case of a good Christian converted, some time ago, from a somewhat licentious life to a devout state of mind, which is no whit inferior to the fervor of the Religious most practiced in the virtue of patience. This man, having some sore on his hand, decided to apply to it one of their ordinary remedies, cutting himself with a knife and making several incisions, but with so little skill that he severed some of the tendons and veins. This brought on mortification of almost the entire hand, so that, [118] in order to rid himself of the stench of this gangrene, and the pain that he felt, he made up his mind to cut off, by himself, several fingers of this hand—and this he executed with a firmness which was admirable and truly Christian. For during the whole of this severe operation, and all the time following, when it caused him cruel tortures, one never heard an impatient word from him; but he always gently conversed with our Lord. "Ah, great God," he would say; "what is this that I suffer now in comparison with what I had deserved to suffer in Hell, if you had not saved me from it when I merited it for my sins? Ah, my God, it seems to me that, if qu'est ce que ie souffre maintenant, au prix de ce que i'auois merit  de souffrir en Enfer, si vous ne m'en eussiez preferu , lors que ie l'ay merit  par mes pechez. Ah mon Dieu! il me semble que si l'on comprenoit bien la consolation, qu'apporte la foy par l'esperance du Paradis, dans nos plus cuifantes douleurs, il [119] ne faudroit point d'autre chose pour conclure, que tout ce qu'on nous enseigne est vray. Il repete souuent ces prieres chez luy. Mais c'est vn plaisir de le voir & de l'entendre quand il croit-estre seul dans nostre Chapelle, car c'est pour lors qu'il r pond son c ur avec ses larmes deuant le saint Sacrement. Il faut que la grace ayt vn grand empire, pour obtenir cela des c urs de ses pauvres Sauvages, qui sont nez &  leuez dans la Barbarie.

Il est bon d'adiouster icy, ce que les Meres Vrsulines de Quebec, nous ont donn  par  crit, touchant vne bonne Algonkine qui a demeur  pendant vn temps assez notable chez elles, voicy ce qu'elles en disent.

Entre les Seminaristes que nous auons eu cette ann e dans nostre Seminaire, il y a eu vne bonne veuve [120] assez aag e nomm e Geneui e Algonkine, Nepisirinienne de nation, laquelle s achant bien que nous n'en receuions point de son aage, nous fit prier par le Pere qui gouuerne les Sauvages, de ne pas laisser de luy faire cette charit . Depuis vingt-trois ans que nous sommes dans ce pays, ie n'ay point veu de Sauvages aussi feruentes que cette bonne femme: elle nous suiuit tout le iour aux obseruances du Ch ur, o  elle recitoit des Chapelets   diuerfes intentions, & entr'autres pour le salut des Algonkains; lors qu'elle en auoit dit plusieurs, elle faisoit it were well understood what comfort faith brings us in the hope of Paradise, amid our sharpest pains, [119] nothing else would be needed to make us conclude that all that we are taught is true." He often repeats these prayers in his home; but it is a pleasure to see and hear him when he thinks that he is alone in our Chapel, for then he pours out his heart with his tears before the blessed Sacrament. God's grace must indeed have great power to work this in the hearts of his poor Savages, who are born and reared in Barbarism.

It is well to add here what the Ursuline Mothers of Quebec have given us in writing concerning a good Algonkin woman who has dwelt a considerable time with them. This is what they say about her.

" Among the Seminarists whom we have had this year in our Seminary, there has been a good widow, [120] quite old, named Geneviève, an Algonkin of the Nepisirinien nation. Knowing well that we did not receive women of her age, she had had the Father in charge of the Savages beg us not to refuse to do her this kindness. During the twenty-three years that we have spent in this country, I have seen no Savages so fervent as this good woman. She followed us every day to the Choir services, where she said her Beads over and over for different purposes,—among others for the salvation of the Algonkains; and when she had said them several times, she would offer Jaculatory Prayers on her Rosary. She never tired of praying, or of receiving instruction in the mysteries of our holy Faith. She would often tell us her adventures, and, among others, she once [121] related the following: ' I have had signal experience of God's aid, in the firm belief that I have in him;

des Oraifons Iaculatoires fur fon Chappelet, & ne fe laffoit point de prier Dieu, non plus que d'eftre instruite fur les myfteres de nostre sainte Foy. Elle nous racontoit fouuent fes auantures; entre autres vne fois, [121] i'ay fort experimenté, difoit-elle, le fecours de Dieu, dans la ferme creance que i'ay en luy; il m'a gardée par tout. Retournant de nostre pays pour venir en ces cartiers; nous fimmes rencontre des Iroquois; ie me iettay contre terre; ouaboukima mon frere auoit vne grande frayeur, nostre troupe fuyoit ça & là dans les bois; ie disois a mon frere, prens courage, fois ferme, croy fortement en celuy qui a tout fait, il nous fauuera & gardera de nos ennemis. Sans cefse, difoit-elle, ie l'exhortois, pendant que les bales des fusils fifloient de tous costez à lentour de nous; & Dieu nous protegea fi fortement en cette rencontre, que pas vn de nous ne fut bleffé, ny apperceu de l'Ennemy, que nous voyions tout auprez de nous.

Son mary estant mort en fon [122] pays, qui est à plus de cinq cens lieuës d'icy, il n'y auoit pour lors point de Pere pour l'aider à bien mourir, ny pour luy administrer les Sacrements; cette bonne femme en auoit le cœur outré de douleur: Neantmoins, comme elle est fort éloquente, dans la crainte qu'elle auoit que cét homme ne fust pas en bon estat, elle l'exhorta puiffamment, luy faifant fans cefse produire des actes de Contrition, de forte que par ses feruentes admonitions, il mourut en bon Chrestien. Elle est inconfolable, lors qu'elle pense à ses enfans qui font tous morts, & quelques vns fans estre baptifez. Vn feul qui luy estoit resté, mourut agé de neuf à dix ans, & parce qu'elle le vit vn iour parler à vn

he has protected me everywhere. When returning from our country to come into these regions, we met some Iroquois. I threw myself on the ground; ouaboukima, my brother, was very much frightened, while our band fled hither and thither in the woods. "Take courage," I said to my brother; "be firm, and earnestly believe in him who made all things; he will save us, and protect us from our enemies." Without ceasing,' said she, 'I continued to exhort him, while the musket-balls whistled around us on all sides. But God was so strong a protection to us, in this encounter, that not one of us was wounded, or seen by the Enemy, whom we saw quite near us.'

"When her husband was dying in her own [122] country, which is more than five hundred leagues from here, there was not at that time any Father there to help him die a holy death, or to administer the Sacraments to him. This good woman was therefore breaking her heart with grief. Nevertheless, as she is very eloquent, in the fear which she entertained that her husband was not in a proper condition, she exhorted him earnestly, and constantly made him perform acts of Contrition; so that, as a result of her fervent admonitions, he died a good Christian. She is inconsolable when she thinks of her children, who have all died, some of them without baptism. A single one who had been left her died when he was at the age of nine or ten; and, because she saw him speak to a Juggler one day, she thinks he may have been damned for this sin. Although a long time has passed [123] since she suffered these losses, she still laments them, and gives alms, in order that God may be pleased to take pity on her. When she entered our Seminary she Iongleur, elle pense qu'il peut-estre damné pour ce peché. Quoy qu'il y ait assez long-temps [123] qu'elle a fait ces pertes, elle fait encore des lamentations sur ce fuiet, & des aumosnes, afin qu'il plaife à Dieu de luy faire misericorde. Lors qu'elle vint en nostre Seminaire, elle nous fit present d'un Castor qui auoit feruy de robbe à ce cher fils défunt, afin que nous priaillions Dieu pour luy.

Cette bonne femme admiroit toutes nos fonctions Religieuses, & en nous considerant elle disoit à Dieu, conferuez ces bonnes filles, depuis le matin iusques au soir elles songent tousiours à vous, elles ne font autre chose que de vous feruir. Lors qu'elle rencontroit quelque instrument de mortification, elle vouloit en vser; quelquefois elle en a vsé, sur tout d'une ceinture de pointes de fer, dont la douleur est plus sensible; mais nous ne luy laissions pas faire tout ce qu'elle eust bien désiré.

[124] Le iour du Vendredy Saint elle fut puissamment touchée sur la consideration de la Passion de nostre Seigneur; pendant nos tenebres, elle fondoit en larmes que cauait l'impression que Dieu luy donnois de l'amour qu'il auoit porté aux hommes, en endurant de si extremes souffrances. Estant reuenü à foy, ie ne sçay ou i'en fuis, dit-elle, ie n'ay iamais experimenté chose pareille. Le Diable ne me voudroi[t]-il point tromper.

Elle voit fort clair dans son interieur. Vn iour qu'elle estoit fort pensue, on luy demanda quel fuiet occupoit son esprit. Je considere que ie fuis bien méchante, il me semble que ie fais ce que ie puis, pour ne point offenser celuy qui a tout fait, & cependant ie me vois toute remplie de pechez. Vn de ces made us a present of a Beaver robe that had served as a coat for her dear son, now dead, in order that we might pray to God in his behalf.

“This good woman admired all our Religious functions; and, contemplating us, she would say to God: ‘Preserve these good maidens! From morning until night they think always of you, and do nothing but serve you.’ When she chanced upon any instrument of mortification, she desired to use it, and sometimes she did, especially a girdle of iron points, the pain of which is very acute. But we did not let her do all that she would have liked.

[124] “On Good Friday she was deeply moved in meditating upon the Passion of our Lord; and during our tenebræ she burst into tears, so keenly sensible did God make her of the love which he had borne mankind in enduring such extreme sufferings. Recovering her self-control, she said: ‘I am quite at a loss; I have never experienced anything like that. Would the Devil perhaps deceive me?’

“She has a very clear insight into her own internal states. One day, when she appeared very thoughtful, some one asked her what subject occupied her mind. ‘I am thinking that I am very wicked. It seems to me that I do what I can, not to offend him who made all things, and yet I see myself quite full of sins. The other day, a man took away my [125] Beaver robe in my presence, under pretext of keeping it for me. I ran after him, yet I was not angry with him, and wished him no ill. Nevertheless, I felt in myself a malice which strove to deceive me.’

“She watched our Choir ceremonies, and we had to explain them to her. She said that we imitated iours paffez vn homme m'auoit desrobé [125] vne robe de Caſtor en ma prefence, fous pretexte de me la garder. Je courus apres luy; ie n'eſtois pas neantmoins en colere contre luy, ie ne luy voulois point de mal; cependant ie fentois en moy vne malice qui me vouloit tromper.

Elle confideroit nos ceremonies de Chœur, il les luy falloit expliquer; Elle diſoit que nous imitions les Anges & les Saints, qui ſont dans le Ciel: Lors que Monſieur l'Eueſque administra le Sacrement de Confirmation le Careſme dernier en noſtre Eglife, elle vit qu'on inſtruifoit pluſieurs de nos Penſionnaires pour les diſpoſer à la recevoir. Elle ſe douta que c'eſtoit quelque choſe de ſaint & de grande importance; elle alloit par la maiſon cherchant qui luy diroit ce que c'eſtoit. Helas diſoit-elle, c'eſt quelque choſe de ſaint, [126] & on ne m'inſtruit point, on le dit aux enfans. Eſtant donc inſtruite, elle eſtoit rauie; ſur tout de ce quelle feroit, par la reception de ce Sacrement, plus forte contre les tentations du Demon, & plus ferme & courageuſe en la foy, & qu'elle en porteroit les marques dans le Ciel, comme celui du S. Bapteſme. Deſ qu'elle l'eut receu, elle demanda congé d'aller à Sillery pour raconter ſon bonheur à ſes parens & amis Sauuages: Elle les preſcha avec tant de ferueur, qu'ils l'admiroient, & adoroient la grandeur de Dieu dans les hauts ſentimens de cette femme, qui en eſtoit remplie. Elle nous quitta pour aller aux Trois Riuieres, chercher des femmes de ſa nation, pour les empêcher de ſe ietter dans vne occaſion, qui les euſt pû eſcarter des pratiques Chreſtiennes.

the Angels and the Saints who are in Heaven. When Monseigneur the Bishop administered the Sacrament of Confirmation at our Church last Lent, she saw that several of our Boarders were instructed and prepared to receive the Sacrament. She suspected that it was something holy and momentous, and went through the house seeking some one to tell her what it was. 'Alas!' she exclaimed; 'it is something holy, [126] and they do not teach me, but they do the children.' Being then instructed, she was delighted; above all when she learned that, by receiving this Sacrament, she would be strengthened against the temptations of the Demon, and become more firm and courageous in the faith; and that she would carry the marks of it in Heaven, in the same manner as those of Holy Baptism. As soon as she had received Confirmation, she asked leave to go to Sillery to tell her good fortune to her relatives and friends among the Savages; and she preached to them with such fervor that they admired her, and adored God's greatness in the exalted sentiments with which that woman was filled. She left us to go to Three Rivers, to look for some women of her tribe, in order to prevent them from engaging in an affair which might turn them from the practice of Christianity."

DES EGLISES CAPTIVES CHEZ LES IROQUOIS.

C E font les plus defolées de toutes nos Eglifes, mais elles ne font pas les moins agreables à Dieu, qui fe voit honoré dans le centre de la Barbarie, & en mefme temps par des François, par des Hurons & par des Iroquois. Il y a des François mutilez, qui leuent au Ciel les mains fans doigts; il y a des Hurons efclaves, qui dans leur captiuité fe donnent la liberté de prefcher Iefus-Chrift à leurs bourreaux; & comme il y a des Iroquois perfecuteurs, il y a auffi des Iroquois Predicateurs. L'vn de ceux-cy eft vn nommé Garakontié noftre [128] ancien hofte, lors que nous eftions en leur pays; homme des plus confiderables d'Onnontaé, & bon amy des François, autant qu'on en peut iuger par les effets. Dieu a voulu fouuent fe feruir de luy pour fa gloire; car outre tant de pauvres François, qu'il a tirez des mains & des feux des Iroquois Agniehronnons, dont il nous a ramené les vns, & conferué chez foy les autres comme fes enfans; il a maintenu par fon autorité la Chapelle que nous auons dreflée dans leur bourg. C'eft là ou il fait afsembler tous les François Captifs, & les fait prier Dieu; & pour ioindre la charité corporelle avec la fpirituelle, il leur fait feftin à la fin des prieres, pour encourager leur deuotion, & foulager en mefme-temps leur mifere: Ce charitable Barbare a fait encore plus, dreflant [129]

[127] CHAPTER VI.

OF THE CAPTIVE CHURCHES AMONG THE IROQUOIS.

THESE are the most distressed of all our Churches, but not the least acceptable to God, who sees himself honored in the heart of Barbarism at once by French, Hurons, and Iroquois. There are maimed Frenchmen, who lift to Heaven hands without fingers; Huron slaves, who in their captivity take the liberty to preach Jesus Christ to their executioners; and, as there are Iroquois persecutors, there are also Iroquois Preachers. One of these is a man named Garakontié, who was [128] formerly our host when we were in their country—one of the most notable men of Onnontaé, and a good friend of the French, so far as one can judge from results. It has been God's will often to make use of this man for his glory. Besides rescuing so many poor Frenchmen from the hands and the flames of the Agniehranon Iroquois,—some of whom he brought back to us, while the rest he has harbored at his cabin as he would his own children,—he has by his authority maintained the Chapel that we erected in their village. There he assembles all the French Captives for prayer; while, in order to unite material with spiritual charity, he gives them a feast at the close of prayers, to encourage their devotion and at the same time alleviate their misery. This charitable Barbarian has done still more, erecting [129] in the middle of his Village a French house for lodging the au milieu de son Bourg vne maison François, pour y loger les Missionnaires qu'il attend; & mesme pour hastier leur arriuée, il a pensé perdre la vie, & tomber luy-mesme en la captiuité des Algonkins, lors qu'il traualloit à deliurer nos François de la captiuité des Iroquois, comme nous le declarerons au Chapitre septiesme.

Il n'est pas le seul Iroquois dans ce Bourg d'Onnontaté qui fauorise la foy; il y en à plusieurs qui inuitent ces François Captifs à leurs festins, afin de les obliger à la fin du banquet, de prier Dieu pour eux; ne demandant & ne pouuant esperer autre chose de ces pauvres miserables, que l'assistance de leurs prieres, dont-il font grand estat, tout Iroquois qu'ils font, paroissans ainsi n'estre pas bien esloignez du Royaume de Dieu.

[130] Les femmes de ce Bourg font encore plus; car elles n'ont pas si-tost mis au monde leurs enfans, qu'elles les apportent au plus ancien des François pour les Baptiser, luy faisant de grands remerciemens, quand-il confere ce Sacrement à ces petits predestinez. Nous te remercions luy disent-elles, de ce que tu a mis nos enfans dans le chemin du Ciel où ils feront à iamais bien-heureux, s'ils viennent à mourir auant qu'ils soient grands. Ne font-ce pas là des secrets admirables de la Prouidence, qui inspire ce desir si ardent à ces meres, qui pensoient nous faire grand plaisir quand nous estions parmy eux, de nous les laisser baptiser, & qui mesme craignoient quelquefois le Baptisme, comme la mort de leurs enfans; de forte que nous estions alors obligez de les regenerer de [131] ces eaux sacrées à leur infceu, pour ne pas laisser perdre tant d'enfans, Missionaries whom he expects; and in the desire to hasten their arrival, he nearly lost his life and became a captive of the Algonkins while working for the deliverance of our Frenchmen from their captivity among the Iroquois—as we shall relate in the seventh Chapter.

He is not the only Iroquois in this Village of Onnontaé who favors the faith. There are several of them who invite these French Captives to their feasts, in order to induce them, at the close of the feast, to pray to God in their behalf; they ask, and indeed can expect, nothing else from these poor wretches than the aid of their prayers, of which they make great account, Iroquois although they are, appearing thus to be not far removed from the Kingdom of God.

[130] The women of this Village do still more. No sooner have they given birth to their children than they carry them to the oldest of the Frenchmen for Baptism, giving him profuse thanks when he confers this Sacrament upon the little predestined creatures. “We thank thee,” they say to him, “for having put our children in the way to Heaven, where they will be forever blessed if it happens that they die before they grow up.” Are not these wonderful secrets of Providence, which inspires so ardent a desire in these mothers,—who, when we were among them, thought they were conferring on us a great favor to let us baptize their children; and who even sometimes feared Baptism, as if it were the death of their little ones? For this reason we were then obliged to regenerate the children in [131] those sacred waters without the mothers’ knowledge, if we wished to prevent so many children from being lost; dont les deux tiers du moins meurent avant l'usage de raison.

C'est donc au plus vieil des François qu'elles s'adressent, lequel leur tient lieu de pasteur à l'égard des Iroquois & des François; car il se donne l'autorité sur ceux-cy de les reprendre aigrement, s'ils manquent tant soit peu au devoir de Chrétien; il ne faut qu'un geste ou une parole trop libre, pour mériter une verte reprimande. Aussi a-t-il la consolation de voir dans cette captivité des Iosephs, lesquels non seulement fuient leurs maîtresses impudiques, mais qui ne leur épargnent pas les coups, quoiqu'il leur en doive coûter, peut-être des doigts coupés, ou la tête fendue par un coup de hache, qui se décharge bien aisément sur les [132] Captifs réfractaires; comme nous l'avons vu bien des fois devant nos yeux; car parmi les Iroquois, la vie d'un Captif n'est pas plus précieuse que celle d'un chien, & il ne leur faut qu'une légère désobéissance pour mériter un coup de hache.

Pour les Hurons qui sont dans la captivité, ils sont aussi dans les mêmes dangers, & quelques uns d'entre eux ne laissent pas de conserver leur foi parmi tant d'orages. Il y a dans Agnès quelques Matrones Huronnes; qui sont des Eglises volantes & cachées, & qui s'assemblent ou dans l'épaisseur des Forêts, ou dans quelques Cabanes à l'écart, pour y réciter ce qu'elles savent de prières. Une d'entre elles, un jour qu'elle faisoit les prières tout haut, les autres la suivant, ou répétant après elle, il se trouva [133] ie ne sçay qu'elle personne qui se mit à en railler, ce qui scandalisa tellement cette bonne Chrétienne & l'affligea si fort, qu'elle en tomba malade; tant fut at least two-thirds of them die before they have the use of reason.

It is, then, to the oldest of the Frenchmen that they apply, and they consider him as pastor both of the Iroquois and of the French; for he assumes over the latter the authority to rebuke them sharply, if they are wanting ever so little in their Christian duty. It needs only a gesture or a word of too great freedom to merit a harsh reprimand. He therefore has the consolation of seeing in this captivity Josephs who not only flee from their shameless mistresses, but also deal them blows with no sparing hand, although this may result in the cutting off of some of their fingers or the splitting of their heads with a hatchet. This weapon very easily strikes [132] refractory Captives, as we have seen many times with our own eyes; for among the Iroquois the life of a Captive is valued no more than that of a dog, and it needs only a slight disobedience on his part to merit a hatchet-stroke.

As for the Hurons who are in captivity, they are also in the same dangers, and some of their number bravely preserve their faith amid so many storms. There are in Agnie some Huron Matrons who constitute flying and hidden Churches, and who assemble either in the thickness of the Forests or in some out-of-the-way Cabins, in order to recite there what prayers they know. One evening, when one of them was praying aloud, the others following her or repeating after her, it happened [133] that some person or other began to ridicule them, which so scandalized this good Christian and afflicted her so grievously that she fell ill in consequence—such was the displeasure which she felt at the affront offered grand le déplaisir qu'elle conceut de l'affront fait à la foy. Ainsi nos bois cachant des vertus folides, & il se trouue sous nos efcorces des ames genereuses & des Sauvages zelez, qui montrent que nous pouuons auoir, & que nous auons desia des Barbares Docteurs, Confesseurs & Martyrs. Nous verrons dans le Chapitre suiuant quelques autres traits de la pieté de ces pauvres Eglises captiues.

Mais auant que d'y venir, il ne fera pas hors de propos de raconter icy la conuerfion & la mort d'un Iroquois de Sonnontoüan; il y a des circonstances qui nous font benir & adorer la prouidence toute [134] aimable de Dieu sur ses eleus.

Cet homme ayant esté pris par nos Algonkins dans la defaite des Ambassadeurs Iroquois, ainsi qu'il fera déclaré au Chapitre septiesme, tomba malade a Montreal, ou pour lors il n'y auoit qu'un de nos Peres qui s'y preparoit pour se ietter parmy les Outaouiaks qu'on attendoit, & aller avec eux succeder au feu Pere Menard dans ses trauaux Apostoliques, & continuer ces Missions, escartées d'icy de quatre à cinq [cents] lieuës. C'estoit le Pere Claude Alloüez bien versé dans la langue Algonkine, mais peu dans la Huronne, a laquelle il ne s'estoit appliqué que quelques mois; aussi alloit-il pour trauailler dans les Eglises Algonkines: mais Dieu luy fit tomber entre les mains cet Iroquois dont nous parlons, pour le mettre dans le Ciel par des voyes bien extraordinaires. [135] Voicy ce que le Pere en escrit de Montreal du 20 Aoust 1664.

Nos Outaouaks ne paroissent pas encor; j'ay commencé la Mission par un Iroquois; c'est le Sonnon-toüehronnon pris en guerre ce Printemps dernier, & to the faith. So it is that our forests conceal substantial virtues; and there are found under our roofs of bark generous souls and zealous Savages, who show that we can have, and already do have, Doctors, Confessors, and Martyrs among the Barbarians. We shall see in the following Chapter some other instances of the piety of these poor captive Churches.

But before coming to that, it will not be inappropriate to relate here the conversion and death of an Iroquois of Sonnontouan; it contains circumstances which make us bless and adore the kind providence [134] of God toward his elect.

This man, having been captured by our Algonkins in the defeat of the Iroquois Ambassadors,—as will be related in the seventh Chapter,—fell ill at Montreal, where at that time there was only one of our Fathers. The latter was making preparations to join the Outaouaks, whose arrival was expected, and to go with them, as successor to the late Father Menard in his Apostolic labors, to continue those Missions which are distant from here four or five hundred leagues. This was Father Claude Allouez, who was well versed in the Algonkin tongue, but little in the Huron, to which he had applied himself for but a few months. So, then, he was on the point of going to labor in the Algonkin Churches, when God caused this Iroquois of whom we are speaking to fall into his hands, in order that he might send him to Heaven by ways truly extraordinary. [135] This is what the Father writes from Montreal concerning the matter, on the 20th of August, 1664:

“ Our Outaouaks do not yet appear. I have begun my Mission with an Iroquois; he is the Sonnontouehronnon, Sachiendouan by name, who was taken in enuoyé icy pour s'en retourner en son pays, nommé Sachiendoüan, que nous enterrâmes hier.

Estant tombé dangereusement malade, il donna bien de l'exercice à la charité de nos bonnes Hospitalières d'icy, chez lesquelles il fut reçu & pensé avec des soins dignes du zèle de ces bonnes filles. C'estoit un homme irrité de l'affront qu'il pensoit avoir reçu de ce qu'on l'auoit fait prisonnier lors qu'il venoit en ambassade, d'une humeur altière, en un mot un Iroquois qui ne payoit que par des deda[i]ns toutes les tendresses qu'on [136] luy témoignoit; le chagrin s'augmentoît avec son mal, & la douleur jointe à la crainte de mourir le rendoit presque insupportable.

Quand on me vint aduertir qu'il estoit temps de le disposer, & qu'il estoit pour en mourir, ie fus bien surpris; car ie ne parlois pas cette langue Iroquoise, ne sçachant que bien peu de la Huronne, qui à quelque affinité avec celle-là.

Neantmoins dans cette extrémité ie l'allay voir, & luy parlant Huron, ie m'apperceus qu'il m'entendoit un peu, & me répondoit à propos; iusqu'à ce que luy parlant de Dieu & du Paradis, il me dit qu'il ne m'entendoit pas; ie iugeay aisément qu'il auoit auersion de la foy; en effet les iours suiuaus lors que ie luy en parlois, il se mettoit en colere, me sifflait, & me disoit des choses que ie n'entendois pas; [137] quelquefois il se cachait sous sa couverture pour ne me pas ouyr: il me donna même un coup de poing à la teste pour me repousser; s'il m'eust fait mal, ie m'en fusse estimé heureux; cela me fit pourtant beaucoup espérer, & me donna la pensée de prier pour luy saint Ignace, dont la feste approchoit, car outre que war last Spring, and sent here to return to his own country. We buried him yesterday.

“ Having fallen dangerously ill, he gave to our good Hospital nuns here abundant opportunity for the exercise of charity; they received him and dressed his wounds with a care worthy of the zeal of those good sisters. This was a man irritated at the affront which he thought he had received in having been taken prisoner when he was coming on an embassy, and of a haughty disposition—in a word, an Iroquois who repaid only with disdain all the kindness that was [136] shown him. His surliness increased with his illness, and the pain, together with his fear of dying, made him almost unbearable.

“ When I was told that it was time to prepare him, since he was on the point of death, I was taken by surprise; for I did not speak that Iroquois tongue, and knew only very little of the Huron, which has some affinity with it.

“ Nevertheless, in this extremity I went to see him; and, on speaking Huron to him, I perceived that he understood me a little, and gave me appropriate answers, until, when I spoke to him about God and Paradise, he told me that he did not comprehend. I easily concluded that he had an aversion for the faith; and, in fact, on the following days, when I spoke to him about it, he became angry, hissed at me, and said things to me which I did not understand. [137] Sometimes he would hide under the bed-cover in order not to hear me; and he even struck me a blow on the head, to repulse me. If he had injured me, I would have deemed myself happy for it. Nevertheless, this made me very hopeful, and gave me the thought of praying in his ie ne fçauois presque rien dire en Huron, les François qui eussent pû me seruir de truchement, disoient n'entendre pas bien le langage de ce Sauvage, qui d'ailleurs ne parloit pas distinctement, & étoit tousiours à se plaindre, & de tres mauuaïse humeur: La veille de la Feste de saint Ignace, ie me sentis fortement pouffé de dire la Messe pour luy, bien que ie fusse obligé par vne consideration preffante de la dire pour vn Deffunt; Les Meres Hospitalieres firent aussi [138] des prieres particulieres pour luy! Le matin donc de la feste du Saint, à l'honneur duquel ie vais raconter cecy, estant allé voir mon malade à mon ordinaire, ie le trouuay doux comme vn agneau, il m'escouta paisiblement, répondit plusieurs fois qu'il m'entendoit bien, & apres auoir donné des marques d'approbation ordinaires aux Sauvages, il dit avec douceur plusieurs choses que ie n'entendois pas; au soir du mesme iour, luy ayant dit que ie le viendrois instruire tous les iours, voila qui va bien, dit-il en Huron, ie t'en remercie; voila qui va bien; L'ayant instruit pendant quelques iours, & voyant qu'il s'affoiblissoit beaucoup nous songeasmes à le baptiser, mais nous ne fçauions comment luy en ouurir le discours, veu la creance ancienne qu'il auoit, que le Baptesme faisoit mourir.

[139] Nous nous seruismes d'un Iroquois Onnontagehronnon arriué icy peu de iours auparauant, sans doute par vn coup de Prouidence particuliere, pour persuader à nostre malade de se faire baptiser, comme il fit en l'affurant que la priere ne fait pas mourir, & qu'elle sert mesme quelquefois pour donner la vie; en forte que dés-lors il me demanda le Baptesme, & pressa tant que ie commençay à luy faire faire les behalf to saint Ignatius, whose feast was approaching; for, besides the fact that I could say hardly anything in Huron, the Frenchmen who might have served me as interpreters said that they did not understand well the language of this Savage. Moreover, he did not speak distinctly, was always complaining, and had a very bad disposition. On the eve of the Feast of saint Ignatius, I felt strongly impelled to say Mass for him, although I was bound by an urgent consideration to say it for a certain Deceased person. The Hospital Mothers also offered [138] especial prayers for him. And so, on the morning of the Saint's day in whose honor I am about to relate this, I went to see my patient, as was my custom, and found him as gentle as a lamb. He listened to me quietly, answered several times that he understood me well, and after giving the indications of approval which are customary with the Savages, he said with gentleness several things that I did not understand. On the evening of the same day, when I told him that I would come to teach him daily, he said in Huron: 'That is good! I thank you. That is good!' After I had taught him for some days, seeing that he was growing much weaker, we thought to baptize him; but we did not know how to broach the subject to him, for he still retained the old belief that Baptism causes death.

[139] "We availed ourselves of an Onnontagehronnon Iroquois, who had arrived here a few days before,—without doubt, under the special guidance of Providence,—to persuade our patient to have himself baptized. This he accomplished by assuring him that prayer does not cause death, but that it even serves sometimes to give life. In consequence, the

Je diſ tout [140] cela en Huron, & le malade en meſme temps en ſon Sauuage; mais avec tant d'affection & d'ardeur, que reconnoiſſant le ſecours de ſaint Ignace, on me dit qu'il ne luy falloit point d'autre nom que celui-là, & qu'il luy eſtoit bien deu; ainſi ie le baptiſay, & luy donnay le nom d'Ignace le ſixieſme iour de ſon Octaue.

Depuis ce temps, il ne veſcut que trois iours, témoignant vne patience & vn repos d'eſprit extraordinaire dans l'ardeur de la fièvre, & le grand mal de poulmon qu'il fouffroit; ſe diſpoſant à vne bonne mort par des actes de vertu qu'il faiſoit volontier, & treſ-fouuent; il ſembloit deuoir mourir le iour meſme de l'Octaue de ſon Patron, mais il luy obtint encor le lendemain pour ſe mieux diſpoſer à la mort. En effet, tout le iour fut employé [141] à cela; ie demeuray à l'hôſpital pour luy ſuggerer les prieres & penſées propres, qu'il entendoit & rediſoit en ſon cœur, avec beaucoup de deuotion, ne pouuant prononcer que quelques ſyllabes: Enfin ſur le ſoir, lors qu'on luy faiſoit les recommandations de l'ame, & moy luy ſuggerant les actes de vertu propres à vn Moribond, il rendit ſon ame à Dieu, en remuant touſiours les leures pour redire les prieres, & remplit d'une ſainte ioye, pluſieurs perſonnes qui auoient accouru pour le voir mourir, & qui ne pouuoient affez admirer la sick man began to ask me for Baptism, and that so urgently that I began to make him perform acts of faith in the three Divine persons, and in the other mysteries necessary to believe; also acts of Contrition, and others, during a considerable length of time. But fearing that he asked for Baptism in order to prolong his life, according to the hope that the Onnontagehronnon seemed to have given him, I repeatedly assured him that Baptism would make him live forever in Heaven, where he would no more suffer death. All this I said [140] in Huron, and the patient at the same time in his own Savage tongue, but with so much devotion and ardor that others, recognizing the aid of saint Ignatius, told me that the Savage must have that name and no other, that he fully deserved it. Accordingly, I baptized him and gave him the name Ignace, on the sixth day of that saint's Octave.

“After that, he lived only three days, showing an extraordinary patience and calm of spirit in the heat of the fever, and in the serious affection of the lungs from which he suffered, while he prepared himself for a good death by acts of virtue, which he repeated over and over with great pleasure. He seemed on the point of death on the very day of his Patron's Octave; but the saint obtained for him still the following day that he might prepare himself better for death. In fact, the entire day was employed [141] in this. I remained at the hospital to prompt to him appropriate prayers and thoughts; he understood them and repeated them in his heart with much devotion, for aloud he could pronounce only some syllables. At length, toward evening, as we were commending his soul to God, and while I was prompting to him acts of virtue to be recited by the Dying, he gave up his soul to God, constantly moving his lips during the death-agony to repeat the prayers. He filled with holy joy several persons who had hastened up to see him die; they could not sufficiently admire God's goodness, and the manifest aid of saint Ignatius in behalf of a man who, after living about sixty years in the cruelty and infidelity of a Savage, passed the last three days of his life as a good Christian, and won Paradise by so beautiful a death."

LA PRISE DE DEUX FRANÇOIS PAR LES IROQUOIS, &
LEURS AUAVENTURES.

LA cruauté avec laquelle les Iroquois d'enbas traitent les prisonniers qu'ils font fur nous, est si horrible, que toute la Nouvelle France ne donnera iamais assez de benedictions à nostre incomparable Monarque, qui entreprend de desliurer ses Suiets François Algonkins & Hurons, de ces Barbares Ennemis. Ils ont tué cette année dans nos Champs diuers François, qui font moins à plaindre que ceux qu'ils ont menez en captiuité; fur tout que deux pauvres filles: l'une a esté enleuée par eux à l'Isle d'Orleans, & l'autre aagée de douze ans [143] a esté prise aux Trois Riuieres; nous ne sçauons pas encore les cruantez qu'ils ont exercées sur ces dernieres prises; nous n'en iugerons que trop par celles avec lesquelles ils ont tourmenté deux François, dont nous parlerons en ce Chapitre.

Ce fut l'Automne de l'année mil six cens soixante & trois, que deux Soldats de la garnison des Trois Riuieres estant à la chasse aux Isles de Richelieu, tomberent en vne embuscade que les Iroquois Agniehronnons leur auoient dressée; & furent bientoft pris, liez & garotez à l'ordinaire des Captifs. Dans l'attaque l'un des deux fut blessé d'une bale; qui apres l'auoir percé tout au trauers du corps, s'estant arrestée à la surface du costé opposé à celui par ou

[142] CHAPTER VII.

THE CAPTURE OF TWO FRENCHMEN BY THE IROQUOIS, AND THEIR ADVENTURES.

THE cruelty with which the lower Iroquois treat those of us whom they make prisoners is so horrible that all New France will never bestow enough blessings on our incomparable Monarch who is undertaking to deliver his Subjects—French, Algonkin, and Huron—from these Barbarian Enemies. They have killed this year in our Fields several Frenchmen, who are less to be pitied than those whom they have carried into captivity; among the latter there are, in particular, two poor girls, one of whom was carried away by them from the Island of Orleans, while the other, twelve years old, [143] was taken at Three Rivers. We do not yet know what cruelties they have inflicted on these last captives, but we judge of them only too well from those with which they tormented two Frenchmen of whom we shall speak in this Chapter.

In the Autumn of the year one thousand six hundred and sixty-three, two Soldiers of the garrison at Three Rivers, while hunting on the Richelieu Islands, fell into an ambuscade that the Agniechronnon Iroquois had laid for them, and were soon taken and bound, as Captives usually are. In the attack, one of them was wounded by a ball, which, after passing through his body, stopped at the surface of the side opposite to that by which it had entered.

elle estoit entrée; les Iroquois qui font gloire de mener [144] des prisonniers en vie & pleins de force, pour soutenir l'effort des tourmens auxquels ils les destinent, se firent Medecins à l'endroit de ce bleffé; & par vne cruelle misericorde, le penserent & le feignerent avec vne industrie trop charitable pour luy. Il fondent la playe tout au trauers du corps, & trouuant le lieu ou la bale s'estoit arrestee; ils y font vne incision; & la tirent avec vne adresse admirable. Apres cette heureuse operation, on ne peut croire les peines & les soins, qu'ils prennent de ce pauvre malade. Les vns nettoient la playe, & y font des infusions d'eau de racines ou cuites ou machées, qui est vn remede tres souverain parmy eux; d'autres la bandent, & s'y prennent si delicatement qu'ils semblent auoir peur de luy faire le moindre mal du monde; les autres luy preparent [145] les repas avec toutes les charitez qu'on pourroit souhaiter dans tous les Hospitaux; quelques vns le supportoient sous les effailes en marchant; les autres l'encourageoient avec des paroles amiables & pleines de tendresse. Courage mon frere luy disoient-ils, nous voicy bientôt rendus; ton mal va de mieux en mieux; tu vois bien que nous n'espargnons rien pour te rendre la santé, prends donc courage, & ne nous fais pas affront a l'entrée de nostre Bourg. Ils vouloient luy dire que le mal dont-ils le guerissoient, n'estoit que pour le preparer à de plus grands maux qui l'attendoient à leur arriuée dans le pays. Defait d'abord qu'on les asperceut, tout le monde vient au deuant d'eux, avec des verges, & des bastons à la main; & s'estant tous disposés en haye des deux costez [146] du chemin, on fit passer par le milieu nos deux François

The Iroquois—who take pride in leading home [144] prisoners alive and full of strength, to endure the strain of torture to which they destine them—turned Physicians in the case of this wounded man, and, with cruel compassion, dressed his wound and bled him with an assiduity only too charitable to him. They probed the wound full through his body, and finding the place where the ball had stopped, made an incision there and removed it, with admirable skill. After this successful operation, it is incredible what pains and care they took of this poor patient. Some would cleanse the wound and infuse into it the juice of roots, either boiled or chewed, which is a sovereign remedy with them; others would bandage it, and acquit themselves with such delicacy in handling it that they seemed to fear giving him the least pain in the world. Others would prepare his [145] meals for him, with all the kindness one could wish for in any Hospital; some would support him under the armpits when he walked; while others would encourage him with kind words, full of tenderness. “Courage, my brother!” they would say to him; “we shall soon be there. Thy wound is getting better and better. Thou seest well that we are sparing no pains to restore thy health; so take courage, and do not put an affront upon us at the entrance to our Village.” Their real meaning was, that the ill of which they were curing him was only to prepare him for greater ills, which awaited him upon their arrival in their own country. In fact, as soon as they were perceived, every one came out to meet them with rods and staves in hand; and when they had all arrayed themselves in rows on both sides [146] of the road, they made our two Frenchmen pass through tous nuds; fur qui l'on déchargea tant de bastonnades à mefure qu'ils auançoient, chacun voulant donner fon coup; qu'ils tomberent palmez à l'entrée du Bourg. Voila à quoy aboutiffoient tous les soins qu'ils prenoient en chemin de ce pauvre malade, de peur que s'il fust mort, il eust priué tout ce peuple Barbare du contentement qu'il prend dans ces cruelles executions.

Pendant que nos deux François estoient en ce pitoyable estat, voicy vn Huron qui s'approche d'eux pour les confoler; c'estoit vn de nos bons Chrestiens de Kebec, qui fut pris par les mefmes Iroquois les années dernieres; & ayant esté traité avec les mefmes rigueurs, fçavoit bien qu'elle confolation il leur falloit donner. Courage mes freres, [147] leur dit-il, priez bien Dieu en ce peu de temps qui vous refte de vie; demain vous irez au Ciel, car on a pris la refolution de vous brûler à la pointe du iour; vous ferez bien-toft quittes des maux qu'on vous fera fouffrir, mais la recompense que vous en donnera le maistre de nos vies, ne finira iamais; fouuenez vous de moy quand vous ferez au Ciel. On ne peut croire combien cette petite exhortation les anima, ny quelle ioye ils eurent dans l'ame, de voir au milieu d'une si effroyable Barbarie, vn si bon Chrestien, dont toutes les paroles leur sembloient estre comme des traits embrasez, qui brusloient leurs cœurs, avec bien plus d'ardeur, que n'en auoient les feux qu'on preparoit à leurs corps.

La pointe du iour estant venuë ils se difpofoient à ce cruel fupplice [148] & s'estonnerent qu'on retardast le commencement de l'exécution: Ils ne fçauoient pas que Dieu trauailloit pour eux, & qu'en mefme temps their midst entirely naked, discharging on them as they advanced such a shower of blows, each one striving to hit them, that they fell fainting at the entrance to the Village. Such was the purpose of all the care that they had taken of this poor sick man on the way; they had feared that he would die and thus deprive all this Barbarian tribe of the pleasure which they take in these cruel executions.

While our two Frenchmen were in this pitiful condition, lo! a Huron approached them to console them. He was one of our good Christians of Kebec, who was captured by the same Iroquois a few years ago; and having been treated with the same severity, he knew well what consolation they needed. "Courage, my brothers!" [147] he said to them; "pray to God earnestly, in this little time which you have still to live. To-morrow you will go to Heaven, for they have adopted the resolution to burn you at daybreak. You will soon be rid of the woes which you will be made to suffer; but the reward that the master of our lives will give you in return will never end. Remember me when you are in Heaven." It is incredible how much this little exhortation cheered them, and what joy they felt in their hearts at seeing in the midst of such a frightful state of Barbarism so good a Christian. All his words seemed to them to be fiery arrows, burning their hearts with much greater heat than that of the fires which were being prepared for their bodies.

Day breaking, the captives made themselves ready for that cruel torture, [148] and were surprised at the delay in beginning the execution. They did not know that God was working for them; and that, at the very time when they were about to offer themqu'ils s'offroient à luy en holocauste, il les en deslieroit. C'estoit par le moyen d'un Ambassadeur nouvellement venu d'Onnontaé, qui demande aux Anciens que les deux Captifs luy soient deliurez, pour aider à l'accommodement qu'on projettoit de faire avec les François. Voila donc nos deux victimes qu'on appelle: ils tremblent à chaque mot qu'on leur dit; on les deslie, ils croient que c'est pour les faire monter sur l'échafaut; on leur prononce Sentence, non de mort, mais de vie; & on les met entre les mains d'un Onnontaeronnon, qui prend le soin de les mener en feureté à Onnontaé, pour là ioindre les autres François [149] Captifs, & estre tout prests à s'embarquer, quand on les voudra remener à Mont-real. Toutes ces choses leur paroissent si surprenantes qu'ils ont peine à les croire, neantmoins se voyant veritablement déliurez, ils remercient le Ciel d'une faueur si signalée. Ils n'estoient pas pourtant encor en assurance; car un certain Iroquois, ayant desia deuoré des yeux cette proye, & fasché de ce qu'elle luy auoit esté enleuée, prend resolution d'affouuir son enuie, par la mort d'un des deux Captifs; il le poursuit la hache à la main; personne ne s'oppose à cet insolent, ny Anciens, ny Capitaines; il n'y eut qu'une bonne Huronne Chrestienne, qui toute captiue qu'elle estoit, & par consequent fuiette à auoir la teste cassée, si elle eust esté descouuerte, ne laissa pas de retirer en sa Cabane ce [150] pauvre François, le cacha sous des écorces trois iours durant, iusques à ce qu'on eust donné moyen aux François de s'éuader avec leur guide, à l'insceu de ce furieux.

selves to him as a sacrifice, he was procuring their deliverance. It was through an Ambassador recently arrived from Onnontaé, who asked of the Elders that the two Captives be delivered up to him, to help to bring about a projected compromise with the French. Behold, then, our two victims summoned. They tremble at every word that is said to them; they are unbound, and they think that it is in order to make them mount the scaffold. Sentence is pronounced on them, not of death, but of life; and they are put in charge of an Onnontaeronnon, who undertakes to conduct them in safety to Onnontaé, there to join the other French [149] Captives and be ready to embark when it is desired to take them back to Montreal. All these things appeared to them so surprising that they could scarcely believe them; nevertheless, seeing themselves really delivered, they thanked Heaven for so signal a favor. They were not yet, however, in safety; for a certain Iroquois, who had already devoured this prey with his eyes, and who was vexed that it had been taken from him, resolved to satisfy his desire with the death of one of the two Captives. He pursued him with hatchet in hand, no one, either Elder or Captain, opposing the insolent man. There was only a good Huron Christian woman, who — captive although she was, and consequently liable to have her head broken, in the event of discovery — did not hesitate to take this [150] poor Frenchman into her Cabin, where she concealed him under some bark for three days, until means was afforded the Frenchmen to escape with their guide without being noticed by this furious man.

Behold them, therefore, on the road, full of joy, although severely bruised with blows, and all covered

Les voila donc en chemin, bien ioyeux, quoy que tout moulus de coups, & tous chargez de playes; ils marchent paisiblement dans ces grandes forests, & commencent à respirer; que voicy vn autre accident qui les iette dans des nouveaux dangers, & dans de plus grandes craintes que iamais. Leur guide se voyant feul, au milieu du bois avec deux François, se laisse prendre à vne terreur panique. Il se persuade qu'il n'est pas en assurance avec eux, & qu'ils pourroient bien attenter sur sa vie. Sur cette imaginaire apprehension, vne nuit que les François dorment, il se leue, & comme s'il eust esté luy [151] mesme le captif de ses Captifs, il s'enfuit d'eux, & les laisse bien étonnez; quand à leur reueil, ils se t[r]ouuerent feuls: Car de quel costé tourneront-ils, ne sçachant pas mesme en quel endroit ils sont? quelle route prendront-ils, dans vn bois, où il n'y en a point. S'ils suiuent les pistes de leur fugitif, ils arriueront à Onneyout, qui est la plus cruelle des nations Iroquoises, & la plus enragée contre les François. Comment passeront-ils les nuits sans feu, n'ayans pas dequoy en faire; & neantmoins c'estoit dans le mois de Nouembre, saison tres-froide pour des hommes presque tout nuds, comme ils estoient. Mais dequoy viuront ils, n'ayant pas d'armes pour tuer les bestes qu'on rencontre? dans ces extremitez, leur recours ordinaire est à la sainte Vierge, qui a tousiours [152] paru la protectrice tres-particuliere des pauvres Captifs François; ils la coniuient d'acheuer en leur personne ce qu'elle a si bien commencé. Apres leur priere, ils apperceurent que leur guide en fuyant auoit oublié vn petit fachel de farine de bled d'Inde. Ils en detremperent vn peu avec de l'eau le with sores. They walk on peacefully in those great forests and begin to breathe again. But lo! another accident, which throws them into new dangers, and into greater alarms than ever. Their guide, seeing himself alone in the middle of the woods with two Frenchmen, is seized with a panic of terror—persuading himself that he is not safe with them, and that they could very well make an attempt against his life. This imaginary fear taking hold of him, one night when the Frenchmen were sleeping, he rose, and, as if he had been himself [151] the captive of his Captives, fled from them, leaving them greatly surprised when, awaking, they found themselves alone. In what direction were they to turn, not knowing even in what place they were? What path were they to take, in a forest where there was none? If they followed the tracks of their fugitive, they would arrive at Onneyout, the most cruel of the Iroquois nations, and the most furious against the French. How were they to pass the nights without fire, not having wherewith to start it? And yet it was in the month of November, a very cold season for men almost naked, as they were. But on what were they to live, having no weapons to kill the animals they would find on their way? In these extremities their recourse was, as it usually is, to the blessed Virgin, who has always [152] appeared to be the very special protectress of the poor French Captives. They conjured her to complete in their persons what she had so well begun. After their prayer, they perceived that their guide had forgotten in his flight a little bag of Indian cornmeal. They mixed some with water, morning and evening, and that was all they had to sustain them. After walk-foir & le matin, & n'auoient que cela pour se sustenter. Apres auoir marché trois iours, avec des peines incroyables, ils se virent aux portes du village d'Onneyout; mais quoy, auroient-ils le courage de se liurer eux-mesmes entre les mains des plus cruels bourreaux des Francois? Ils s'adressent encore à la sainte Vierge, laquelle les inspira de se ietter comme à la defrobée, dans vne Cabane delaiffée, qui se trouuoit toute seule hors du village; afin de s'y tenir cachez, & de s'y refoudre avec [153] plus de loisir à ce qu'ils auoient à faire. Ils y entrent donc, & font bien surpris d'y trouuer vne femme, qui au lieu de s'écrier à la veuë de ces fugitifs, & de les aller declarer, les inuite d'entrer, leur fait vn bon vifage, & mesme leur parle bon François. Nos deux pelerins ne doutoient point, que ce ne fust vn Ange tutelaire qui leur fust enuoyé par leur sainte liberatrice, entendant parler leur langue par vne femme Sauuage, & receuant d'elle des charitez qui meritoient de l'admiration parmy les plus feruens Chrestiens; car elle se mit à les caresser, leur preparant du feu, leur presentant à manger, nettoyant le pus de leurs playes, sans auoir de l'horreur de la puanteur, qui fortoit de ces vlceres mal pensez: elle alloit mesme chercher des racines medecinales, & en fit des [154] appareils, qu'elle leur appliquoit a tous les endroits du corps, ou la pourriture paroissoit la plus dangereuse; nettoyoit les autres avec vne charité nonpareille, n'obmettant rien de tout ce que pourroit faire vn sçauant & charitable Chirurgien.

Elle faisoit de vray l'office d'un ange, & ils l'auoient cru, si elle ne se fust decouuerte à eux. Je fus leur dit elle, la pauvre Marguerite Haouenhoning three days, with incredible sufferings, they saw themselves at the gates of the village of Onneyout. But what now? Had they the courage to give themselves up, of their own accord, into the hands of the most cruel executioners of the French? They had recourse again to the blessed Virgin, who impelled them to throw themselves, by stealth, into an abandoned Cabin, which happened to be situated all by itself outside the village, in order to hold themselves in hiding there, and decide, [153] more at leisure, what they were to do. They entered it accordingly, and were much surprised to find a woman inside, who—instead of crying out at the sight of these fugitives, and going to announce their arrival—invited them to enter, gave them kind looks, and even addressed them in good French. Our two pilgrims did not doubt that she was a guardian Angel sent them by their holy deliverer, hearing as they did their own language spoken by a Savage woman, and receiving from her acts of charity which would deserve admiration among the most fervent Christians. For she set about entertaining them kindly, preparing a fire for them, giving them something to eat, and wiping the matter from their sores, without showing any disgust at the stench which arose from those ill-dressed ulcers. She even went to fetch some medicinal roots, and made of them a [154] dressing, which she applied to all the places on their bodies where the gangrene seemed most dangerous, and cleansed the others,—all this with extreme charity, omitting nothing of all that a wise and kind Surgeon could do.

She played, in truth, the part of an angel; and they would have believed her such, if she had not tona bien connuë des robes noires, de qui i'ay receu le Baptesme, & des saintes filles les meres Vrfulines de Quebec, chez lesquelles i'ay esté esleuëe, & en ay receu de si bonnes instructions, que nonobstant ma malheureuse captiuité, ie pense que ie ne quitteray iamais la foy, qu'elles m'ont inspirée avec le lait & avec l'éducation de plusieurs années. C'est bien la [155] raison que ie vous rende vne partie de tant de charitez, dont-elles m'ont comblée, comme i'estois avec elles. Elles m'ont appris à parler François; n'est-il pas raisonnable que ie vous console maintenant vous parlant de cette mesme langue; & que i'aye pour vous de la bonté, comme elles en ont vfé en mon endroit? Ce peu que ie fais pour vous n'est rien, en comparaïson de ce qu'elles ont fait pour moy: ainsi cette bonne Chrestienne entretenoit doucement ses hôtes de tous les seruices que ces bonnes Religieuses luy auoient rendus, parcourant les plus petites choses, & leur adioustant, les voyant si vlcerez, qu'elle s'employoit de grand cœur à les penser à l'exemple des autres saintes filles, qu'elles auoit veuës seruir aux malades avec tant de charité. Elle entendoit par là les [156] Religieuses Hospitalieres.

Pendant tous ces bons discours, par lesquels elle taschoit de les réiouyr du mieux qu'elle pouuoit, les nouuelles se portēt dans Onneiout, que deux François font entrez dans la Cabane de dehors, qu'on les a veus sur le foir aller de ce costé là: Les Anciens s'affembloit pour deliberer de cette affaire, on parle de leur venir au plustost casser la teste, & les faire entrer comme prisonniers dans le Village; c'est à dire avec la gresle des bastonnades, leur arracher les made herself known to them. "I am," said she, "poor Marguerite Haouenhontona, well known to the black gowns, from whom I received Baptism, and to the holy maidens, the Ursuline mothers of Quebec. I was brought up at their house; and I received from them such good teachings that, notwithstanding my unfortunate captivity, I think I never shall abandon the faith which they instilled into my heart with the nourishment and the education of several years. That is the real [155] reason why I pay back to you a part of the many charities with which they overwhelmed me when I was with them. They taught me to speak French, and is it not just that I should comfort you now, speaking to you in that same language; and that I should feel kindness for you, just as they showed kindness to me? This little that I do for you is nothing in comparison with what they did for me." In this way that good Christian woman pleasantly entertained her guests with an account of all the services that those good Nuns had rendered her, enumerating the smallest details. She told them, moreover, seeing them so covered with ulcers, that it was with all her heart that she applied herself to dressing them, after the example of those other holy maidens whom she had seen serving the sick with such charity; she was alluding to the [156] Hospital Nuns.

During all this pleasant talk, by which she tried to cheer them up to the best of her ability, the news was carried into Onneiout that two Frenchmen had gone into the Cabin outside the village; that they had been seen going in that direction toward evening. The Elders assembled to deliberate upon this matter; and it was proposed to go immediately and knock these men on the head, and make them enter ongles, leur couper les doigts, & les bruler comme les autres Captifs. Eux cependant iouyffoient paisiblement des doux entretiens de leur hostesse, & faisoient avec elle des deuotes prieres, pour se disposer à prendre vn peu de repos, pendant la nuit, apres tant de fatigues & de souffrances: [157] mais voila qu'vn grand bruit se fait entendre à la porte de la Cabane. C'estoient ceux qui estoient enuoyez de la part des Anciens, pour se saisir de leur personnes. Quel renuerfement de fortune! ô que ces ioyes & ces douceurs furent courtes! à peine leurs playes estoient-elles bandées, qu'il fallut se preparer à en receuoir de nouuelles. Mais la protection de la sainte Vierge fur ces misérables auoit trop bien commencé pour ne pas pourfuiure iusques au bout. En effet, contre toutes les loix & toutes les coustumes de ces Barbares, le Conseil des Anciens auoit ordonné, qu'on ne leur feroit aucun mal, & qu'ils feroient menez en toute seureté, au lieu où ils vouloient aller. La chose fut faite comme ils l'auoient concluë. On les fait entrer paisiblement dans le Bourg [158] où iamais on n'auoit veu entrer des Francois Captifs, qu'avec des huées horribles, & des coups de baston innombrables; & parce qu'ils étoient si épuisez qu'ils n'auoient pas assez de force pour pourfuiure leur chemin; Dieu fuscita vne Matrone Iroquoise, qui demanda qu'ils fussent logez chez elle, & qui prit en suite le soin de les couvrir, les penfer, & les nourrir abondamment pendant cinq iours; au bout desquels, apres bien des caresses, elle leur fournit des prouisions necessaires pour le reste du voyage, & fut par ciuilité les conduire bien loing hors du Bourg.

Ils poursuiurent donc leur chemin, & se rendirent

the Village as prisoners—that is to say, under a hail-storm of blows; to tear out their nails, cut off their fingers, and burn them, like the other Captives. Meanwhile, the men themselves were peacefully enjoying the pleasant conversation of their hostess, and were offering up devout prayers with her, before taking a little rest during the night, after so many fatigues and sufferings. [157] But hark! a loud noise was heard at the door of the Cabin, made by those who were sent by the Elders to seize the Frenchmen. What a reverse of fortune! Oh, how short were those moments of cheer and comfort! Scarcely had their wounds been bandaged when they had to prepare to receive new ones. But the protection of the blessed Virgin toward these unfortunate men had begun too well not to continue to the end. In fact, contrary to all the laws and customs of those Barbarians, the Council of the Elders had decreed that no injury should be done them, and that they should be conducted in perfect safety to the place whither they desired to go. It was done as they had determined. They were given a peaceful entry into the Village, [158] where French Captives had never been seen to enter except amid horrible yells and countless blows with cudgels. And as they were so exhausted that they had not strength enough to pursue their journey, God inspired an Iroquois Matron to ask that they might be lodged in her hut; and she thereupon took care to clothe them, dress their wounds, and feed them well for five days. At the end of this time, after many kindnesses, she furnished them with the provisions necessary for the rest of the journey and courteously conducted them a long distance outside the Village.

enfin à Onnontaé où ils trouuerent plusieurs François, tirez comme eux des mains des autres Iroquois, par ce Garakontié, qui paffe pour le pere & le [159] protecteur des Francois Captifs, de qui nous auons parlé au Chapitre precedent; & qui fera vne bonne partie du fuiuant, où nous apprendrons le reste des auantures de nos deux François.

They went on their way, accordingly, and at last reached Onnontaé, where they found several Frenchmen, rescued like themselves from the hands of the other Iroquois by that Garakontié, who is styled the father and [159] protector of Captive Frenchmen, about whom we spoke in the preceding Chapter; he will furnish material for a good part of the following one, in which we shall relate the remaining adventures of our two Frenchmen.

CELEBRE AMBASSADE DES IROQUOIS.

DEPUIS que la guerre est allumée entre nous & les Iroquois, nous n'auons point encor veu de leur part de plus folomnelle Ambassade, que celle qu'ils auoient preparée le Printemps dernier: foit pour le nombre & la qualité des deputez, foit pour la beauté & la multitude des prefens.

L'on recherche les caufes d'une chose si extraordinaire, & il n'est [160] pas bien-aifé d'en toucher la veritable. Ils publient qu'ils veulent réunir toute la terre; & ietter la hache si auant dans le fond des abyfmes, qu'elle ne paroiffe plus deformais: qu'ils veulent attacher au Ciel vn Soleil tout nouveau, qu'[i] ne foit plus iamais obfcurcy d'aucun nuage; qu'ils veulent applanir toutes les montagnes, & ofter tous les fauts des riuieres; en vn mot qu'ils veulent la paix: & pour marque de la fincerité de leurs intentions, qu'ils viennent femmes & enfans, & vieillards, fe liurer entre les mains des François; non pas tant pour oftage de leur fidelité, que pour commencer à ne faire plus qu'une Terre, & une Nation d'eux avec nous.

Toutes ces paroles font fpecieufes, mais il y a plus de cinq ans, que nous fçauons par nostre propre [161] experience; que l'Iroquois est d'un efprit rufé, adroit, diffimulé & fuperbe, qui n'en viendra iamais à cette baffeffe de nous rechercher les premiers de

CHAPTER VIII.

NOTABLE EMBASSY OF THE IROQUOIS.

SINCE war broke out between the Iroquois and ourselves, we have not yet seen on their part a more solemn Embassy—whether in point of the number and rank of the ambassadors, or the beauty and number of the presents—than that which they despatched last Spring.

Upon investigating the causes of such an extraordinary event, it is not [160] easy to hit on the true one. They proclaim that they wish to unite all the nations of the earth and to hurl the hatchet so far into the depths of the earth that it shall never again be seen in the future; that they wish to place an entirely new Sun in the Heavens, which shall never again be obscured by a single cloud; that they wish to level all the mountains, and remove all the falls from the rivers—in a word, that they wish peace. Moreover, as an evidence of the sincerity of their intentions, they declare that they are coming—women, and children, and old men—to deliver themselves into the hands of the French,—not so much in the way of hostages for their good faith as to begin to make only one Earth and one Nation of themselves and us.

All these words are specious, but for more than five years we have known from our own [161] experience that the Iroquois is of a crafty disposition, adroit, dissembling, and haughty; and that he will paix, qu'il n'ayt vn grand deffein en teste, ou qu'il n'y foit pouffé pour quelque raifon bien preffante.

Les vns eftiment que les Agniehronnons, qui eft la nation la plus proche de nous, la plus arrogante & la plus cruelle, nous demandent la paix parce qu'ils ne font plus en eftat de faire la guerre, eftant reduits à vn tres petit nombre, par la famine, par les maladies, & par les pertes qu'ils ont faites depuis deux ou trois ans, de tous les coftez où ils ont porté leurs armes. Tout recemment ils ont fouffert vne feignée qui les a bien épuifez: car nous aprenons qu'une armée de fix cens Iroquois, dont la plupart [162] eftoient Agniehronnons, eftant allée pour enleuer vne Bourgade de certains Sauuages, qui s'appellent Mahingans, ou les Loups; Ceux-cy voyant que cette armée, qui alloit fondre fur eux, mettroit tout à feu & à fang, s'ils la laiffoient approcher de leur Bourgade, fe refolurent d'aller au deuant d'elle, pour la prendre à l'impourueu. Ils fortent donc au nombre de cent feulement, & apres deux lieuës de chemin, ayant ioint l'Ennemy, luy liurerent vn combat, qui dura fort longtemps, avec grande perte de part & d'autre; neantmoins le nombre l'emportant, les Mahingans furent contraints de fe retirer dans leur Bourgade, laiffant le Champ de bataille aux Iroquois, qui fe trouuans fi mal traitez à ce premier abord, ne fongeoient plus qu'à la retraite, mais quand ils virent [163] vn fi grand nombre de leurs hommes eftendus fur la place, ils fe refolurent de fe venger de cette perte, quand-ils y deuroient tous perir: & afin de ne pas donner temps aux Mahingans de se reconnoître & de se rallier, ils partent dès le foir mefme, & à la pointe du iour donnent l'attaque au Bourg avec grande furie, never descend so low as to be the first to ask peace from us, unless he has a great scheme in his head, or is driven to it for some very pressing reason.

Some think that the Agniehronnons—the nation nearest to us and the most arrogant and cruel—ask us for peace because they are no longer in a condition to make war, being reduced to a very small number by famine, disease, and the losses that they have suffered in the last two or three years, on all sides whither they have directed their arms. Quite recently they suffered a bleeding which greatly weakened them. We learn that an army of six hundred Iroquois, the greater part of whom [162] were Agniehronnons, went out to sack a Village composed of certain Savages called Mahingans or the Wolves. The latter saw that the army which was about to pounce upon them would put the whole place to fire and sword, if it were allowed to approach the Village; and so they resolved to advance against it and take it unawares. They accordingly went out, to the number of a hundred only, and after going two leagues, encountered the Enemy and gave battle. The fight lasted a very long time with great loss on both sides. Nevertheless, superior numbers prevailing, the Mahingans were forced to retire into their Village, leaving the Field of battle to the Iroquois, who found themselves so hardly used in this first engagement that they thought only of retreat. But when they saw [163] such a large number of their men fallen on the spot, they resolved to revenge themselves for this loss, although they should all perish in the attempt. In order not to give the Mahingans time to recover and rally, they set out on that very evening, and at daybreak made the attack

& des cris horribles, comme s'ils eussent esté desia maîtres de la place. La chaleur du combat fut grande de part & d'autre, pendant lequel les Iroquois y perdoient bien du monde, parce qu'ils alloient à l'affaut à descouvert, ce qui les obligea enfin à se retirer, laissant beaucoup de morts à l'entour de la Bourgade Ennemie. Cet échec, avec quelques autres arriuez en mesme temps, les a beaucoup humiliés & réduit bien bas, & l'on croit que c'est là ce qui [164] les a obligés à nous venir demander la paix. D'autres estiment que les Sonnontouaehronnons, qui est la nation la plus éloignée de nous, la plus bonace, & la plus nombreuse, nous recherchoit de paix, pour pouvoir soutenir la guerre des Andastogueronons, Sauvages de la nouvelle Suede, belliqueux & plus capables qu'aucuns autres d'exterminer l'Iroquois. Pour se garantir d'un Ennemy si redoutable, les Sonnontouaehronnons demandent que les François s'aillent habituer chez eux, en bon nombre, pour environner leurs Bourgs de palissades flanquées, leur fournir des munitions de guerre, qu'ils n'osent presque plus aller chercher chez les Holandois, à cause des Mahingans qui en rendent les chemins tres-dangereux. Enfin ils prient qu'on leur enuoye des robes [165] noires, pour cultiver un Bourg entier d'anciens Chrestiens Hurons, & convertir les autres. Le Pere Simon le Moyne s'estoit desia rendu à Montreal à ce dessein, ray d'estre destiné de porter pour la sixiesme fois sa teste aux Iroquois, & il y feroit à present, si l'Ambassade eust reussi.

Pour les Onnontaehronnons, quelques vns estiment qu'ils veulent la paix, d'autres croient qu'ils en font fort esloigner; & l'on peut dire que les vns & les on the Village with great fury and frightful yells, as if they had already made themselves masters of the place. The heat of the combat was great on both sides, and the Iroquois lost many men, because they made the assault without taking the precaution to cover themselves, which obliged them at last to retreat, leaving many dead around the Enemy's Village. This check, with some others that occurred at the same time, humbled them greatly, and brought them very low; and that is thought to have been the reason which [164] forced them to come to us and ask for peace. Others think that the Sonnontouaehronnons—the nation farthest distant from us, simplest in nature, and most numerous—asked us for peace in order to be able to make head against the Andastogueronons; these are Savages of new Sweden, very warlike, and better able than any others to exterminate the Iroquois. In order to secure themselves against so redoubtable an Enemy, the Sonnontouaehronnons ask the French to come in large numbers and settle among them. They ask this, hoping that the French will surround their Villages with flanked palisades, and furnish them with the munitions of war,—which they hardly dare any longer to go and obtain of the Dutch, as the Mahingans render the roads very dangerous. Finally, they beg that some black gowns be sent them, [165] to take control of an entire Village of old Huron Christians, and to convert the others. Father Simon le Moyne had already gone to Montreal with this design; he was delighted at being destined to expose his life for the sixth time to the Iroquois; and would be there now, if the Embassy had succeeded.

As for the Onnontaehronnons, some think that they autres ont raifon; parce que Garakontié, ce fameux liberateur des Captifs François, a trop fait, pour ne pas vouloir la paix; d'ailleurs il y a d'autres familles qui font trop enuieufes, & luy font trop oppofées, pour fouffrir qu'il ait la gloire d'auoir fait la paix generale avec les François; rien de cela ne paroift neantmoins; [166] mais comme les Iroquois font deliez plus qu'on ne s'imagine, & les vns & les autres peuuent cacher des fourbes fous cette belle apparence, & plus les prefens qu'ils veulent faire font confiderables, plus on doit s'en deffier.

Mais fans nous arrefter dauantage à examiner les deffeins de cette Ambaffade, voyons en le fuccez. Les Onnontaehronnons, qui en font les premiers moteurs, ne voulant pas expofer temerairement les plus notables de tout leur pays, pour s'en affurer comme il faut, enuoyerent dès le mois d'Aouft a Montreal, comme des auant-coureurs pour fonder le gué, & fçauoir fi les deputez y feroient bien receus; ils parurent donc au deffus de nos habitations, avec vn pauillon blanc en leur Canot, afin qu'on ne les priſt pas pour Ennemis: fous [167] cét aufpice ils débarquent à Montreal, & font quelques prefens pour declarer que toutes les nations Iroquoifes, excepté celle d'Onneiouté, demandoient la paix; que les Agnehronnons meſme eſtoient dans ce deffein, confirmant le tout par vne lettre eſcrite à Monsieur de Meſy noſtre Gouverneur, par vn des notables de la nouuelle Hollande, qui en rendoit bon témoignage. On eſcouta cette propoſition avec ioye, mais touteſois avec deſſiance, puisſque lors meſme qu'ils nous parloient de paix, ils nous faiſoient la guerre dans nos Champs, ou ſe commettoient des meutres fur nos Laboureurs.

desire peace, others believe that they are far from it; and both may be said to be right. For Garakontié, that famous liberator of the French Captives, has done too much not to wish for peace; on the other hand, there are other families who are too envious and too much opposed to him to suffer him to have the glory of concluding a general peace with the French. Nothing of that sort, however, is apparent; [166] but as the Iroquois are more crafty than is imagined, both the one side and the other may conceal some knavish trick under that fair appearance; and the richer the presents are that they wish to make, the more are they to be mistrusted.

But, without pausing longer to examine the designs of this Embassy, let us see how it succeeded. The Onnontaehronnons, its prime movers, did not wish to expose rashly the most prominent men of their entire country; and so, in order to assure themselves fully in the matter, they sent to Montreal, as early as the month of August, advance couriers, as it were, to sound the way, and find out whether the envoys would be well received there. They appeared, accordingly, above our settlement with a white flag in their Canoe, in order not to be taken for Enemies. Under [167] such protection they landed at Montreal, and made some presents as a declaration that all the Iroquois nations, except that of Onneiouté, asked for peace, and that even the Agnehronnons were thus inclined,—confirming the whole with a letter written to Monsieur de Mesy, our Governor, by one of the prominent men of new Holland, who gave his guarantee of their good faith. This proposition was listened to with joy, but nevertheless with distrust, since at the very moment when they were talking to Neantmoins pour ne les pas rebuter tout à fait, on les renuoya de Montreal avec des bonnes paroles, & ils partirent avec resolution d'aller haster le départ des Ambassadeurs.

[168] De fait peu de temps apres, le Capitaine Garakontié, qui estoit comme l'ame de cette entreprise, se ioignit luy mesme & ceux de sa nation, avec les Sonnantouaehronnons; & fait pour cela vn prodigieux amas de porcelaine, qui est l'or du pays, afin de nous faire les plus beaux presents, qui nous ayent iamais esté faits: il y auoit entr'autres cent colliers, dont quelques-vns auoient plus d'un pied de largeur. Ils s'embarquent au nombre de trente, chargez de ces richesses; & pour estre encore mieux venus, ils menerent avec eux, les deux François dont i'ay parlé au Chapitre precedent; pour commencer leurs presents, par la liberté qu'ils leurs donneroient.

Mais il semble que leur malheur les accompagnoit par tout où ils se trouuoient. Car apres quelques [169] iournées de chemin, nos Algonkins qui estoient en guerre de ce costé-là, ayant aperceu les traces de ces Ambassadeurs, leur drefferent vne embuscade, au deffous du grand faut, & les ayant attaquez à l'impourueu, les mirent tous en defordre; les vns font tuez sur la place, les autres font faits prisonniers, & les autres prennent la fuyte. Pour les deux Francoises, ils effuyèrent la premiere descharge, & eurent bien de la peine à se faire reconnoistre pour François aux Algonkins; lesquels dans la chaleur du combat, ayant quitté le fusil, pour prendre la hache en main, frapportoient à droit & à gauche, sans considerer sur qui les coups tomboient. Ils furent enfin reconnus, & us of peace, they were making war on us in our Fields, where murders were being committed upon our Husbandmen. Yet, in order not to rebuff them entirely, they were sent back from Montreal with friendly words; and they departed with a resolution to go and hasten the departure of the Ambassadors.

[168] In fact, a short time afterward, Captain Garakontié—who was the soul, as it were, of this enterprise—joined the Sonnontouaehronnons, together with those of his nation; and to this end he made a prodigious collection of porcelain, which is the gold of the country, in order to make us the most beautiful presents that had ever been given us. There were, among other gifts, a hundred collars, some of which were more than a foot in width. They embarked to the number of thirty, laden with these riches; and, in order to be still more welcome, they took with them the two Frenchmen of whom I spoke in the preceding Chapter, to begin their presents by giving these men their liberty.

But their ill luck seems to have accompanied them wherever they went. After they had made some [169] days' journey, our Algonkins, who were waging war in that part of the country, perceiving traces of these Ambassadors, laid an ambuscade for them below the great sault, and, attacking them unexpectedly, put them all to rout. Some were killed on the spot, others were made prisoners, and the rest took flight. As for the two Frenchmen, they sustained the first onset, and had great difficulty in making themselves recognized as Frenchmen by the Algonkins,—who, in the heat of the conflict, throwing aside their guns to take their hatchets, were striking right and left without considering on whom the blows eurent cette douleur de voir que leur liberté cousteroit la vie & la captivité à leurs libérateurs.

[170] Ainsi le grand dessein de cette Ambassade s'euanôit en fumée; & au lieu de la paix qu'elle nous apportoit, nous auons sur les bras une guerre plus cruelle qu'auparavant, puisque les Iroquois cesseroient d'estre Iroquois, s'ils ne faisoient pas tous leurs efforts pour vanger la mort de ces Ambassadeurs. Peut-estre diffimuleront-ils pour quelque temps, s'ils se voyent trop affoiblis par leur dernières pertes; & en fuite s'ils ne sont ou détruits entièrement, ou mis en état de ne plus remuer, tost ou tard, ils en tireront vengeance sur les François, comme ils ont fait sur les Hurons dix ans après s'estre reconciliés avec eux.

Au reste il est bien difficile de juger, si cette défaite nous est ou avantageuse ou désavantageuse. Il y a bien à dire pour & contre. En [171] général nous pouvons assurer que le gros des Iroquois ne nous aime point, & qu'il haïssent à mort nos Algonkins; De sorte que quand nous voyons qu'ils pressent si extraordinairement pour faire la paix avec nous, nous ne doutons point qu'ils n'aient peur des armes victorieuses de notre triomphant Monarque; & qu'ils ne craignent à ce coup, le dessein qu'il a pris de les exterminer, en ayant eu connoissance, partie par la nouvelle Hollande, partie par quelques François Captifs. De sorte que se voyant à deux doigts de leur ruine totale, la famine & les maladies l'ayant commencée; les Andastoguehronnons, les Mahingans, les Algonkins, & les autres Sauvages l'ayant bien avancée, & le François étant pour l'acheuer, s'il l'entreprend; Sentant donc ainsi les approches [172] fell. They were finally recognized, but had the grief of seeing that their liberty would cost their liberators their lives or their freedom.

[170] Thus the grand project of this Embassy has vanished in smoke, and instead of the peace which it was bringing us, we have on our hands a more cruel war than before; for the Iroquois would cease to be Iroquois if they did not make every effort to avenge the deaths of those Ambassadors. Perhaps they will dissimulate for some time, if they find themselves too much weakened by their late losses; and then — if they are not either entirely exterminated or put into such a condition that they cannot stir again — sooner or later they will take vengeance on the French, as they did on the Hurons, ten years after having become reconciled with them.

Beyond this, it is very difficult to judge whether this defeat is advantageous or disadvantageous to us. There is much to be said on both sides. In [171] general, we can assert that the great body of the Iroquois do not love us, and that they have a deadly hatred for the Algonkins. Consequently, when we see them so remarkably urgent for making peace with us, we do not doubt that they are afraid of the victorious arms of our triumphant Monarch, and that for once they really fear the plan which he has adopted to exterminate them, learning of it, as they have — partly from new Holland, and partly from some French Captives. And so, seeing themselves within two finger-breadths of total destruction, — famine and disease having begun it; the Andastoguehronnons, Mahingans, Algonkins, and other Savages having advanced it; and the French being interested in completing it, if they undertake it, — de leur malheur, ils font semblant de vouloir la paix, ou même la nécessité les oblige à la vouloir. Mais c'est pour laisser passer l'orage, & renouveler la guerre plus rude que jamais, après qu'ils auront échapé ce coup, & qu'ils se feront relevez de l'extrémité, ou la diuine Prouidence les a reduits. C'est fans doute pour dernier chastiment de tant d'oppositions qu'ils ont faites à la Foy, & pour donner encore cette gloire à nostre grand Roy, d'estendre le Royaume de Iesus-Christ, en eslargissant le sien, & porter les armes victorieuses iusques à plus de mille lieues de tres-belles terres, où nos Missionnaires en fuite porteront le flambeau de la Foy, & y feront des conquestes pour le Ciel, qui augmenteront les Benedictions que Dieu verse sur celles que nostre Auguste Prince [173] va faire iusqu'aux extremités du monde.

EXTRAIT D'VNE LETTRE ESCRITE DE QUEBEC, DU 22.
SEPTEMBRE.

DEPUIS la Relation envoyée par le Navire qui partit d'icy le 31. d'Aoust, les Onionenhronnōs sont venus en Ambassade, & sont arrivés à Quebec le 18 Septembre. Le Chef est vn de nos anciens amis, qui estoit l'hôte du Pere René Menard, lors qu'il estoit en Mission parmy les Iroquois. Ils ont parlé par vingt presens; dont six des plus beaux, estoient pour les Ecclesiastiques, Monseigneur l'Euesque de Petrée, les Peres de nostre Compagnie qu'ils demandent avec instance pour les instruire dans la Foy; & pour les Religieuses Hospitalieres, [174] & Vrfulines, dont ils esperent les charitez, quand ils seront malades feeling, then, in this way the approach [172] of their ruin, they pretend to wish for peace, or rather necessity forces them to wish for it. But they do so to let the storm pass, and to renew the war more vigorously than ever after they shall have evaded this blow, and recovered from the extremity to which divine Providence has reduced them. It is, without doubt, a last punishment for so much opposition which they have offered to the Faith; and it enables our great King to acquire the glory of extending the Kingdom of Jesus Christ by enlarging his own, and of bearing his victorious arms over more than a thousand leagues of very fine territory. Thither our Missionaries will afterward bear the torch of the Faith, and make conquests for Heaven, which will increase the Blessings that God confers upon those conquests which our August Prince [173] is about to make as far as the ends of the world.

EXTRACT FROM A LETTER WRITTEN AT QUEBEC ON THE 22ND OF SEPTEMBER.

SINCE despatching the Relation by the Ship which sailed from here on the 31st of August, the Onionenhronnons have come on an Embassy, reaching Quebec on the 18th of September. Its Chief is one of our old friends; he was Father René Menard's host when the latter was Missionary among the Iroquois. They spoke through twenty presents, of which six of the finest were for the Ecclesiastics,—Monseigneur the Bishop of Peträa, and the Fathers of our Society, for whom they ask with urgency to instruct them in the Faith,—and for the Hospital Nuns [174] and the Ursulines, whose kind offices they hope icy, & lors qu'ils y ameneront leurs filles pour y recevoir instruction.

Dix de ces vingt prefens, estoient pour les Algonquins leurs anciens Ennemis, avec lesquels ils témoignent vouloir lier vne amitié qui iamais ne se rompra.

Ils parloient pour toutes les Nations Iroquoises, à la referue d'Onneiout.

Si nous n'auions pas esté fouuent trompez par de tels Ambassades, qui ont caché des trahisons funestes sous ces apparences de Paix; nous pourrions y estre trompéz: mais nos experiences nous font défier de ces Barbares infideles, lors mesme qu'ils se fient plus à nous.

Pour donner plus de iour à ce que l'on desire sçauoir touchant les Nations Iroquoises; l'on sçaura qu'il [175] y en a cinq, qui font comme cinq diuers Cantons, liez ensemble contre leurs Ennemis communs.

Les Anniehronnons font les plus proches de nous, & voisins de la Nouvelle Hollande, d'où ils tirent des armes à feu, de la poudre & du plomb, & avec lesquels ils font tout leur commerce.

Les Onneichronnons font encore plus esloignez de deux iournées.

Les Onnontaehronnons font encore plus esloignez.

Les Onionehronnons font encore plus outre d'environ trois iournées.

Les Sonnontoëhronnons, qui font les plus peuplez, & qui ont diuerfes Bourgades, font les plus esloignez, d'environ trois iournées.

Ils font tous sur le long du grand Lac des Iroquois appellé Ontario, [176] à 20. & 30. lieuës dans les terres.

to receive when they shall be sick here, and when they bring their daughters here to receive instruction.

Ten of these twenty presents were for the Algonquins, their old Enemies, with whom they testify their desire to form a friendship which shall never be broken.

They spoke for all the Iroquois Nations except that of Onneiout.

Had we not been often deceived by such Embassies, which have concealed deadly treasons under these appearances of Peace, we might have been deceived in this; but our experiences make us mistrust these faithless Barbarians, even when they trust us implicitly.

To render more lucid the information desired regarding the Iroquois Nations, let it be stated that there [175] are five of them,—forming, as it were, five different Cantons, leagued against their common Enemies.

The Anniehronnons are the nearest to us, and neighbors to New Holland, where they obtain firearms, powder, and lead; with the Dutch, too, they carry on all their trading.

The Onneiochronnons are two days' journey farther distant.

The Onnontaehronnons are still farther away.

The Onionenhronnons are about three days' journey beyond the last-named tribe.

The Sonnontouehronnons, who are the most populous and have several Villages, are the farthest distant, by about three days' journey.

They are all situated along the great Lake of the Iroquois called Ontario, [176] from 20 to 30 leagues inland.

Ils font fixez dans des Bourgades, & cultiuent la terre, où ils fement du bled d'Inde, autrement appelé bled de Turquie. Le bled froment y vient tres-bien: mais ils n'en ont pas l'vfage.

Derriere eux plus vers le midy, ils ont des Sauvages Ennemis, qui depuis peu leur font vne rude guerre. La Nation des Loups, les Abnaquinois alliez à la Nouvelle Angleterre, & les Andastoechronnons, alliez à la Nouvelle Suede.

Ainfi se voyans attaquez de part & d'autre, ils craignent les armes de la France, & ont fuiet de craindre.

FIN.

They are settled in Villages, and till the soil, raising Indian corn, otherwise called Turkish corn. Wheat grows there very well, but they do not use it.

Behind them, farther southward, they have Savage Enemies who for some time past have been making vigorous war on them,—the Nation of the Wolves, the Abnaquinois, allied with New England, and the Andastoechronnons, allied with New Sweden.

Thus seeing themselves attacked on both sides, they fear the arms of France, and that with reason.

On the same day, a shallop arrived from Gaspé, and reported: 1st, that 2 large fishing vessels had been lost there, and that the shallop called le Charroy had gone ashore on the coast; the men escaped, and part of them have returned. The vessel called the st. sebastien took off captain guillon and all his Crew.

By the same means we learned that Father Simon le Moyne died a holy death at the cap de la Magdelaine, on the 24th of november, at 5 o'clock in the morning, after having received all the sacraments. He had attained the age of 61 years. On The feast of St. Simon and St. Jude, they also wrote us that Father Fremin was not well, nor was Father drouillettes; and that Father Bailloquet was confined to his bed, after having been ill 3 or 4 days. . . . Father Albanel is still at 3 Rivers, where he has charge of the cure while awaiting an opportunity to Ascend farther up.

The 4th. The Iroquois spoke, and gave 7 or 8 presents to renew the peace, and this at Monseigneur de Tracy's. On the following days, they were entertained several times in the french fashion, by The Gentlemen. We also treated them, but in the savage fashion, by giving the chief the wherewithal to give a good feast to the hurons and Algonquins; and, in the evening, by taking to each of them a small loaf, some roasted eels, some prunes, and beer.

The 8th. They started on their return with Monsieur le Moyne, and others. La grand gueule ["big mouth"] then learned, I know not from whom, of the design of Monsieur the governor respecting Anniée; and he informed garakontié of it in our reception-

MON REVEREND PERE,
Pax Chriftri,

I'escriis à Vostre Reverence au nom de cette nouvelle Eglise, qui nous a cousté depuis plusieurs années tant de larmes, & tant de sang, pour luy demander instamment des personnes capables de la cultiver, & de l'estendre en ce pais, avec le mesme zele qu'elle a esté commencée. Jamais ni la neceffité ne fut plus grande, de demander ce secours, ni l'occasion plus belle de nous l'accorder, qu'elle est maintenant; puisque le Roy veut bien songer au Canada, & nous envoyer des troupes, pour proteger en mesme temps ses Sujets de la Nouvelle France, & ouvrir vn nouveau chemin à l'Evangile. Nos bons Neophytes ne doutent point que Vostre Reverence, pour seconder les saintes intentions, de sa Majesté, ne donne pareillement des soldats à IESVS CHRIST, afin de joindre les armes spirituelles aux temporelles, & de combattre tout ensemble, la fureur & l'infidelité de l'Iroquois; l'une, par la predication de la Foy Chrestienne; & l'autre, par la terreur des armes Francoises. Nous sommes d'ailleurs tres-assureux, que comme cette Mision a toûjours esté tres-estimée parmy nous, par la grandeur des ses dangers, & de ses peines; plusieurs de nos Peres s'offriront à venir partager nos Croix avec nous, & consommer genereusement le dessein de leur vocation, auprès de ces Barbares. C'est

MY REVEREND FATHER,

I write to Your Reverence in the name of this new Church, which has cost us, in the last few years, so many tears and so much blood, to prefer an urgent request for persons capable of cultivating and extending it in this country with the same zeal with which it was begun. Never was there greater need for asking this succor, nor a finer opportunity to grant it to us, than at present; for the King is pleased to take thought for Canada, and to send us troops to protect his Subjects of New France, and, at the same time, to open a new road for the Gospel. Our good Neophytes doubt not that Your Reverence, in order to second his Majesty's holy projects, will likewise give soldiers to JESUS CHRIST, for the purpose of uniting spiritual arms with temporal, and of combating, at the same time, the fury and the infidelity of the Iroquois,—the one by preaching the Christian Faith, and the other by inspiring a fear of the French arms. We are, besides, well assured that, as this Mission has ever been in high esteem among us because of its great dangers and hardships, many of our Fathers will offer to come and share our Crosses with us, and bravely fulfill the purpose of their calling amid these Barbarians. Therefore we conjure Your Reverence not to oppose their fervor, and to confer upon this infant Church every blessing in the power of pourquoy nous conjurons Vostre Reverence de ne se pas opposer à leur ferveur, & de faire à cette Eglise naissante, tout le bien qu'elle pourra luy faire dans sa charge, sur tout en un temps, où il semble par ces heureux commencemens, que IESVS CHRIST veut enfin exaucer la voix du sang de ses serviteurs immolez à sa gloire, & qu'il nous livre entre les mains ces Barbares, déjà presque vaincus par la crainte, pour les soumettre plus aisément au joug sacré de l'Evangile. C'est la priere que luy font les Anges tutelaires de Canada, les Neophytes convertis, les Peres de nostre Mission, enfin toute la Nouvelle France. Ce qui nous fait esperer, qu'une si puissante intercession, jointe à l'equité de nos vœux, touchera fortement Vostre Reverence; & qu'elle aura mesme la bonté d'intéresser encore les autres Provinces, à nous continuer le secours, qu'elles nous ont donné si utilement les années passées. Elle souffrira donc, que dans l'attente de cette grace, & dans la participation de ses saints Sacrifices, je prenne la liberte de me dire avec respect, *your office to bestow—especially at a time when it appears, from these happy beginnings, that JESUS CHRIST is at last pleased to hear the cry of the blood of his servants who have been sacrificed to his glory; and that he is delivering into our hands these Barbarians,—already nearly vanquished, as they are, by fear,—in order to subject them the more easily to the Gospel's sacred yoke. Such is the prayer offered you by the guardian Angels of Canada, the converted Neophytes, the Fathers of our Mission, and, in short, all New France. Hence we are led to hope that so powerful an intercession, together with the reasonableness of our desires, will move Your Reverence deeply; and that you will even have the goodness to interest the other Provinces also in continuing to us the succor which they have so beneficially given us in past years. MONSIEUR,

The Love and adorable Blood of JESUS be forever our life and our all.

The Divine Providence having suffered me to continue in the charge of this Hospital, I [4] am obliged to thank you in the name of our little Community for your continued attentions to our poor patients. We have had twice as many of the latter this year as in former years, and almost all at the same time; so that, our Hall being too small to contain half of so great a number, we have obeyed the Commandment which our Lord gives us to spare no pains to relieve his mystic members who are in need, and have chosen the least disabled to place in our Chapel. All the charitable people who aided us in attending them fell ill; and our good God, not wishing to leave unrewarded the great affection [5] displayed by our little Community on this occasion, next visited our dear Mothers and Sisters, nearly all of whom became critically ill, and received their last Sacraments. But the good Master, seeing to what straits we were reduced by our dear Companions' illness, and having regard for our affliction, soon afterward cheered us by their convalescence; and at present writing there cheres Compagnes, & confiderant noſtre affliction, nous a peu après conſolées par leur conualeſcence; & à cette heure que ie vous écris, il n'y en a plus qu'une qui ſoit en danger, mais comme elle eſt ieune & forte, nous eſperons avec la grace de Dieu qu'elle reſiſtera au mal. Nous aurions encore beſoin de Religieufes: il y a bien icy quelques filles qui ſouhaiteroient l'eſtre; mais parce que nous ſommes [6] beaucoup chargées de malades, nous n'oſerions en recevoir ſi elles n'apportent quelque dot, de peur d'eſtre obligées d'employer pour la nourriture des Religieufes, le bien qui nous a eſté confié pour l'entretien des pauvres. Si quelques vertueuſes perſonnes vouloient contribuer quelque choſe pour cela, elles feroient une action bien agreable à Dieu, & bien meritoire. Je vous prie, Monſieur, d'excuser la liberté que ie prens de vous expliquer mes petites penſées; c'eſt un bien que ie ſouhaite, mais que ie n'oſe preſque eſperer. Enfin, Monſieur, nous auons receu tous vos ballots bien garnis & bien conditionnez; ils ne pouuoient iamais arriuer plus à propos: car quoy que nous euſſions emprunté [7] beaucoup de choſes, tant pour les drogues que pour les meubles, tout commençoit à nous manquer. Vous ſçavez que noſtre reuenu eſt fort mediocre, & il y a trop longtemps que l'amour de nôtre Seigneur vous attache aux actions de pieté, pour ne pas ſçauoir quelles ſont les dépenſes que l'on fait dans un Hoſpital, quelque ſoin que l'on y apporte; ainſi vous iugerez facilement que le Canada s'augmentant de monde, noſtre Hoſpital fera accablé de charge, ſi Dieu ne prend le ſoin de luy donner des bienfaicteurs comme vous; ce que j'eſpere de ſon infinie Miſericorde. Je vous enuoye is only one of them in danger, while, as she is young and strong, we hope that, by the grace of God, she will withstand the disease. We need more Nuns, and indeed there are some girls here who would like to become such; but as we are [6] much burdened with patients, we would not dare to receive any of them unless they brought some dowry, for fear that we would be forced to use for the maintenance of the Nuns the resources entrusted to us for the support of the poor. If some virtuous persons were inclined to make a contribution for that purpose, they would perform an act very agreeable to God and of great merit. I beg you, Monsieur, to pardon the liberty I take in opening my modest thoughts to you; the above is a blessing for which I wish, but hardly dare hope. Finally, Monsieur, we have received all your bales, well stocked, and in good condition. They could not have arrived at a more fitting time; for, although we had borrowed [7] largely, both for drugs and for equipment, we were beginning to suffer a scarcity in every department. You know that our revenue is very moderate, and the love of our Lord has so long given you an attraction for acts of piety that you must know what expenses are necessarily incurred in a Hospital, however careful one may be. Thus you will easily understand that, as Canada increases in population, our Hospital will be overwhelmed with burdens, unless God take care to give it benefactors like yourself—a favor for which I hope from his infinite Mercy. I send you a memorandum of our petty needs; it seems rather long, it is true, although I have included in it as little as I could. I doubt not [8] that you will, with the same goodness you have vn memoire de nos petits befoins; il paroist vn peu ample à la verité, quoy que ie n'y aye mis que le moins que i'ay pô: ie ne doute [8] point que vous ne trauailliez à nous faire auoir ce que nous demandons, avec la mesme bonté que vous avez fait iufqu'à present; puisque nos necessitez augmentant, le bon IESVS ne manquera pas d'augmenter aussi vostre charité, & de vous combler de plus amples benedictions. Je croy, Monsieur, que vous ferez bien aise d'apprendre que Dieu en a versé de bien grandes cette année sur nostre pauvre Maifon. Parmy les malades qui font venus à nostre Hospital, il s'en est trouué plusieurs qui estoient malades & au corps & en l'ame: les vns estoient Huguenots, & graces à Dieu, ils ont tous fait chez nous abjuration publique de leur heresie: les autres estoient de mauuais Chrestiens, qui depuis plusieurs [9] années n'auoient point approché des Sacremens; ils ont fait des Confessions generales avec toutes les dispositions que l'on pouoit desirer. Monseigneur l'Euesque de Petrée nostre tres-digne Prelat, & Monsieur de Lauzon son grand Vicaire, & nôtre Superieur ont fait vne Mission, & vne moisson digne de leur zele: on eut dit à les voir que c'estoit vne primitiue Eglise: ils trauailloient nuit & iour pour les mettre en la grace de Dieu; & ces pauvres gens s'estimoient si heureux, sortans de la misere où ils estoient, de trouuer vn lieu de refuge contre leurs maux, qu'ils faisoient tout retentir par les actions de graces qu'ils rendoient continuellement à nostre Sauueur, & par les prieres qu'ils luy [10] faisoient pour tous ceux qui trauaillent pour la subsistance de cet Hospital. Comme vous en estes des premiers, & le plus assidu à nous faire du bien, displayed hitherto, work to secure us what we ask, since, as our needs increase, the good JESUS will not fail to increase your charity also, and to crown you with more ample blessings. I believe, Monsieur, that you will be glad to learn that God has visited our poor House this year with very great blessings. Among the patients coming to our Hospital there were many diseased both in body and in soul. Some were Huguenots; and, thanks be to God, they all made public abjuration of their heresy in our house. Others were poor Christians, who [9] had not approached the Sacraments for many years; and they made general Confessions, showing themselves as well disposed as one could have wished. Monseigneur the Bishop of Petraëa, our most worthy Prelate, Monsieur de Lauzon, his grand Vicar, and our Superior have conducted a Mission, and reaped a harvest worthy of their zeal. One would have said, at seeing them, that this was a primitive Church: night and day were spent in endeavors to reconcile the people with God. And those poor creatures deemed themselves, on emerging from their state of misery, so happy to find a place of refuge from their ills, that they made the whole place reëcho with the thanksgivings which they were continually rendering to our Lord, and with the prayers which they [10] offered up to him on behalf of all who labor for the support of this Hospital. As you are among the chief of these, and the most assiduous in conferring benefits upon us, I hope that God will shower his favors upon you in abundance. Such is the wish cherished daily for you by our poor patients and my dear Sisters; while for myself, although the most unworthy, I profess to be i'espere que Dieu répandra sur vous ses graces avec abondance. C'est le fouhait que nos pauvres malades & mes cheres Sœurs font pour vous tous les iours; & moy, quoy que la plus indigne, ie fais profession d'estre la premiere à me fouuenir de vous deuant nostre Seigneur, & à témoigner en toutes occasions que ie fuis,

[1] Relation de ce qui s'est passé en la Nouvelle France, és années 1664. & 1665.

AVANT-PROPOS.

JAMAIS la Nouvelle France ne cessera de benir nostre grand Monarque, d'avoir entrepris de luy rendre la vie, & de la tirer des feux des Iroquois. Il y a tantost quarante ans, que nous soupirons après ce bon-heur. Nos larmes [2] ont enfin passé la mer, & nos plaintes ont touché le cœur de sa Majesté, qui va faire vn Royaume de nostre Barbarie, & changer nos forests en villes, & nos deferts en Provinces. Ce changement ne sera pas bien difficile, quand on aura la paix: car puisque ces terres sont au mesme climat que la France, elles auront aussi la mesme benignité de l'air, quand on pourra les cultiver, & les descharger de leurs bois.

Jusqu'à present le Canada n'a passé que pour Canada: je veux dire qu'on n'en a considéré que l'aspreté & les glaces, & l'horreur de ses hivers. On a creû que d'y venir, c'estoit entrer dans la region des frimats, & dans le país le plus malheureux du monde; & il semble qu'on ait eu quelque raison, puisque la guerre des Iroquois, nous a jusqu'à ce temps, ferré de si près, [3] que nous n'avons pû ouvrir nos campagnes, pour y respirer vn mesme air, qu'en celles de France; ni jouir des beaux país, que nos ennemis occupent, ou dont ils nous ferment le passage.

Mais nos plus grandes plaintes n'estoient pas tant, de ce que gemissant sous la cruauté des Iroquois, nous

[1] Relation of what occurred in New France in the years 1664 and 1665.

PREFACE.

NEVER will New France cease to bless our great Monarch for undertaking to restore her to life and rescue her from the fires of the Iroquois. For nearly forty years we have been sighing for this happiness. Our tears [2] have at length crossed the sea, and our plaint has touched the heart of his Majesty, who is about to make a Kingdom of our Barbarous land, and change our forests into towns and our deserts into Provinces. This transformation will not be very difficult when we have peace; for, as these lands are in the same latitude as France, they will also have the same benign atmosphere, when we are able to cultivate them and clear them of their woods.

Hitherto Canada has been regarded simply as Canada—I mean, we have considered only its rigors and ice, and the severity of its winters. It has been believed that to come hither was to enter the region of frosts, and the most ill-favored country in the world; and this view seems to have been held with some reason, inasmuch as war with the Iroquois has hitherto kept us so closely confined [3] that we have been unable to clear our fields, in order to breathe the same atmosphere as in those of France, or to enjoy the fair realms either occupied, or closed to us, by our foes.

But our chief complaint was not so much that, groaning under the Iroquois' cruelty, we could not ne pouvions faire vn beau Royaume François de toutes ces terres, que de ce que des Barbares nous empeschoient d'en faire vn grand Empire Chrestien.

Nous fçavons que de quelque costé que nous jetions les yeux, par tout il y a des conquestes à faire pour la Foy, & que si l'Evangile n'est pas encore establi parmy ces Peuples, vers lesquels vn de nos Peres est allé cét Esté dernier, & qui font plus de cent mille combattans; ce n'est qu'une poignée de mille, ou deux [4] mille Iroquois qui l'ont empesché.

Il est certain qu'il y a peu d'ennemis à combattre: mais ce peu d'ennemis font Iroquois; c'est-à-dire presque tels, qu'estoient autrefois les peuples d'Allemagne & des vieilles Gaules, lors qu'elles n'estoient encore que d'espaisses forests, habitées par des bestes & des hommes sauvages, qui braverent si long-temps toutes les forces de l'Empire Romain, & qui surprirent tant de fois ces troupes victorieuses de tout le monde, par les forties soudaines & inopinées qu'ils faisoient de l'espaisseur de leurs bois, sans craindre que ces armes victorieuses les y vinssent attaquer.

Nos Iroquois ne font redoutables que par ce genre de guerre: aussi oferay-je bien dire, qu'il ne faut pas de moindres courages, que ceux des anciens Romains, pour entreprendre [5] de les dompter.

Nous benissons Dieu, de ce que sa Majesté a fait le choix pour cette guerre, de vieilles troupes, desja bien aguerries; commandées par vne Noblesse courageuse, qui a sceû desja traverser les neiges des Alpes & s'opposer en Allemagne aux progres de l'ennemi des Chrestiens, avec tant de bonheur, qu'il reconnoist maintenant par espreuve, le juste sujet qu'il a de craindre, comme il fait depuis tant d'années, les armes Françaises.

convert all these regions into a noble French Kingdom, as that we were prevented by Barbarians from turning them into a great Christian Empire.

We know that, whithersoever we cast our eyes, everywhere are conquests to be made for the Faith; and if the Gospel is not yet established among those Tribes to whom one of our Fathers went this last Summer, and who comprise more than a hundred thousand fighting men, [4] he was only prevented by a mere handful of one or two thousand Iroquois.

It is certain that there are few foes to contend against, but those few are Iroquois—that is to say, very nearly such as were of old the tribes of Germany and ancient Gaul, when those countries were still nothing but dense forests, inhabited by wild beasts and by men in a state of savagery. But it was those men who so long braved the entire forces of the Roman Empire, and who so often surprised those troops that had been victorious over all the world,—making sudden and unexpected sorties from their dense forests, without fearing lest those triumphant arms should come and attack them.

Our Iroquois are redoubtable only in that kind of warfare; I shall likewise venture to assert that not less courage is needed for undertaking their reduction than that [5] displayed by the ancient Romans.

We bless God that his Majesty has chosen for this war veteran troops already inured to fighting, and commanded by men of courage and Noble birth, who have already succeeded in crossing the Alpine snows and opposing the progress of the enemy of the Christians in Germany,—with such success that this foe now knows by experience the just cause he has to fear the French arms, as he has done for so many years.

CHAPITRE I.

ARRIVÉE DE MONSIEUR DE TRACY EN LA NOUVELLE
FRANCE.

LE Roy ayant deffein de relever la gloire des François, dans l'Isle de Caienne, d'où nous estions [6] fortis depuis quelques années, & de faire visiter toutes les Colonies que nous avons dans l'une & dans l'autre Amerique, la Meridionale & la Septentrionale; fit choix de Monsieur le Marquis de Tracy, dont il avoit connu la suffisance, dans les differens emplois qu'il luy avoit donnez en ses Armées. Il luy fit expedier une Commission, des plus amples & des plus honorables qu'on ait encore veü; luy donna quatre Compagnies d'Infanterie; voulut que ses gardes portassent les mêmes couleurs, que ceux de sa Majesté; luy fit equiper les navires, nommez le Brefé & le Teron, celui-là de huit cens tonneaux, & celui-cy d'un peu moins; avec plusieurs autres vaisseaux, chargez de vivres & munitions de guerre, de gens à cultiver la terre, de plusieurs artisans, & de tout ce qui estoit necessaire pour une expedition [7] de cette importance.

Monsieur de Tracy partit de la Rochelle le 26. de Fevrier de l'an 1664. estant suivi, outre les troupes, de quantité de Noblesse, & de vaisseaux bien equipez. Il fut complimenté par les Portugais de Madere, & du Cap-verd, avec tout l'honneur qui estoit dû à sa

CHAPTER I.

THE ARRIVAL OF MONSIEUR DE TRACY IN NEW FRANCE.

THE King, purposing to reëstablish the glory of the French in the Island of Cayenne, which we had [6] evacuated some years ago, and to secure a visitation of all the Colonies owned by us in both Americas, South and North, made choice of Monsieur the Marquis de Tracy, with whose capacity he had become acquainted in the different offices which he had given him in his Armies. He caused a Commission to be sent to him, of the most ample and honorable nature yet known; gave him four Companies of Infantry; decreed that his guards should bear the same colors as his Majesty's; and ordered to be equipped for his use the ships named the Bresé and the Teron,—the former of eight hundred tons, and the latter of somewhat less,—together with several other vessels laden with provisions and munitions of war. His Majesty also provided people to till the soil, a number of artisans, and everything necessary for an expedition [7] of such importance.

Monsieur de Tracy sailed from la Rochelle on the 26th of February in the year 1664, accompanied by many of the Nobility, besides the troops, and by well-equipped vessels. He was complimented by the Portuguese of Madeira and the Cape verd islands with all the honor due to his rank and merit.

qualité, & à son mérite. Monsieur de la Barre, ayant mis pied à terre, y fut reçu magnifiquement.

En fuite les vaisseaux singlerent droit à Caïenne, & ils y arriverent en peu de temps. Monsieur de Tracy ayant fait sommer le Gouverneur Hollandois, de rendre l'Isle aux François, auxquels elle appartenoit, il la rendit sans difficulté; & Monsieur de la Barre s'y arresta, conformément aux ordres du Roy.

La Caïenne ayant esté ainsi remise sous l'obeïssance du Roy, Monsieur [8] de Tracy alla sans delay aucun aux Isles Françaises, où ayant esté reçu selon sa qualité de Gouverneur general, & de Lieutenant de sa Majesté dans toute l'Amerique, Meridionale & Septentrionale, il y mit par tout un tel ordre, particulièrement dans la Martinique, & dans la Gardeloupe, qui en avoient le plus de besoin; que sa Majesté en a esté pleinement satisfaite, ayant iceû comme la Religion & la Justice y avoient esté fortement establies, les peuples foulagez, & tout réglé sous l'autorité des nouveaux Seigneurs, Messieurs de la Compagnie des Indes Occidentales.

Mais puisque je ne dois pas m'arrestar dans le détail de ce qui s'est passé aux Isles, & que je pretends seulement faire un recit de l'estat de la Nouvelle France; il me suffit de dire, que Monsieur de Tracy, après [9] avoir fait dans les Isles tout ce qu'on pouvoit attendre de sa sage conduite, reçut l'ordre du Roy de se rendre au plutôt en Canada, dès qu'il auroit pourveu au Gouvernement de l'Isle de la Tortuë.

Ce fut le 25. d'Avril de l'an 1665. qu'il partit de la Gardeloupe, prenant la route vers Saint Domingue, autrement dite l'Espagnole; & passant à la coste des Monsieur de la Barre, upon landing, was given a splendid reception.

Then the vessels sailed directly to Cayenne, where they arrived in a short time. Upon Monsieur de Tracy's summoning the Dutch Governor to surrender the Island to the French, to whom it belonged, he readily complied; and Monsieur de la Barre stopped there, in accordance with the King's orders.

Cayenne having been thus placed once more under obedience to the King, Monsieur [8] de Tracy proceeded without delay to the French Islands, where he was received in a manner befitting his rank of Governor-general, and his Majesty's Lieutenant in all America, South and North. He imposed such order everywhere, especially in Martinique and Guadaloupe, which most needed it, that his Majesty was fully satisfied, when he learned how Religion and Justice had been firmly established, the people given relief, and all matters adjusted under the authority of the new Seigneurs, the Honorable Company of the West Indies.<sup>22</sup>

But as I must not linger over the details of what occurred in the Islands, and as I purpose merely to describe the condition of New France, it is enough for me to say that Monsieur de Tracy, after [9] effecting in the Islands all that could have been expected from his wise management, received the King's orders to repair with the utmost expedition to Canada, as soon as he should have provided for the Government of Tortuga Island.

On the 25th of April of the year 1665, he left Guadaloupe, and took the route toward San Domingo, otherwise called Spanish Island. He also coasted by the English of St. Kitts, where he was saluted by Anglois de Saint-Christofle, où il fut falüé d'un nombre infiny de coups de canon; cette Nation voulant, à l'envy des François, tefmoigner à ce Seigneur, l'estime qu'elle faisoit de sa conduite, & de la bonne justice qu'il leur avoit renduë, dans tous les differens qu'il avoit jugez, entre eux & les François.

Il doubla fans peine l'Isle de Porterie, qui est aux Espagnols; & voyant qu'il ne pouvoit aller à la [10] Tortuë, à cause des vents contraires, il se contenta d'en approcher autant qu'il estoit neceffaire pour advertir de sa venuë ceux de cette Isle, nommément Monsieur Dangeron, son Gouverneur, qui le vint trouver promptement au Port François de l'Isle Saint-Domingue, où le Brefé avoit mouillé.

Il falut quelques jours, pour expedier les affaires, & pour donner les ordres neceffaires audit Sieur Dangeron, pour son Gouvernement, & pour luy faire prester le serment de fidelité au Roy; comme aussi à tous les peuples, qui se trouverent dans cette Isle de la Tortuë, & dans la coste de Saint-Domingue.

Aprés cela, le Brefé reprit sa route vers les Caiques, pour venir droit en Canada, fans se destourner davantage.

[11] Les Caiques font plusieurs petites Isles assez proches les vnes des autres, entourées de rochers, qui avancent dans la mer, & qui rendent le passage si difficile & si dangereux, que l'on ne sçache pas qu'aucun grand vaisseau l'ait osé passer, après y avoir veü grand nombre de naufrages. C'est ce qui donnoit de la peine à se refoudre de hazarder ce passage avec le Brefé: mais Monsieur de Tracy, ne trouvant rien de difficile, quand il s'agit du service du Roy; après avoir pris un nouveau Pilote, & les feuretez que la innumerable discharges of cannon,—this Nation being determined to outdo the French in its testimonials of high appreciation of that Seigneur's conduct, and of the admirable justice he had done them in all the differences which he had adjudicated between them and the French.

He easily doubled the Island of Porto Rico, which belongs to the Spanish, and seeing that, owing to contrary winds, he could not go on to [10] Tortuga Island, he contented himself with approaching near enough to it to give notice of his coming to its inhabitants, particularly to Monsieur Dangeron, its Governor, who promptly came to meet him at the French Port of the Island of San Domingo, where the Bresé had anchored.

It required several days to despatch the business, and give the necessary orders to Sieur Dangeron for his Government; and to administer to him, as well as to all the people who were in that Island of Tortuga and on the coast of San Domingo, the oath of fidelity to the King.

After that, the Bresé resumed her course toward the Caicos, in order to proceed straight to Canada with no farther detour.

[11] The Caicos are a number of small Islands, no great distance apart, encompassed by rocks which jut into the sea, and render the passage so difficult and dangerous that, after the occurrence there of many shipwrecks, no large vessel has been known to dare attempt it. Hence, there was hesitation in deciding to venture this passage with the Bresé. But Monsieur de Tracy, finding nothing difficult when the King's service is concerned,—after taking a new Pilot, and adopting the precautions demanded by prudence demandoit, fit tourner de ce costé-là: considérant qu'il allongeroit son voyage de plus de cinq cens lieues, s'il falloit aller chercher le détroit de Bahama; & qu'il ne pourroit se rendre dans la Nouvelle France, dans le temps que le Roy luy avoit marqué.

[12] Dieu benit son courage, & l'intention qu'il avoit d'obeïr le plus exactement qu'il luy feroit possible, aux ordres de sa Majesté. Son vaisseau, sans danger, franchit les Caïques, à la faveur du vent qu'il souhaitoit; & trouvant peu après les courants de ce détroit de Bahama, qui rendent la mer fort rapide le long des costes de la Floride; il doubla heureusement la Bermude, côtoya la Virginie; & depuis Saint-Domingue, il se rendit en vn mois dans le grand fleuve de Saint-Laurent.

Pour entrer dans le golfe, il passa entre l'Isle de Saint Paul & le Cap de Raze; & le vent étant toujours favorable, on alla mouïller à l'Isle-Percée, pour y prendre de l'eau & du bois.

En cet endroit se trouverent plusieurs navires, qui peschoient des [13] Moluës, qui saluèrent tous le pavillon du Roy.

Monsieur de Tracy n'estoit plus en peine, que des troupes qu'il esperoit de France, & qui devoient estre parties de la Rochelle, en mesme temps qu'il estoit parti luy-mesme des Isles. Heureusement on vit le lendemain paroistre deux navires, qui portoient les premieres Compagnies du Regiment, que le Roy envoyoit contre les Iroquois.

Au fortir de l'Isle-Percée, les Pilotes esperoient, pour avancer leur route, mener le Brefé jusqu'au Bic: mais les vents se changerent, qui obligerent de relâcher: & pour ne pas risquer vn navire de l'impor-prudence,—laid his course in that direction,—mindful that, if he were forced to follow the Bahama straits, he would lengthen his voyage by more than five hundred leagues, and could not reach New France within the time set for him by the King.

[12] God blessed his courage, and his resolve to obey as exactly as possible the orders of his Majesty. His vessel, thanks to the wind that he desired, cleared the Caicos without danger; and, encountering soon afterward the currents of that strait of Bahama which render the sea very rapid along the coasts of Florida, he doubled the Bermudas without mishap, coasted along Virginia, and, in one month after leaving San Domingo, entered the great river Saint Lawrence.

To enter the gulf he passed between the Island of Saint Paul and Cap de Raze [i.e., Cape Ray], and, the wind still continuing favorable, went on and cast anchor at Isle Percée, in order to take water and wood there.

At this place were a number of vessels engaged in Cod-fishing, [13] and they all saluted the King's standard.

Monsieur de Tracy had no farther trouble, except in regard to the troops which he was expecting from France, and which were to have sailed from la Rochelle at the same time when he himself left the Islands. Happily, on the next day, they saw two vessels appear, bearing the first Companies of the Regiment sent by the King against the Iroquois.

Upon leaving Isle Percée, the Pilots hoped, in order to hasten their course, to take the Bresé as far as Bic; but the winds changed, and forced them to abandon their purpose. In order not to risk a ship tance du Brefé, dans le fleuve de Saint-Laurent, il fut jugé plus à propos de louer deux navires plus légers, & plus propres à monter la rivière; & toutes-fois les vents furent [14] toujours si contraires, que les Pilotes ne purent arriver à Quebec, qu'un mois après.

Ce retardement n'estoit pas de saison pour Monsieur de Tracy, qui estoit tombé malade. Il arriva néanmoins enfin à notre rade de Quebec le dernier jour de Juin 1665. si foible & si abbatu de la fièvre, qu'il ne pouvoit estre soutenu que par son courage.

Les habitans de Quebec s'estoient preparez à luy faire la plus magnifique reception qu'il leur fut possible: Mais Monsieur de Tracy refusa tous ces honneurs, & se contenta des cris de joye, qui commencerent au moment qu'il sortit du vaisseau, & qui l'accompagnerent jusqu'à l'Eglise, où le son des cloches l'invitoit.

Monseigneur de Petrée, notre Eveque, l'attendoit à l'entrée de [15] l'Eglise, revêtu pontificalement, accompagné de son Clergé. Il luy presenta de l'eau-beniste & la Croix; & le mena auprès du chœur, à la place qui luy avoit esté preparée, sur un prié-Dieu: Mais Monsieur de Tracy, quoy qu'il se sentit fort foible, & qu'il fust encore tourmenté de sa fièvre, ne voulut point le prendre, & se mit à genoux sur le pavé, sans vouloir mesme se servir du carreau qui luy fut présenté. On chanta le Te Deum, avec l'orgue & la musique.

Lors qu'il falut sortir de l'Eglise, Monsieur l'Eveque vint reprendre Monsieur de Tracy, & le reconduisit jusqu'à la porte dans le mesme ordre, & avec les mesmes honneurs, qu'il avoit reçu en entrant.

of the importance of the Bresé in the Saint Lawrence river, it was deemed more expedient to hire two vessels of lighter draught, and better suited for ascending the river; and still the winds were [14] so steadily contrary that the Pilots could not reach Quebec until a month later.

This delay was unseasonable for Monsieur de Tracy, who had fallen ill. Nevertheless, he finally arrived in our roadstead of Quebec on the last day of June, 1665,—so weak and reduced by fever that nothing but his courage sufficed to sustain him.

The people of Quebec had prepared to give him the most magnificent reception in their power; but Monsieur de Tracy declined all such honors, and contented himself with the shouts of joy which began at the moment of his leaving the vessel, and accompanied him as far as the Church, whither the ringing of the bells invited him.

Monseigneur of Peträa, our Bishop, awaited him at the Church-door, [15] clad in pontifical robes, and attended by his Clergy. Offering him some holy water and the Cross, he led him into the choir, to the place prepared for him upon a prie-dieu; but Monsieur de Tracy, although feeling very weak and still suffering from his fever, would not use it, but knelt on the pavement, refusing even to avail himself of the cushion offered him. The Te Deum was chanted, with organ and music.

When it was time to leave the Church, Monsieur the Bishop came again for Monsieur de Tracy, and escorted him as far as the door, in the same order and with the same honors as upon entering.

LA RECEPTION QU'ONT FAIT LES SAUVAGES DE CANADA À MONSIEUR DE TRACY.

NOS Sauvages Algonquins & Hurons voulurent aussi recevoir Monsieur de Tracy, selon les coutumes de leur pays, c'est-à-dire par des complimens, accompagnez de presens, qui leur servent comme de chiffres, pour représenter, après qu'ils ont parlé, les paroles passées: ce qu'ils font avec beaucoup d'esprit, pour des Barbares. Car ils donnent à chacun de ces presens un nom très-propre en leur langue, pour signifier en abrégé tout ce qu'ils veulent dire, afin que ces presens, qui se conservent, conservent aussi par leurs noms, la mémoire des choses qu'ils signifient.

[17] Les Hurons commencerent les premiers, parce qu'ils se trouverent alors tous rassemblez à Quebec. Ils ne se presenterent toutefois, qu'au nombre de dix ou douze, des plus considerables.

Un des plus anciens parla: mais autant de la main que de la langue; & ayant estalé les presens qu'il alloit faire, dit avec vehemence & d'un ton de voix, qui declaroit en même temps la douleur & la joye, dont il estoit faisi.

Grand Onnontio, dit il, tu vois à tes pieds les debris d'une grande terre, & les restes pitoyables d'un monde entier, autrefois peuplé d'une infinité d'habitans. Ce ne font maintenant que des carcasses,

[16] CHAPTER II.

THE RECEPTION WHICH THE SAVAGES OF CANADA GAVE TO MONSIEUR DE TRACY.

OUR Algonquin and Huron Savages also determined to receive Monsieur de Tracy according to the customs of their country—that is, with compliments accompanied by presents. These latter serve them as symbols to represent, after they have spoken, the speeches that have been made; and this usage they observe with much intelligence, for Barbarians. For to each of these presents they give a name, very appropriate in their own language, to indicate briefly their entire meaning,—in order that the gifts, which are preserved, may also preserve by their names the remembrance of what they signify.

[17] The Hurons took the initiative, because they were at that time all assembled at Quebec, although only ten or twelve of their chief men acted as their representatives.

One of the oldest acted as spokesman, but made as much use of gestures as of his tongue. After displaying the presents which he was about to offer, he spoke with vehemence, and in a tone of voice expressive of both the grief and the joy that overcame him.

“Great Onnontio,” said he, “thou seest at thy feet the wreck of a great country, and the pitiful remnant of a whole world, that was formerly peopled by countless inhabitants. But now thou art addressed qui te parlent, à qui l'Iroquois n'a laiffé que les os, en ayant devoré la chair, après l'avoir grillée fur les échaffauts. Il ne nous reftoit plus [18] qu'un petit filet de vie; & nos membres, dont la plupart ont paffé par les chaudières bouillantes de nos ennemis, n'avoient plus de vigueur; quand avec bien de la peine, ayant levé les yeux, nous avons apperceu fur la riviere, les navires qui te portoient; & avec toy, tant de foldats, qui nous font envoyer par ton grand Onnontio & le nôtre.

Ce fut pour lors que le Soleil nous parut eclater avec de plus beaux rayons, & eclairer nôtre ancienne terre, qui depuis tant d'années eftoit devenuë couverte de nuages & de tenebres. Pour lors nos lacs & nos rivières parurent calmes, fans tempefte & fans brifans: & pour te dire vray, il me fembla entendre vne voix fortie de ton vaiffeau, qui nous difoit, d'auffi loin que nous pûmes te découvrir: Courage, peuple defolé; tes os vont [19] eftre liez de nerfs & de tendons, ta chair va renaître, tes forces te feront renduës, & tu va vivre, comme autrefois tu as vefcu. Je me défiois au commencement de cette voix, & je la prenois pour un doux fonge, qui flattoit nos miferes; quand le bruit de tant de tambours, & l'arrivée de tant de foldats m'ont détrompé. Après tout, quoy que je te voye de mes yeux, & que j'embrasse tes pieds; la joye que tu apportes eft fi inopinée, que j'aurois peur d'eftre deceû par un beau fonge, fi je ne me fentois déjà tout fortifié de ta feule prefence. Je te vois, ô genereux Onnontio: Je t'entends; Je te parle; fois le bien-venu, & reçois ce petit prefent du creû de nôtre terre, pour marque de la joye que nous reffentons de ton heureufe arrivée, &

by mere carcasses, only the bones of which have been left by the Iroquois, who have devoured the flesh after broiling it on their scaffolds. There was left in us nothing but [18] the merest thread of life; and our limbs, most of which have passed through the boiling caldrons of our foes, had no more strength,—when, raising our eyes with extreme difficulty, we saw on the river the ships that were bringing thee, and, with thee, so many soldiers sent us by thy great Onnontio and ours.

“ Thereupon the Sun seemed to shine upon us with brighter beams, and to illumine our fatherland of old, which had been so many years overcast with clouds and darkness. Then our lakes and rivers appeared calm, and without storms or breakers; and, to tell thee the truth, I seemed to hear a voice issuing from thy vessel, and saying to us, from as far as we could discern thee: ‘ Courage, O desolate people! Thy bones are about [19] to be knit together with muscles and tendons, thy flesh is to be born again, thy strength will be restored to thee, and thou shalt live as thou didst live of old.’ At first I distrusted this voice, and took it for a sweet dream which was beguiling our wretchedness, when I was undeceived by the sound of so many drums, and the arrival of so many soldiers. After all, although I see thee with my eyes and embrace thy feet, the joy thou bringest is so unexpected that I would fear that I was deceived by a beautiful dream, did I not already feel myself thoroughly fortified by thy mere presence. I see thee, O brave Onnontio; I hear thee; I address thee. Be welcome, and receive this little present from the emptiness of our land, as a sign of the joy we feel at thy fortunate coming, and of the homage we render de l'hommage que nous rendons au plus grand [20] de tous les Onnontio de la terre, qui a eu compassion de nos miseres, & qui t'envoye pour nous en delivrer.

Ce Capitaine Huron, difant cela, jetta aux pieds de Monfieur de Tracy, vne peau d'ornagac, façonné & peinte à leur mode.

Ce ne fut que le commencement de fa harangue, & le premier de fix prefens qu'il fit, les vns après les autres; difant au fecond, que puifque Monfieur de Tracy estoit venu pour destruire les cruels Anthropophages & mangeurs d'hommes, il avoit trop de douceur fur le vifage, & que tant d'attraits dont il efclatoit, n'estoient pas pour jetter la frayeur à ces mangeurs d'hommes: Que pour ce fujet ils vouloient, du moins pour cette guerre, luy rendre le vifage effroyable, en la couvrant d'un noir, qui rend terrible [21] ceux qui en font peints.

Il faisoit allusion à la coustume des guerriers Sauvages, qui eftant prefts d'attaquer l'ennemy, se peignent de toutes couleurs, mais particulièrement de noir: de-forte que comme vne armée de Demons, ils donnent l'attaque, avec des hurlemens d'Enfer, & des cris effroyables.

Par le troisiéme present, il exhortoit les foldats François de charger si bien leurs fusils, qu'estans dans le païs ennemi, le bruit qu'ils feroient par leur décharge, non feulement jettast l'effroy parmy ces Barbares; mais aussi retentist jusqu'icy, pour y causer la joye, que donnent les coups de canon, quand ils annoncent la nouvelle de quelque fignalée victoire. Il vouloit dire, que les Iroquois, pour estre Sauvages, n'étoient pas tellement à mefpriser, [22] qu'il ne to the greatest [20] of all Onnontios on earth, who has taken pity on our wretchedness and sends thee to deliver us therefrom."

Thus speaking, this Huron Captain threw down at Monsieur de Tracy's feet a moose-skin, dressed and painted in native style.

This was but the beginning of his harangue, and the first of six presents made by him, one after another. With the second he said that, as Monsieur de Tracy had come to destroy the cruel Anthropophagi and devourers of human beings, he bore too much gentleness in his countenance; and so many charms as shone upon his person were not calculated to inspire fear in those man-eaters. Therefore they wished, at least for this war, to render his countenance forbidding, by clothing it in a blackness that makes terrible [21] those who are painted with it.

He alluded to the custom of Savage warriors, who, when about to attack the enemy, paint themselves all colors, but especially black; so that they make their attack like an army of Demons, with Hellish yells and frightful cries.

With the third present he exhorted the French soldiers to load their muskets so well that, when they were in the enemy's country, the noise made by their discharge should not only spread panic among those Barbarians, but should also resound as far as this place, and cause here the joy which cannon-shots give when they announce some signal victory. His meaning was that the Iroquois, Savages although they were, were not so contemptible [22] as to render it unnecessary to provide good arms and equipment for their conquest.

Il eſt vray, adjouſta-t-il par vn quatriéme preſent, que l'ennemi met la moitié de ſa vaillance à bien courir: il combat d'ordinaire tout nud, n'ayant que le fuſil en main, & la hache à la ceinture, ſoit pour mieux pourſuivre la victoire, ſoit pour fuir plus legerement. Quand vous l'aurez vaincu, vous ne l'aurez pas pris; particulièrement eſtant, comme vous eſtes, embarrassez d'habits, qui ſont incommodés à courir par les haliers & broſſailles, s'ils ne ſont bien retenus & arreſtez. Voicy donc vne ceinture, propre à les ferrer ſi juſtement, que vous ayez l'avantage d'eſtre couverts en pourſuivant vos ennemis, & que vous ne foyez pas toutefois moins agiles qu'eux, pour courir dans les bois.

[23] Le cinquiéme preſent portoit vne parole conſiderable: car il diſoit, que ce qu'il y avoit de plus fort parmy les Iroquois, n'eſtoit pas l'Iroquois; mais que leurs forces conſiſtoient, en la grande multitude de captifs, François, Hurons & Algonquins, & des autres Nations, qui ſont plus des deux tiers de la Nation Iroquoife, qu'ils contraignent de porter les armes contre nous.

Il adjouſtoit, que ſi nous pouvions attirer à nous, tous ces Captifs; l'on déferoit ce ſuperbe Iroquois, fans coups ferir, & qu'il tomberoît par terre, ou comme vn arbre, dont on a coupé la racine, ou comme vne montagne, dont on auroit ſapé les fondemens. Qu'au reſte, il n'eſtoit pas ſi mal-aifé de débaucher tous ces Captifs, du ſervice de ces maîtres cruels, pour leſquels ils [24] n'ont que de la crainte & de la haine dans le cœur, & non pas de l'amour. Que quand

“ It is true,” he added, producing a fourth present, “ that the enemy places half his prowess in his fast running, fighting usually entirely naked, and with only his musket in his hand and his hatchet in his belt,—either to make it easier for him to win the victory, or to render his flight more unimpeded. When you have defeated him, you will not have captured him,—especially as you are embarrassed with clothing ill adapted for running through thickets and underbrush, unless it is well girt up and secured. Here, then, is a girdle suitable for fastening your garments so properly that you will have the advantage of being clothed in your pursuit of the enemy, and yet will be not less agile than he for running in the woods.”

[23] The fifth present accompanied a clause of importance; for he said that the element of greatest strength among the Iroquois was not the Iroquois themselves, but that their might resided in the large number of captives,—French, Huron, Algonquin, and those from other Nations,—who formed more than two-thirds of the Iroquois Nation, and were compelled by the latter to bear arms against us.

He added that, if we could draw all these Captives to our side, we could defeat that haughty Iroquois without striking a blow; and he would fall to the ground either like a tree whose roots have been cut, or like a mountain whose base has been undermined. Furthermore, he said, it was not so very difficult to entice all these Captives away from the service of those cruel masters, for whom they [24] had only fear and hatred in their hearts, and not love. It would only be necessary to announce to the Iroquois, when the French army approached their villages, l'armée Françoisse approcheroit des bourgades Iroquoises, on n'auroit qu'à signifier aux Iroquois, qu'ils eussent à nous livrer tous ces Captifs, les laissant dans leur liberté; qu'autrement nous ferions main-basse par tout. S'ils les rendent, les voilà sans bras: s'ils les refusent, on les y contraindra par force, & ces Captifs d'eux-mêmes se rangeront à nous, voyans leur feureté parmy nous.

Enfin le dernier present, estoit pour encourager l'armée Françoisse, contre la longueur & les difficultés du chemin, qui mène aux Iroquois: & pour faire vne nouvelle protestation de leur obeïssance, & de leur fidélité au service du Roy.

Monsieur de Tracy tesmoigna beaucoup agréer ces complimens [25] fauvages, s'estant fait expliquer par vn truchement, tout ce qui se disoit; & n'y trouvoit rien de fauvage. Il donna assurance, à cette pauvre Nation Huronne, qu'on n'espargneroit rien pour la remettre en sa première splendeur.

Les Algonquins ne purent pas s'acquiescer si-tost, de ce même devoir; parce qu'ils estoient dispersés dans les bois, pour leur chasse, lors que Monsieur de Tracy arriva. Mais s'estant réunis quelque temps après, ils vinrent le trouver à Quebec; & Noël Tekouierimat, le plus ancien Chrétien, fit sa harangue au nom de tous, accompagnée de neuf presents.

Par le premier, il déclara, qu'il reconnoissoit le Roy de France pour Maître de toute la terre, & qu'il luy rendoit l'hommage que tous les fideles sujets doivent à leur Maître.

[26] Par le second, qu'il regardoit Monsieur de Tracy, comme un bras droit du Roy, qui venoit pour that they must hand over to us all these Captives, and leave them entirely free; that otherwise we would resort to violence. If they delivered them up, they themselves would be defenseless; if they refused, we could compel them by force, while the Captives would voluntarily take our side, seeing that their own safety lay with us.

Finally, the last present was meant to encourage the French army to face the length and obstacles of the route leading to the Iroquois, and to serve as a fresh attestation of the donors' obedience and fidelity to the King's service.

Monsieur de Tracy declared his great pleasure at these native compliments, [25] having caused an interpreter to explain to him all that was said, and he found therein no indication of the savage. He assured that poor Huron Nation that no pains should be spared to restore it to its pristine splendor.

The Algonquins could not so soon acquit themselves of this duty, because, when Monsieur de Tracy arrived, they were scattered in the woods for the purpose of hunting. But, reassembling some time afterward, they came to seek him at Quebec; and Noël Tekouerimat, the Christian of longest standing, delivered, in the name of all, his harangue, which was accompanied by nine presents.

With the first he declared that he recognized the King of France as Master of all the earth, and that he rendered him the homage that all faithful subjects owe their Master.

[26] With the second, that he regarded Monsieur de Tracy as the King's right arm, come to establish the country on a firm basis, and to revive the French and the Algonquins.

affermir la terre, & pour réusciter le François, & l'Algonquin.

Par les quatre fuivans, il luy donnoit des armes, propres pour combattre l'Iroquois.

Par le septième present, il rallumoit le feu de guerre, qui estoit presque tout esteint par l'effusion de tant de sang.

Le huitième tendoit à ce que la Nation Françoisie & l'Algonquine, demeurassent bien vnies; à cause que sans cette mutuelle intelligence, la victoire de l'Iroquois feroit trop difficile, & tres-incertaine. Qu'au reste, estans tous Chrestiens, ils combattoient pour la mesme cause, & qu'ainsi ils devoient agir de concert, n'ayans tous qu'un [27] mesme dessein, la destruction de l'Iroquois, & la publication de l'Evangile.

Par le dernier present, ce Capitaine fit avancer les Chefs des Algonquins, qui l'environnoient, les offrant à Monsieur de Tracy, pour marcher avec luy, & pour l'accompagner dans l'expedition qu'il alloit entreprendre.

Il est vray que le retardement des autres navires, qui portoient la plus grande partie de nos troupes, & qui ne pûrent arriver toutes avant la my-Septembre, a obligé de differer cette guerre au Printemps, & à l'Esté prochain: mais Monsieur de Tracy ne voulant perdre aucun moment, commanda sans delay quatre Compagnies du Regiment de Carignan-Saliere, qui estoient arrivées les premières, d'aller au plustost se saisir des postes [28] les plus avantageux, pour avoir le passage libre dans le país des Iroquois.

Elles partirent de Quebec le 23. de Juillet, & ayant grossi leurs troupes d'une Compagnie de Volontaires

With the four following he gave him arms suitable for fighting the Iroquois.

With the seventh present he rekindled the war-fire, which had been nearly extinguished by so much bloodshed.

The eighth was to promote the continued firm union of the French and Algonquin Nations, because, without such mutual understanding, the conquest of the Iroquois would be too difficult and very uncertain. Besides, as they were both Christian peoples, they were fighting for the same cause and ought thus to act in concert, having both but one [27] and the same end in view—the destruction of the Iroquois and the publication of the Gospel.

With the last present, this Captain caused the Algonquin Chiefs who stood around him to step forward, and offered them to Monsieur de Tracy, to march with him and attend him on the expedition that he was about to undertake.

It is true, the delay of the other vessels, which were bringing the larger part of our troops, and could not all arrive before the middle of September, compelled a postponement of this war until next Spring and Summer; but Monsieur de Tracy, unwilling to lose a single moment, immediately ordered four Companies of the Carignan-Saliere Regiment, which were the first to arrive, to go with all expedition and seize [28] the most advantageous positions, in order to have an open passage into the Iroquois country.

They started from Quebec on the 23rd of July, and, after reinforcing their troops with a Company of Volunteers from this country, commanded by Sieur de Repentigny, arrived at Three Rivers at a de ce païs, commandée par le Sieur de Repentigny; elles arriverent aux Trois-Rivieres bien à propos, pour les delivrer de la crainte des Iroquois, qui depuis peu de temps, y estoient venus faire leurs courfes ordinaires, avoient tué quelques habitans, & fait quelques captifs.

time most opportune to relieve the people from their fear of the Iroquois. These enemies had recently approached that place on one of their customary marauding excursions, and had slain some of the settlers, and taken some captives.

DE L'ARRIVÉE DES ALGONQUINS SUPERIEURS À QUEBEC: & DE LA MISSION DU P. CLAUDE ALLOÛEZ VERS CES PEUPLES.

PENDANT que ces troupes avancées attendoient aux Trois-Rivieres, vn vent favorable pour passer outre, & traverser le lac Saint-Pierre; elles eurent le plaisir de voir arriver vne centaine de canots des Outaoïax, & de quelques autres Sauvages nos alliez, qui venoient des quartiers du Lac supérieur, à quatre & cinq cens lieuës d'icy, pour faire leur commerce ordinaire, & se fournir de leurs besoins, en nous donnant pour échange leurs peaux de Castor, qu'ils ont chez eux en tres-grande abondance.

[30] Vn François, qui l'année precedente les avoit fuivis, & qui les a accompagnez dans leurs voyages, nous fait rapport qu'il y a parmy ces Nations, plus de cent mille combatans; Que les guerres y font de continuels ravages; que les Outaoïax font attaquez d'vn costé par les Iroquois, & de l'autre par les Nadoïeffioïax, peuples belliqueux, à plus de fix cens lieuës d'icy, & qui ont aussi d'autres guerres cruelles, avec d'autres Nations encore plus éloignées; & qu'il y a plus de cent bourgades de diverses loix & coutumes.

Il s'observe, en ces pais-là, vn genre d'idolâtre assez extraordinaire. Ils ont vn marmoufet de bronze noir, pris sur le pais, qui a vn pied de haut; auquel

[29] CHAPTER III.

THE ARRIVAL OF THE UPPER ALGONQUINS AT QUEBEC, AND FATHER CLAUDE ALLOUEZ'S MISSION TO THOSE PEOPLES.

WHILE these advance-troops were waiting, at Three Rivers, for a favorable wind to continue their voyage and cross lake Saint Pierre, they had the pleasure of witnessing the arrival of a hundred canoes, filled with Outaouax and some other Savages allied to us. These came from the neighborhood of Lake superior, four or five hundred leagues from here, to do their usual trading and supply their wants—giving us in exchange their Beaver-skins, which they have in their country in very great abundance.

[30] A Frenchman who had followed them the year before, and who accompanied them on their excursions, reports to us that there are more than a hundred thousand fighting men among those Nations; that warfare causes constant devastation there; that the Outaouax are attacked on one side by the Iroquois, and on the other by the Nadouessioux—a warlike people living more than six hundred leagues from here, and waging also other cruel wars with other still more distant Nations; and that there are more than a hundred villages, with different laws and customs.

There is observed in those regions a kind of idolatry which is rather unusual. They have a grotesque image of black bronze, one foot in height, which ils donnent de la barbe, comme à vn European; quoy que les Sauvages n'en ayent point. [31] Il y a certains jours destinez pour honorer cette statuë, par des festins, par des jeux, par des danfes, & mesme par des prieres qu'ils luy adressent, avec diverses ceremonies. Il y en a vne entre-autres, qui est de foy ridicule; mais qui est remarquable, en ce qu'elle contient vne espece de sacrifice. Tous les hommes, les vns après les autres, s'approchent de la statuë, & pour luy rendre hommage de leur tabac, ils luy presentent la pipe en main, pour petuner: mais comme l'idole ne peut s'en servir; ils petunent en sa place, luy rejettant au visage la fumée du tabac qu'ils ont dans la bouche: ce qui peut passer pour vne espece d'encensément, & de sacrifice.

Ce ne fera pas là, le plus grand des ennemis qu'il faudra combattre au Pere Claude Alloüez, sur qui le [32] fort est heureusement tombé, pour cette grande & penible Mission. Il attendoit à Montreal, depuis long-temps, quelques Sauvages de ces Nations superieures, plus éloignées de nous; pour remonter avec eux dans leur païs, & en faire vn païs Chrestien. Vne bande de soixante Nepissiriniens ayant pris le devant, il les receut comme des Anges de cette Nouvelle Eglise. C'est ainsi qu'il les nomme, dans vne lettre qu'il en escrit, en ces termes.

Enfin il a plû à Dieu nous envoyer les Anges des Algonquins superieurs, pour nous emmener en leur païs, & les aider à y establir le Royaume de Nostre Seigneur. Ce fut leudy dernier, vingtième de Juillet, qu'après que j'eû dit vne Messe votive à ce dessein, en l'honneur de Saint Ignace & de Saint Xavier, ils arriverent sur le midy, [33] après vingt was found in the country, and to which they give a beard like a European's, although the Savages themselves are beardless. [31] There are certain fixed days for honoring this statue with feasts, games, dances, and even with prayers, which are addressed to it with divers ceremonies. Among them there is one which, although ridiculous in itself, is yet remarkable in that it embraces a kind of sacrifice. All the men, one after another, approach the statue and, in order to pay it homage with their tobacco, offer it their pipes, that it may smoke; but, as the idol cannot avail itself of the offer, they smoke in its stead, blowing into its face the tobacco-smoke which they have in their mouths,—which may be regarded as a mode of offering incense and performing sacrifice.

That superstition will not be the chief foe to be combated by Father Claude Allouez, to whom [32] this great and arduous Mission has happily fallen by lot. For a long time he was waiting at Montreal for some Savages of those upper Nations that are more remote from us, in order to return with them to their country and make of it a Christian land. A band of sixty Nepissiriniens being the first to appear, he received them as Angels of that New Church. So he called them in a letter which he wrote concerning them, as follows:

“ At last God has been pleased to send us the Angels of the upper Algonquins to conduct us to their country, where we are to aid them in establishing Our Lord's Kingdom. Toward noon of last Thursday, the twentieth of July, after I had said a votive Mass in honor of Saint Ignatius and Saint Xavier, to promote this end, they arrived [33] after a twenty days' journey by water from the Sault of jours de navigation, depuis le Saut du Lac superieur. Le leur parlay d'abord du Paradis, & de l'Enfer, & de nos autres myſteres, à quoy ils ſe rendoient fort attentifs, & m'eſcoutoient avec plus de ſilence, que lors que leur Capitaine haranguoit: j'eſpere que le Saint Eſprit, qui les rendoit ſi dociles, leur fera la grace de recevoir avec vne ſoumiſſion d'eſprit, les ſemences de l'Evangile, que nous leur portions en leur païs.

Ces Sauvages venus de ſi loin, furent attaquez deux fois par les Iroquois, pendant leur voyage. La premiere fut peu de temps après leur départ, les Iroquois leur allant dreſſer des embuſcades, aux endroits les plus dangereux par où ils doivent paſſer, pour venir icy faire leur trafic, & leur commerce avec nos François. Or comme les Algonquins [34] de cette Nation, ſont plus marchands que ſoldats, & qu'ils ſont toûjours embarrassez de leur charge, & peu munis de poudre & d'armes à feu, qu'ils viennent chercher icy; Cela eſt cauſe, que quelque nombre qu'ils puiſſent eſtre, ils évitent toûjours d'en venir aux mains avec leurs ennemis, pour peu qu'ils en rencontrent, craignans toûjours, qu'il n'y en ait d'autres en campagne, qui doivent venir fondre ſur eux.

De fait ayant trouvé en chemin les Iroquois, qui s'eſtoient renfermez dans vn meſchant fort de pieux, au nombre de vingt ou trente ſeulement; les Algonquins, quoy qu'ils fuſſent plus de trois cens hommes, firent bien ſemblant de les aſſieger, & s'arreſterent quelques jours autour de ce fort, empeſchant les Iroquois d'en fortir, mais ſans ofer faire l'attaque.

[35] Les Iroquois, en peu de temps, ſe trouverent reduits dans vne grande extremité, à cauſe que l'eau

Lake superior. I spoke to them at the outset on the subject of Paradise and Hell and our other mysteries—to which they paid excellent attention, listening to me in greater silence than when their Captain harangued them. I hope the Holy Ghost, after rendering them thus docile, will give them the grace to receive with submissive minds the Gospel seeds which we were bearing to their country.”

These Savages, coming from such a distance, were twice attacked by the Iroquois during their journey. The first time was soon after they set out, when the Iroquois laid ambuscades for them in the most dangerous places which they must pass in coming hither to carry on their traffic and commerce with our French. Now, the Algonquins [34] of that Nation are traders rather than soldiers, and they are always encumbered with their burdens, and scantily provided with powder and firearms,—which they come here to obtain. Therefore, however numerous they may be, they always avoid any collision with their foes, however few of the latter they may encounter, ever fearing there may be others in the field, about to fall upon them.

Indeed, when they met with the Iroquois on their way, the latter having ensconced themselves, to the number of twenty or thirty only, in a wretched fort of stakes, the Algonquins, although more than three hundred strong, actually made a feint of besieging them, and lingered for some days about this fort, preventing the Iroquois from coming out, but themselves not daring to attack them.

[35] The Iroquois soon found themselves reduced to great straits for want of water; therefore, in order to be allowed access to the river, some of their leur manquoit: de forte que pour avoir la liberté d'aller jufqu'à la riviere, quelques-vns d'eux fortirent du fort, avec quelques prefens en main, & demanderent à parlementer. Mes Freres, dirent-ils, pourquoy tardez-vous tant à nous attaquer? Nous fommes bien refolus de vous recevoir en gens de cœur, & vous vendre bien cher noftre vie: puifque dans le grand nombre que vous eftes, en comparaifon du nôtre, nous ne pouvons efchaper vos mains: Mais ce ne fera pas fans bien du carnage de part & d'autre. Au refte nous manquons d'eau dans noftre fort: voicy vn prefent que je vous fais, pour nous donner la liberté d'aller jufqu'à la riviere.

Ce prefent eftoit vn Collier de [36] Porcellaine, qui font les perles & les diamans de ce païs, & qui charma les yeux des Outaoïak. Ils l'accepterent volontiers, laiffant le paffage libre à leurs ennemis, pour aller puifer de l'eau, dans vn ruiiffeau, affez proche de là.

Cette premiere ambaffade ayant fi heureufement reüffi aux Iroquois; & d'ailleurs fe voyans toujours affiegez, & leurs provifions fe diminuer beaucoup, ils en tenterent vne feconde. Quelques-vns d'eux fortirent du fort, avec d'autres prefens, plus beaux que les premiers, & crierent de loin; Mes Freres, que tardez-vous icy fi long-temps? venez nous attaquer; ou continuez voftre chemin. Nous vous le rendons plus facile, & nous efcartons les rochers, qui pourroient arrefter, & brifer vos canots. Ils jetterent en mefme temps d'autres prefens aux pieds des Outaoïak, [37] comme pour aplanir leur chemin: qui en effet fe tinrent heureux, de pouvoir paffer outre, & de continuer leur voyage, avec quelque efpece d'hon-number came out of the fort with presents in their hands, and asked for a parley. "Brothers," said they, "why do you delay so long about attacking us? We are fully resolved to receive you like brave men, and to sell you our lives at a very dear price—since, owing to your great superiority of numbers over us, we cannot escape you. But the engagement will not be without great bloodshed on both sides. Furthermore, we are in want of water in our fort, and I offer you this present to allow us free access to the river."

The present was a Collar of [36] Porcelain—the pearls and diamonds of this country—and it captivated the gaze of the Outaouak. They gladly accepted it, and left their enemy free passage to go and draw water in a stream not far from there.

As this first delegation proved so successful for the Iroquois, and as, moreover, they still saw themselves besieged, and their provisions were fast diminishing, they made a trial of a second. Some of them issued from the fort with other presents, more beautiful than the first, and cried out from afar: "Why do you linger here so long, Brothers? Come and attack us, or continue your journey. We make your departure easy, and remove the rocks that might check or shatter your canoes." With these words they threw down additional presents at the feet of the Outaouak, [37] as if to make smooth their path; and, indeed, the travelers deemed themselves fortunate to be able to pass on and continue their journey with some appearance of honor, after the occurrence of several skirmishes on each side, in which a few men had been slain.

The second encounter that they had with the Iroquois during their journey, was a little above the neur; après qu'il s'estoit fait quelques escarmouches, de part & d'autre, où quelques-vns avoient esté tuez.

La seconde rencontre qu'ils firent des Iroquois, pendant leur voyage, fut vn peu au dessus de la riviere de Richelieu, au Cap dit de massacre: où quelques Iroquois s'estant mis en embuscade, firent leur descharge sur les derniers canots des Outaouïak, qui filoient le long du bord de l'eau, & en tuèrent quelques-vns; prenant aussi-tost la fuite dans les bois, de peur d'estre attaquez par vn si grand nombre d'ennemis, qu'ils avoient laissé passer.

Ils arriverent donc aux Trois-Rivieres, [38] après ces deux rencontres: & y ayant fait leur petit commerce, ils hastèrent promptement leur retour, pour ne pas donner aux Iroquois le loisir de s'affsembler, & de les venir attendre au passage, en quelque défilé, où ils les auroient pû surprendre à l'impourveu.

Le Pere Alloüez se jette parmy eux, & les fuit dans leur païs, pour y publier la Foy, à tant de vastes Regions, & en mesme temps, leur porter les bonnes nouvelles du secours venu de France, qui les delivrera enfin des Iroquois.

Monsieur de Tracy chargea le Pere, de trois presents, qu'il devoit faire à ces Peuples, quand il y feroit arrivé; leur declarant, Premierement, qu'enfin le Roy alloit ranger à la raison l'Iroquois; & par consequent soutenir toute leur terre, qui estoit en son penchant.

[39] Secondement, que si les Nadoüeffioüiek, qui sont d'autres ennemis, qu'ils ont aussi sur les bras, ne veulent entendre à la paix, il les y contraindra par la force de ses armes.

Le troisiéme present, estoit pour exhorter toutes

Richelieu river, at the so-called Cap de massacre, where some Iroquois, lying in ambush, fired a volley on the last of the Outaouak canoes, as they were defiling past near the water's edge. They killed several men, and then fled at once into the woods, fearing an attack from so large a body of foes, whom they had allowed to pass.

After these two encounters, then, they arrived at Three Rivers, [38] where they did their little trading, and immediately hastened home again, in order not to give the Iroquois time to gather their forces, and come to intercept them in some defile, where they could have fallen on them unawares.

Father Allouez hastily joined them, and accompanied them to their country, there to proclaim the Faith to so many vast Regions, and, meanwhile, to bear them the good news of the succor come from France, which at last would free them from the Iroquois.

Monsieur de Tracy gave into the Father's care three presents, which he was to give to these People when he arrived among them, declaring to them:

First, that the King was finally about to bring the Iroquois to their senses, and hence would grant his support to all their own land that was on the verge of ruin.

[39] Secondly, if the Nadouessiouek, other enemies with whom they also had to deal, would not listen to terms of peace, he would compel them to do so by force of arms.

The third present was to exhort all the Algonquin Nations of those regions to embrace the Faith, of which certain individuals have already received some tincture from the tireless labors and Apostolic zeal les Nations Algonquines de ces quartiers-là, d'embrasser la Foy, de laquelle quelques-vns ont déjà eu quelque teinture, par les foins infatigables, & par le zele Apostolique du Pere René Menard, qui par vne conduite particuliere de la Providence, se perdit dans leurs bois, où il est mort de faim, & de miseres, abandonné de tout secours humain: Mais Dieu, sans doute, ne l'aura pas abandonné; puisqu'il est par tout avec ceux qui se perdent pour son amour dans la conquête des ames, rachetées du Sang de IESVS CHRIST.

[40] Quelques années auparavant, vn autre de nos Peres, le Pere Leonard Garreau, ayant pris le mesme chemin, avec la mesme Nation des Outaoïak, dans les mesmes desseins du salut de ces ames, y trouva aussi heureusement la mort, dès la seconde journée de son voyage; ayant esté tué dans vne embuscade d'Iroquois, qui les attendoient au passage. Il se peut faire, que le Pere qui part maintenant avec eux, face bien-tost vne pareille rencontre: mais vn homme vrayment Apostolique, est content par tout de mourir, puisqu'il trouve par tout l'entrée du Paradis. Si c'est vne mort heureuse selon le monde, que de mourir dans vn combat au service de son Prince, qui après tout ne peut recompenser vn homme mort, puisque son pouvoir ne s'estend pas jusque-là; Ceux qui meurent au [41] service du Roy des Rois, n'ont-ils pas vne mort mille fois plus heureuse, puisqu'elle est recompensée de l'Eternité.

of Father René Menard, who, by a special dispensation of Providence, lost his way in their woods and died there of hunger and want, destitute of all human succor. But surely God cannot have forsaken him, since everywhere he is with those who, for love of him, lose their way in the conquest of souls redeemed by the Blood of JESUS CHRIST.

[40] Some years previously, another of our Fathers—Father Leonard Garreau, who had taken the same route with the same Outaouak Nation, likewise for the purpose of saving their souls—also met with a blessed death among them, on the second day of his journey, being slain in an ambuscade of Iroquois who were waiting for them to pass. It may be that the Father who is now starting out with them will ere long meet with a like accident; but a man who is truly an Apostle is glad to die anywhere, since he everywhere finds entrance to Paradise. If it is a happy death, in the world's estimation, to die in battle, in the service of one's Prince,—who, after all, cannot reward a dead man, his power not extending so far,—have not those who die in the [41] service of the King of Kings a death a thousand times happier, since its reward is Eternity?

CHAPITRE IV

DES PREMIERS FORTS CONSTRUITS SUR LA RIVIERE
DES IROQUOIS.

EN mesme temps que les Outaouïak s'embarquoient, pour remonter en leur païs, le vent s'étant rendu plus favorable, les foldats qui avoient esté obligez de s'arrester aux Trois-Rivieres, s'embarquerent auffi; & après avoir navigé sur le lac de Saint-Pierre, ils se rendirent à l'entrée de la riviere de Richelieu, qui conduit aux Iroquois d'Anniegué.

Le dessein que l'on avoit à cette premiere campagne, estoit de faire [42] bastir sur le chemin, quelques forts, que l'on a jugez absolument necessaires, tant pour affeurer le passage, & la liberté du commerce, que pour servir de magazins aux troupes, & de retraites aux foldats malades, & aux bleffez.

Pour cet effet on a choisi trois postes avantageux. Le premier, à l'emboucheure de la riviere des Iroquois. Le second, dix-sept lieuës plus haut, au pied d'un courant d'eau, que l'on appelle le Sault de Richelieu. Le troisieme environ trois lieuës plus haut que ce courant.

Le premier fort, nommé Richelieu, a esté fait par Monsieur de Chamblay, qui commandoit cinq Compagnies, que Monsieur de Tracy y avoit envoyées.

Le second fort, nommé Saint-Louis, à cause qu'il fut commencé [43] dans la semaine, que l'on celebroit

CHAPTER IV.

OF THE FIRST FORTS CONSTRUCTED ON THE RIVER OF THE IROQUOIS.

AT the same time when the Outaouak were embarking to return to their country, the wind having become more favorable, the soldiers who had been forced to halt at Three Rivers embarked also; and, crossing lake Saint Pierre, proceeded to the mouth of the Richelieu river, which leads to the Iroquois of Anniegué.

The purpose in view in this first campaign was to erect [42] along the route certain forts, which were deemed absolutely necessary, both for maintaining open communication and the freedom of traffic, and also for serving as magazines for the troops, and places of refuge for sick and wounded soldiers.

For this purpose, three advantageous positions were chosen—the first at the mouth of the river of the Iroquois; the second seventeen leagues higher up, at the foot of some rapids called the Richelieu Falls; and the third about three leagues above these rapids.

The first fort, named Richelieu, was erected by Monsieur de Chamblay, who commanded five Companies sent thither by Monsieur de Tracy.

The second, named fort Saint Louis,—because it was begun [43] the week in which the festival of that great Saint, Protector of our Kings and of France, was celebrated,—was built by Monsieur Sorel, who la feste de ce grand Saint, Protecteur de nos Rois, & de la France; a esté fait par Monsieur Sorel, qui commandoit cinq autres Compagnies, du Regiment de Carignan-Salieres.

Monsieur de Salieres, Colonel du Regiment, a voulu prendre luy-mesme, le poste le plus avancé vers les ennemis, & le plus dangereux. A peine osoit-on esperer que cét ouvrage deust estre fait avant les neiges, n'ayant pû estre commencé que bien tard: Mais le Chef qui a blanchi sous les armes, & qui par le nombre des années, n'a rien perdu encore de sa vigueur, ni de son courage, ayant mis le premier la main à l'œuvre, a si bien animé les soldats par son exemple, que le fort a esté heureusement achevé le mois d'Octobre, au jour de Sainte Terefe, [44] d'où il a tiré son nom.

De ce troisiéme fort de Sainte Terefe on peut aller commodément jusqu'au lac de Champlain, sans rencontrer aucuns rapides, qui puissent arrester les bateaux.

Ce lac, après soixante lieuës de longueur, aboutit enfin au terres des Iroquois Annieronnonns. C'est là que l'on a dessein de bastir encore dès le Printemps prochain, vn quatriéme fort, qui dominera dans ces contrées, & d'où l'on pourra faire des forties continues sur les ennemis, s'ils ne se rendent à la raison.

Nous donnerons à la fin du chapitre suivant, le Plan de ces trois forts, avec la Carte du païs des Iroquois, que l'on n'a point encore veuë; après avoir remarqué quelques particularitez de ces Peuples, qui nous traversent depuis si [45] long-temps, pour n'avoir jamais esté bien attaquez.

commanded five other Companies of the Carignan-Salieres Regiment.

Monsieur de Salieres, Colonel of the Regiment, determined to take in person the post nearest to the enemy, and the most dangerous. Hardly did we dare hope that this work would be done before snow came, as it had been impossible to begin it until very late; but the Leader,—who has grown gray in military service, although he has not yet, despite his advanced age, lost any of his vigor or courage,—being the first to put his hand to the work, so greatly encouraged the soldiers by his example that the fort was fortunately completed in the month of October, on Saint Theresa's day, [44] whence it took its name.

From this third fort of Sainte Terese there is ready access to lake Champlain, without encountering any rapids to check a boat's progress.

This lake, which is sixty leagues long, finally ends at the territory of the Annieronnon Iroquois, where it is intended to erect, as soon as Spring opens, still a fourth fort which shall command those regions, and whence repeated sorties can be made against the enemy, if the latter refuse to come to terms.

At the end of the following chapter, after noting some particulars concerning these Peoples,—who, because they have never been vigorously attacked, have so long been thwarting our purposes,—we shall give the Plan of these three forts, together with a Map, which has [45] not yet been seen, of the country of the Iroquois.

CHAPITRE V.

DU PAÏS DES IROQUOIS, & DES CHEMINS QUI Y CON-DUISENT.

IL faut ſçavoir que les Iroquois ſont compoſez de cinq Nations, dont la plus voifine des Hollandois, eſt celle d'Anniegué, compoſée de deux ou trois bourgades, qui contiennent environ trois à quatre cens hommes, capables de porter les armes.

Ceux-cy nous ont toujours fait la guerre, quoy qu'ils ayent quelquefois fait ſemblant de demander la paix.

Tirant vers l'Occident, à quarante-cinq lieuës de chemin, ſe trouve la ſeconde Nation, que l'on [46] appelle Onnejout, qui n'a pour le plus, que cent quarante hommes de guerre, & n'a jamais voulu entendre à aucuns pourparlers de paix: au contraire a toujours brouillé les affaires, lorſqu'elles ſembloient ſ'accommoder.

A quinze lieuës vers le Couchant, eſt Onnontagué, qui a bien trois cens hommes. Nous y avons eſté autrefois receus comme amis, & traitez en ennemis. Ce qui nous obligea de quitter ce poſte, où nous avons demeuré deux ans; comme au centre de toutes les Nations Iroquoifes, d'où nous avons publié l'Evangile à tous ces pauvres peuples; aſſiſtez d'une garniſon de François, envoyez par Monſieur de Lauſon, alors Gouverneur de la Nouvelle France; pour prendre poſſeſſion de ces contrées, au nom de ſa Majeſté.

CHAPTER V.

OF THE IROQUOIS COUNTRY, AND THE ROUTES LEADING THITHER.

IT must be stated that the Iroquois are composed of five Nations, of which the nearest to the Dutch is that of Anniegué, embracing two or three villages, which contain perhaps three to four hundred men able to bear arms.

These people have always made war upon us, although they have at times pretended to ask for peace.

Forty-five leagues Westward is situated the second Nation, [46] called Onneiout, which has at most only a hundred and forty warriors, and has never consented to any peace parleys, but has always embroiled our relations whenever an understanding seemed to be at hand.

Fifteen leagues farther Westward lies Onnontagué, which has fully three hundred men. We were, in times past, received there as friends, and then treated like enemies; and this treatment forced us to abandon that post—which, as being the center of all the Iroquois Nations, we had occupied for two years, and from which we had proclaimed the Gospel to all those poor people; we were aided by a garrison of Frenchmen sent by Monsieur de Lauson, then Governor of New France, to take possession of those regions in his Majesty's name.

[47] A vingt ou trente lieuës de là, vers le Couchant encore, est le bourg d'Oïogotien, de trois cens hommes de guerre; où nous avons eu vne Mission qui formoit vne petite Eglise, remplie de pieté, au milieu de cette barbarie, l'année 1657.

Vers les extremitez du grand lac, qui s'appelle Ontario, est placée la plus nombreuse des cinq Nations Iroquoises, appelée Sonnonotoïan, qui contient bien douze cens hommes, dans deux ou trois bourgades, qui la composent.

Ces deux dernieres Nations ne nous ont jamais fait la guerre ouvertement, & se font toûjours conservées comme neutres.

Toute cette estenduë de païs, est partie au Midy, partie au Couchant des habitations Francoises, à cent, & cent cinquante lieuës.

[48] Ce païs est pour la plupart fertile, chargé de beaux bois, entre autres de forests entieres de chastaigniers & de noyers, entrecoupé de quantité de lacs, & de rivières tres-poissonneuses.

L'air y est temperé, les saisons réglées comme en France; & la terre, en divers endroits, capable de tous les fruits, que portent la Touraine & la Provence.

Les neiges n'y font pas hautes, ni de longue durée. Les trois Hivers, que nous y avons passé parmy les Onnontagueronnons, ont esté doux, en comparaison des Hivers de Quebec, où les neiges couvrent cinq mois la terre, & ont trois, quatre & cinq pieds de hauteur.

Comme nous habitons la partie Septentrionale de la Nouvelle France, & les Iroquois la Meridionale, il ne faut pas s'estonner si leurs terres [49] font plus agreables & plus capables d'estre cultivées, & de porter de meilleurs fruits.

[47] Twenty or thirty leagues thence, still in a Westerly direction, is the village of Oiogouen, containing three hundred warriors. Here, in the year 1657, we had a Mission which, amid this barbarism, formed a Church filled with piety.

Toward the end of the great lake called Ontario is situated the most populous of the five Iroquois Nations, called Sonnantouan, and embracing fully twelve hundred men in the two or three villages which compose it.

These last two Nations have never made open war upon us, and have ever maintained a neutral attitude.

This entire stretch of country, to the distance of a hundred or a hundred and fifty leagues, lies partly Southward and partly Westward of the French settlements.

[48] For the most part, this region is fertile and covered with fine woods,—whole forests of chestnut and walnut trees, among others,—interspersed with many lakes and rivers, very rich in fish.

The climate there is temperate, the seasons succeeding regularly as in France, while the soil, in various parts, is adapted to the growth of all the products of Touraine and Provence.

Snow is not deep or lasting, the three Winters which we passed among the Onnontagueronnons having been mild in comparison with those of Quebec,—where for five months snow covers the earth to the depth of three, four, or five feet.

As we occupy the Northern part of New France, and the Iroquois the Southern, it is not to be wondered at if their lands [49] are pleasanter, better adapted to cultivation, and productive of fruits of superior quality.

Il y a deux rivières principales, qui conduisent aux Iroquois; l'une, à ceux qui sont vers la Nouvelle Hollande, & c'est la rivière de Richelieu, dont nous parlerons peu après; l'autre, mène aux autres Nations, qui sont plus éloignées de nous, montant toujours notre grand fleuve de Saint-Laurent; lequel au dessus de Montreal, se coupe comme en deux branches; dont l'une mène au pays ancien des Hurons, l'autre à celui des Iroquois.

C'est une des plus considérables rivières que l'on puisse voir, si on a plus d'égard à sa beauté, qu'à la commodité: car on y rencontre, presque par tout, grand nombre de belles Isles, les unes grandes, les autres petites: mais toutes chargées [50] de beaux bois, & pleines de cerfs, d'ours, & de vaches fauves, qui fournissent abondamment les provisions nécessaires aux voyageurs, qui en trouvent par tout; & quelquefois des troupes entières de bestes fauves.

Les rivages de la terre ferme, sont pour l'ordinaire ombragés de grands chênes, & autres bois de haute-futaie, qui couvrent de bonne terre.

Avant que d'arriver au grand lac Ontario, on en traverse deux autres, dont l'un se joint à l'Isle de Montreal, & l'autre au milieu du chemin. Il a dix lieues de long, sur cinq de large; Il est terminé par un grand nombre de petites Isles très-agréables à la vue; & nous l'avons nommé le Lac de Saint-François.

Mais ce qui rend cette rivière incommode, [51] ce sont les cheutes d'eau, & les rapides, qui continuent presque l'espace de quarante lieues; à sçavoir depuis Montreal, jusqu'à l'entrée de l'Ontario; n'y ayant que les deux lacs, dont j'ay parlé, dont la navigation soit facile.

There are two principal rivers leading to the Iroquois,—one to those living near New Holland, namely, the Richelieu river, of which we shall speak presently; the other leading to the remaining Nations, which are farther from us, by ascending our great river Saint Lawrence, which, above Montreal, is in a certain sense divided into two branches, one of them conducting to the former country of the Hurons, the other to that of the Iroquois.

It is one of the most notable rivers to be seen, considering rather its beauty than its utility; for there are found, throughout almost its entire course, many beautiful Islands, some large and others small, but all covered [50] with fine forests. These Islands are full of deer, bears, and wild cows, which furnish in abundance the provisions necessary for travelers, who find everywhere such game, and, occasionally, whole herds of animals of the deer species.

The banks of the river are usually shaded with great oaks and other full-grown forest-trees, which cover excellent soil.

Before reaching the great lake Ontario, we cross two others, one of which adjoins the Island of Montreal, while the other lies midway on the journey. The latter is ten leagues long by five broad, ending in many small Islands very pleasing to the view, and we have named it Lake Saint François.

But what detracts from this river's utility [51] is the waterfalls and rapids extending nearly forty leagues,—that is, from Montreal to the mouth of lake Ontario,—there being only the two lakes I have mentioned where navigation is easy.

In ascending these rapids, it is often necessary to alight from the canoe and walk in the river, whose Lors que l'on furmonte ces torrens, il faut souvent descendre du canot, pour marcher dans la riviere, dont les eaux sont assez basses en ces endroits-là, principalement vers les rivages.

On prend le canot à la main, le traînant après foy: d'ordinaire deux hommes suffisent, l'un à la pointe de devant, l'autre à la pointe de derriere; & comme le canot est tres-leger, n'estant que d'efcorce d'arbres, & qu'il n'est pas chargé, il coule plus doucement sur l'eau, ne trouvant pas grande resistance.

Quelquefois on est obligé de [52] mettre le canot à terre, & de le porter quelque temps, un homme devant, & l'autre derriere; le premier portant une des pointes du canot sur l'espaule droite, & le second portant l'autre pointe sur la gauche. Ce que l'on est obligé de faire: soit lors qu'il y a des cheutes d'eau, & des rivières entières, qui tombent quelquefois à pic, d'une hauteur prodigieuse; soit lors que les torrens sont trop rapides; ou que l'eau y estant trop profonde, on ne sçauroit y marcher, traînant le canot à la main; soit lors que l'on veut couper les terres, d'une rivière à une autre.

Mais lors que l'on est venu à l'emboucheure du grand lac, la navigation est facile, les eaux y estant paisibles, s'élargissant d'abord insensiblement; puis environ du tiers, en suite plus de la moitié, & enfin à [53] perte de vue; Sur tout après que l'on a traversé une infinité de petites Isles, qui se trouvent à l'entrée du lac, en si grand nombre, & dans une telle variété, que les plus expérimentez Pilotes Iroquois, s'y perdent quelquefois, & ont bien de la peine à reconnoître les routes qu'il faut tenir, dans la confusion, & comme dans le labyrinthe que forment waters are rather low in such places, especially near the banks.

The canoe is grasped with the hand and dragged behind, two men usually sufficing for this—one at the prow, and the other at the stern; and as the canoe is very light, being only of bark and unladen, it glides with the greatest ease over the water, and meets with but little resistance.

Occasionally one is obliged to [52] run it ashore, and carry it for some time, one man in front and another behind—the first bearing one end of the canoe on his right shoulder, and the second the other end on his left. One is forced to do this either on account of waterfalls and whole rivers, which sometimes fall straight downward from a prodigious height; or owing to the excessive swiftness of the current; or because, the water being too deep, it is impossible to walk and drag the canoe; or for the reason that one wishes to go across the country from one river to another.

But on gaining the mouth of the great lake, the navigation is easy, the water being calm there, and broadening out,—at first imperceptibly, then becoming about a third wider, afterward more than a half, and finally stretching away [53] farther than the eye can reach. This is especially so after one has passed countless small Islands lying at the entrance to the lake, in such great numbers and variety that the most experienced Iroquois Pilots sometimes lose their way among them, and have much difficulty in recognizing the right course in the confusion and labyrinth, so to speak, formed by these Islands—which, moreover, have nothing pleasing about them but their multitude. For they are nothing but great rocks ces Isles, qui d'ailleurs n'ont rien d'agréable, que leur multitude. Car ce ne sont que de gros rochers qui sortent de l'eau, & qui ne sont couverts que de mousse, ou de quelques fapins, & autres bois stériles, dont les racines prennent naissance dans les fentes de ces rochers, qui ne peuvent fournir d'autre aliment, & d'autre humeur à ces arbres stériles, que ce que les pluies y peuvent apporter.

Après qu'on s'est tiré de ce triste [54] séjour, on découvre le lac, qui paroît comme une mer sans Isles, & sans rive : où les barques & les navires peuvent voguer, d'un bout à l'autre, avec toute assurance : en sorte que la communication seroit facile, entre toutes les Colonies Françaises que l'on peut établir sur les bords de ce grand lac, qui a plus de cent lieues de long, sur trente ou quarante de large.

C'est de ce lieu-là que l'on peut se rendre, par diverses rivières, à toutes les Nations Iroquoises, excepté à celle des Annieronnons, dont le chemin est par la rivière de Richelieu, de laquelle nous pouvons bien dire deux mots, puisque c'est sur elle, que nos troupes ont déjà fait les trois forts dont nous avons parlé.

Elle se nomme la rivière de Richelieu, à cause du fort du même [55] nom, qui y fut bâti, à son embouchure, au commencement des guerres ; & qui a été rebâti tout de nouveau, pour s'affaiblir de l'entrée de cette rivière.

Elle porte aussi le nom, de la rivière des Iroquois, parce que c'est le chemin qui y conduit ; & que c'est par là que ces Barbares nous venoient plus ordinairement attaquer.

Le lit de cette rivière est large presque par tout, projecting above the water, and covered only with moss or some firs and other fruitless trees, whose roots spring from clefts in these rocks—which can furnish those barren trees with no other nourishment or moisture than such as the rains are able to supply.

Extricating oneself from this gloomy [54] retreat, one discovers the lake, which appears like a sea, without Islands and without shores, on which barks and ships can sail from one end to the other in perfect safety. Hence communication would be easy between all the French Colonies that could be planted on the shores of this great lake, which is more than a hundred leagues long by thirty or forty wide.

Thence one can go by different rivers to all the Iroquois Nations except that of the Annieronnons, who are reached by way of the Richelieu river; to this stream we can well devote a few words, since on its banks our troops have already erected the three forts mentioned by us.

It is called the Richelieu river, from the fort of the same [55] name that was built at its mouth at the beginning of the wars; it has been quite recently rebuilt, to guard the entrance to that river.

It is also styled “the river of the Iroquois,” as it forms the highway leading to them; and by that route those Barbarians have most often come to attack us.

The bed of this river is a hundred to a hundred and fifty feet wide throughout almost its entire course, although it is a little narrower at its mouth. Its banks are clothed with beautiful pines, through which it is easy to walk; and, in fact, fifty of our men made their way on foot there for nearly twenty de cent, & cent cinquante pas; quoy qu'à son embouchure, elle soit vn peu plus estroite: ses bords sont revestus de beaux pins, parmy lesquels on marche aisément: Comme en effet, cinquante de nos hommes, y ont fait à pied, par terre, près de vingt lieuës de chemin, depuis l'entrée de la riviere, jusques au Sault, que l'on nomme ainsi, quoy que [56] ce ne soit pas proprement vne cheute d'eau, mais seulement vn courant impetueux, remply de rochers, qui en arrestent le cours, & en rendent la navigation presque impossible, pendant trois quarts de lieuës; l'on pourra neantmoins avec le temps en faciliter le passage.

Pour le reste de la riviere, elle a du commencement vn fort beau fond, on y rencontre jusqu'à huit Isles, avant que d'arriver au bassin, qui est au pied du Sault.

Ce bassin est comme vn petit lac, d'une lieuë & demie de tour, profond de six & huit pieds; où la pesche est tres-abondante, presque en toutes saisons.

A main droite de ce bassin, en montant, se voit le fort de Saint-Louis, basti tout fraichement en ce lieu, qui est tres-avantageux [57] pour le dessein que l'on a sur les Iroquois, puisque la situation le rend presque imprenable, & le fait dominer sur toute la riviere.

Après qu'on a passé les rapides du Sault, qui durent près de trois lieuës; on voit le troisieme fort, qui termine tous ces rapides: Car l'on trouve en fuite la riviere tres-belle, & fort navigable, jusqu'au lac, dit de Champlain, vers les extremittez duquel on entre sur les terres des Iroquois Annieronns.

THE IROQUOIS COUNTRY, AND PLANS OF FORTS ON RIVER RICHELIEU.

[From the Relation of 1664-65.]

leagues, from the mouth of the river up to the Falls, so called — although [56] there is really no waterfall there, but merely a swift current, filled with rocks which impede its course and render navigation almost impossible for three-quarters of a league. Yet in time the passage can be freed from obstructions.

As for the rest of the river, it has from its source a very fine bed, in which occur as many as eight Islands before the basin below the Falls is reached.

This basin is a sort of little lake, a league and a half in circumference, and from six to eight feet deep, in which fish are very plentiful at almost any season.

At the right of this basin, going up, one sees fort Saint Louis, very recently erected on that spot; it is an extremely advantageous place [57] for the purpose in view concerning the Iroquois, since its situation renders it well-nigh impregnable, and gives it the command of the entire river.

After passing the rapids of the Falls, which extend for nearly three leagues, one sees the third fort, which marks the end of all these rapids; for thereafter the river is found to be very beautiful and easy to navigate up to the lake called Champlain, toward the end of which one enters the territory of the Annieronnon Iroquois.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL DATA: VOL. XLIX

CXV

Bibliographical particulars of the Relation of 1663-64 were given in Vol. XLVIII.

CXVI

Like particulars of the Journal des Jésuites were published in Vol. XXVII.

CXVII

In presenting the text of the Relation of 1664-65 (Paris, 1666), we follow a copy of the original Cramoisy edition in the Lenox Library—known there as the Lamoignon copy. It contains a prefatory epistle from François le Mercier to the provincial in France, dated "A Kebec le 3. Novembre 1665." No printed "Permission" appears in the volume; but the "Privilege" was "Donné à Paris au mois de Fevrier 1666." In the second line of the imprint of the title-page, "Sebastien" is erroneously printed "Seastien."

There has been some speculation about two issues of this Relation. Some copies have the following little piece inserted between the "Table" and text of the annual:

"LETTRE | DE LA R. MERE | SVPERIEVRE |
Des Religieuses Hofpitalieres | de Kebec en la
Nouuelle | France. | Du 23. Oçtobre 1665."

This letter is addressed "A Monfieur * * * * Bourgeois de Paris," and is dated on p. 10 (of its own pagination) De l'Hospital de Kebec en la Nouvelle France le 23. Octobre 1665, and signed "S. Marie de Saint Bonnaventure de Iesvs. Sup. Ind." The letter was an appeal for help in procuring necessities for the Hospital nuns and their patients at Quebec. It is evident that it was printed separately, because it has its own signature-mark and pagination. We believe that it was also distributed separately, and that its presence in some copies of the Relation was incidental—purely optional with the printers, and not a component part of the Relation proper. After the necessary contributions had been procured, it was no longer pertinent to issue the "Lettre" with the Relation, and on that account it is lacking in some copies. Furthermore, this piece is not called for in the table of contents; and the catchword on the verso of the table, sig. ã<sub>6</sub>, shows that p. 1 of the text should come directly after the leaf with the "Table."

A folded plan, measuring 18¾ by 14 in., of considerable interest, is often lacking; it should be placed in the volume between the "Table" and the text. It is entitled: "Plans des forts faicts par le Regiment Carignan Salieres sur la Riuere de Richelieu dicte autrement des Iroquois en la Nouvelle France." In the Harvard copy, this plan is bound at end of volume.

This annual forms no. 124 of Harrisse's Notes. In the Quebec reprint of 1858 the "Lettre" is not reproduced.

Collation: Title, with verso blank, 1 leaf; Le Mercier's prefatory epistle, pp. (5); blank, p. (1); "Privilege," with verso blank, pp. (2); "Table," pp. (2); text (11 chaps.), pp. 1-128. Signatures: ã in six, A-H in eights. The "Lettre" consists of sig. A in eight, and collates as follows: Half-title, with verso blank, 1 leaf; text, pp. 3-10; "Estat et Memoire des befoins, . . ." pp. 11-16. On page 16 is added a notification to the charitably disposed "Messievr̃s et Dames," that contributions for the hospital may be sent to M. Sebastien Cramoisy. There is no mispaging.

Copies of this Relation have been sold or priced as follows: Squier (1876), no. 1960, sold for $10.75; O'Callaghan (1882), no. 1243 (without the "Lettre" and folded plan), sold to Library of Parliament (Ottawa), for $21, and had cost him $15; Chadenat, of Paris, priced a copy in 1889, lacking the plan, at 200 francs; Barlow (1890), nos. 1315 (without "Lettre") and 1316 (with "Lettre"), sold for $6 and $72.50, respectively; and Quaritch (May, 1899), offered a copy, without the plan, for £4.

Copies are to be found in the following libraries; as far as possible, we state condition: Lenox, with "Lettre;" New York State Library, with "Lettre;" Harvard, without "Lettre;" Brown (private), with "Lettre;" Marshall (private), without "Lettre" or plan; Ayer (private), without "Lettre;" State Historical Society of Wisconsin, without "Lettre;" St. Mary's College (Montreal), without "Lettre;" Library of Parliament (Ottawa), without "Lettre" or plan; Laval University (Quebec), has copies both with and without "Lettre;" British Museum, with "Lettre;" and Bibliothèque Nationale (Paris); has copies both with and without "Lettre."

NOTES TO VOL. XLIX

(Figures in parentheses, following number of note, refer to pages of English text.)

1 (p. 39).—Esseigiou: a river named by Bellin (1744), Lesquemin; by Bouchette (1846), L'Essumain; in Lovell's Gazetteer, Escoumain.

2 (p. 43).—This waterfall is 80 feet in height, and gives its name at this day to the small river which forms it, Sault aux Moutons; its waters are discharged into Mille Vaches Bay, about 30 miles below the mouth of the Saguenay.

3 (p. 45).—The Portneuf River enters the St. Lawrence a little east of Mille Vaches Bay. The Betsiamites or Bersimis, still farther east, is one of the large tributaries of the St. Lawrence; it takes its name from the tribe mentioned in our text (regarding whom, see vol. xviii., note 13).

4 (p. 45).—The river here named Peritibistokou is that now known as Outardes.

5 (p. 47).—This river still bears the names given it in the Relation—Manicouagan, and Black River. It enters the St. Lawrence 27 miles below the Bersimis.

6 (p. 65).—Charles Amyot was born in 1636, his parents coming from Chartres, France, with Giffard (1635). He married (1660) Geneviève de Chavigny, by whom he had three children. Amyot was a merchant; he also obtained the fief called Vincelette, near Cap St. Ignace. He died in December, 1669.

7 (p. 67).—The Ouchestigouetch were one of the petty Montagnais tribes of the Saguenay,—perhaps that mentioned in Relation of 1643 as Oukesestigouek (vol. xxiv., p. 155). Oumamiois is another term for the Bersiamites (note 3, ante).

8 (p. 161).—Thierry Beschefer, a Jesuit from the province of Champagne, was sent to Canada in 1665. In the following year, he set out on an embassy to the Mohawks, and to the Dutch at Albany; but a sudden outbreak of Indian hostilities compelled him to turn back. In 1670–71, however, he was a missionary among the Iroquois. He was appointed superior of the Canadian missions in 1680, which office he seems to have held until at least 1687; a year later, he was prefect of classes in the College of Quebec. O'Callaghan, after citing La Hontan's mention (Voyages, ed. 1728, t. i., p. 352) of Beschefer's return to France in 1691, says that the Father died soon afterward (N. Y. Colon. Docs., vol. ix., p. 169, note). But Sommervogel states that Beschefer died at Rheims, Feb. 4, 1711.

9 (p. 161).—This regiment was recruited in Savoy (1644) by Prince de Carignan, but was, later, incorporated into the regular troops of France. When sent to Canada (1665), it was commanded by Colonel de Salières; hence its double name. The majority of both officers and privates in this regiment became colonists in Canada, as we shall see in subsequent Relations. For an account of the formation and history of this corps, see Parkman's Old Régime, pp. 181, 182; Sulte's Canad.-Fran., t. iv., pp. 36, 45-50.

10 (p. 161).—No information concerning Father Claude Bardy is available, except as given in the Journal. He remained in Canada but two years, ministering in the French settlements at and near Quebec; and was the confessor of Courcelles, the governor.

11 (p. 161).—Alexandre de Prouville, marquis de Tracy, was born in 1603. He was a lieutenant-general in the French army, and achieved notable successes against the Dutch in Cayenne, and in the adjacent islands. In November, 1663, he was appointed governor-general of all the French possessions in the Americas, and soon afterward left France to visit those regions. He did not reach Canada until June, 1665. His vigorous and resolute measures against the Mohawks brought peace to the harassed Canadian colonies, and so alarmed the savages that they did not again venture to disturb the French settlers, for years afterward. In August, 1667, Tracy returned to France, where he died three years later.

12 (p. 163).—At this point, Lalemant's handwriting ends and is succeeded by that of Le Mercier, which continues to the end of the volume (June, 1668).

13 (p. 163).—A corrupted spelling of Moulin Baude (vol. vii., note 6).

14 (p. 167).—The governor's full name was Daniel de Remy, seigneur de Courcelles. He aided Tracy in subduing the Mohawks; in 1671 he visited Lake Ontario, and planned the erection of a fort there—by which the French might control the trade of that region, and oppose a barrier to the attacks of the Iroquois. Louis XIV. approved this project; but Courcelles was obliged by failing health to return to France in 1672, and his plan was executed by his successor, Frontenac. The commission and instructions given to Courcelles are published in MSS. relat. à Nouv. France, t. i., p. 172-176.

The new intendant, Jean Baptiste Talon, was born in Picardy, in 1625. He held various government positions in France, until he was appointed (March, 1663) intendant of justice, police, and finance in the French colonies of North America. In this position he displayed great executive ability, energy, and honesty, and did much for the development and prosperity of Canada—carrying out the policy recently devised by Louis XIV. (vol. xlvii., notes 15, 21). Details of his activities are furnished in the Relation of 1667, chap. i. He sent Albanel to Hudson Bay, and St. Lussion to the upper Great Lakes, and thus opened the way for the exploration of the great Northwest. His health giving way in 1668, he returned to France; but, after two years' stay there, resumed his office in New France, where he remained until 1672, after which he held a post of honor in the king's own household. He owned several seigniories near Quebec, which were, in 1675, erected into the county of Orsainville, at his request; and thereafter he bore the title of Count d'Orsainville. The instructions given him by Colbert while he was intendant, and various memoirs of his upon the condition of affairs in Canada, its resources, etc., may be found in MSS. relat. à Nouv. France, t. i., and N. Y. Colon. Docs., vol. ix.

15 (p. 171).—Monts Pelez: now called Pointe des Monts; a mountainous promontory on the north shore of the St. Lawrence.

16 (p. 175).—"Jacques de Chambly built the fort which bore his name, and obtained (1672) the grant of adjacent lands. In 1673, he took the place of M. de Grandfontaine as commandant of the fort of Pentagoët, in Acadia, and later (1680) was appointed governor of that important post. In the same year, he was sent as governor to Grenada. His seigniorship of Chambly passed to Mme. François Hertel, his sister-in-law, a son of whom assumed the name of Chambly."—Sulte's Canad.-Fran., t. iv., p. 48.

17 (p. 175).—Pierre de Saurel (Sorel),—like Chambly, a captain in the regiment of Carignan,—a native of Grenoble, was born in 1628. In 1668, he married Catherine le Gardeur; there is no record of children born to them. In 1672, he obtained from Talon the seigniorship of Sorel, at the mouth of Richelieu River, where he had built, under Tracy's orders, the fort named Sorel. He resided there until his death (1682).

18 (p. 175).—This pension of 5,000 livres a year is the one granted the Jesuits in the year 1647, and continued from that time (vol. xxxvi., note 57).

19 (p. 179).—This was Charles le Moyne, of Montreal (vol. xxvii., note 10).

20 (p. 207).—Cf. with this list of medicines the similar lists found in old documents published, from the originals, by the noted German physician Flückiger, in Archiv der Pharmacie (Halle); one of these is the "Nördlinger Register" (1480),—see Archiv, bd. ccxi. (1877), pp. 97–115. Most of the medicines named in the text are known and more or less used in modern practice; regarding some unfamiliar appellations, the following notes may be of service.

Male incense.—A distinction was made, by old writers, in the quality of incense (a gum from Arabia, also called "oliban," produced by trees of the genus Boswellia). To the cleaner, purer, and more symmetrical lumps, they applied the term "male incense;" those of inferior quality and appearance were called "female." For information regarding incense, see Guibourt's Hist. des drogues, t. iii., pp. 516–521.

The six gums.—Although this term is not sufficient to designate the articles included therein, it is highly probable that they were among the following drugs, all of which were in use at that time. (1) Gamboge, a gum-resin secreted by Garcinia Morella, a native of Cochin China, Siam, and Cambodia (whence the name of the gum); known as early as the 13th century. (2) Guaiac, a gum produced by Guaiacum officinale, a native of the West Indies and the north coast of South America; discovered near the beginning of the 16th century; mentioned in London Pharmacopeia, 1677. (3) Elemi, a name applied, since the 15th century, to certain resinous substances used in pharmacy. Flückiger thinks that the "elemi" referred to by the older writers was the exudation of Boswellia Frereana, a tree found on the Somali Coast. (4) Mastich, the product of Pistacia Lentiscus, a native of the Mediterranean shores; collected mainly on the island of Scio; known from a very remote period. (5) Tragacanth, an exudation from the stems of several species of Astragalus; found in the mountainous regions of Western Asia, Greece, and Turkey; in use since a remote period of antiquity. (6) Gum arabic, produced by various species of Acacia, mostly natives of Africa; has been known and used since a remote historical period. (7) Benzoin, the product of Styrax Benjamin, a native of Sumatra; known since the 14th century, and for a long time highly valued in Europe, although its medicinal properties are but slight. (8) Camphor, a gum (of two somewhat different kinds) obtained from Laurus Camphora (in China and Japan), and Dryobalanops aromatica (Borneo and Sumatra); in use since the 6th century, and regarded for many centuries as a rare and precious perfume; known in Europe as a medicine, since the 12th century.

For historical and technical information regarding all these substances, see Flückiger and Hanbury's History of Drugs (2nd ed., London, 1879), pp. 83-86, 100-105, 147-153, 161-165, 174-178, 233-240, 403-409, 510-519. Other gums or gum-resins used in old formulas were sandarac, galbanum, asafoetida, and bdellium.

Plasters.—(1) Diachylon was of two kinds: simple, a decoction of iris, "oil of mucilage," and litharge; and compound, in which were added to the preceding ingredients wax, resin, turpentine, and various gums. (2) Diapalma, compounded of litharge, white vitriol, wax, and oil—and, originally, with young shoots of the palm-tree, whence its name. (3) Divinum, composed of wax, oil, myrrh, mastic, bdellium, oliban, litharge, and other substances.

Betonica.—The wood-betony (Betonica officinalis), a labiate plant; mentioned in the "Nördlinger Register."

Minium.—The red oxide of lead; used in plasters and other external applications.

White ointment.—The French name, blanc-raisin, is a corruption of blanc-rhasis, a contracted form of onguent blanc de Rhasès ("Rhasès's white ointment"); composed of white lead, white wax, and olive oil,—regarded as excellent for burns. Rhasès was the chief Arabian physician of the 10th century, a prolific writer of books; among these was one upon diseases of children, said to be the first book upon this subject.—See Felice's Encyclopédie, t. xxxi., p. 196, and t. xxxv., p. 723.

Mundificative.—Du Cange (Glossarium, t. iv., p. 575) defines this as "suitable for purging, cleansing." Felice (t. xxix., p. 648) says that this term is applied to a large class of medicines—deter-sive, digestive, desiccative, cicatrizing, and vulnerary. Plasters of this sort are especially good for ulcers.

Senna of Montpellier.—Many kinds of senna are used in medicine—obtained from various species of Cassia, mostly natives of Africa. Among those cultivated in the Nile valley were C. acutifolia (Alexandrian senna) and C. obovata—the latter introduced into Europe, and cultivated in Tuscany early in the 16th century. As Paris and Montpellier were, about 1450 to 1550, the European universities most advanced in medicine; and, as a botanical garden was founded in 1593 by the latter institution, the reference in our text renders it highly probable that the senna of Tuscany was also cultivated by the Montpellier university garden. For information regarding this drug, see Flückiger and Hanbury, ut supra, pp. 216-221.

Thanks for aid in the preparation of this note are hereby rendered to Dr. Rodney True, of the University of Wisconsin.

21 (p. 211).—Laurent Chifflet was born in Besançon in 1598, and entered the Jesuit novitiate at the age of nineteen. After becoming a priest, he taught philosophy and the Scriptures; and wrote many books of devotion, besides a grammar of the French language. He died at Anvers, July 9, 1658. The book desired by the hospital superior was doubtless his little manual entitled Deux exercices chrestiens pour les malades (Anvers, 1654).

Regarding Olier, see vol. xxi., note 4, and vol. xliii., note 9; De Sales, vol. xx., note 8.

22 (p. 219).—The Company of the West Indies was one of several corporations promoted or organized by Colbert for the purpose of exploiting the resources of the French colonial possessions—then numerous and rich. The royal edict establishing this company was dated May 28, 1664; it is published in Edits et Ordonnances (Quebec), pp. 40–48; extracts therefrom are given by Sulte in Canad. - Fran., t. iv., pp. 36–42. To the company were thus given Acadia, Newfoundland, and “the mainland from the north of Canada to Virginia and Florida, as far and as deep as they could extend into the interior.” All this was bestowed in full seigniorship and proprietorship, the king reserving only his sovereignty. The grant included a monopoly of the fur trade; but, within two years, Louis XIV. saw that this privilege was ruining the colony, and obliged the company to surrender the fur trade to the habitants—receiving therefor, in compensation, a duty upon the furs sold by the habitants. Talon saw, at the outset, the injurious effects wrought upon the colony by its subjection to this monopoly; and to his representations is probably due the final revocation (December, 1674) of the company's grant, and the consequent reunion of New France to the crown possessions. This was the end of proprietary government in the French colonies of America.
